INFLATION CURB FACES WRECK ON POLITICAL REEF

Showdown Due on Farm and Labor.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 5.—The decisive battle of the home front, a momentous combat with the hidden, stealthy but potent forces of inflation, is at hand. If our country loses this battle the effect upon its economy and upon the bread and butter of every man, woman, and child of the United States will be disastrous.

President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program is facing a crucial test. If it works out according to plan the danger of inflation will be averted.

If it fails to survive the test it will be necessary to take heroic measures to stave off a disastrous inflation that would bring runaway prices, shrivel the value of life insurance policies, savings, and government bonds and otherwise impoverish the people.

Plan Conceived in Politics.

Conceived in politics, the President's plan for preventing inflation is threatened with disaster by the political influences it invited. The program was so devised as to offend neither the farmers nor the workingmen whose votes the administration will need in the November elections. Ceilings were placed on prices except the prices of farm products, and no ceilings were placed on wages.

Now the Presidential program is caught in a cross fire between the farmers and workers. The farmers are determined to keep their prices up and to put them up further if wages are to go higher, thus increasing the cost of the manufactured articles the farmers consume.

The labor unions are demanding increased wages on the ground that the cost of living is increasing and are not disposed to rest content with present pay envelopes so long as the prices of farm products are allowed to rise.

Price Increase Permitted.

Already the increased cost of fresh fruit and of labor has burst thru the ceiling prices fixed by Price Administrator Leon Henderson for canned fruit. Mr. Henderson was compelled to permit a price above the ceiling in order to get the fruit packed.

Political considerations influenced the anti-inflation program from the moment of its inception. Politics dogged the slow course it dragged thru congress for months.

Finally price control legislation was passed in February. It placed no ceilings on wages and it provided that farm product prices should be permitted to reach 110 per cent of parity before being limited, that is to 10 per cent above the price which would give the farmer the same relative purchasing power he possessed from 1909 to 1914.

Provision Itself Inflationary.

Altho this provision in itself was inflationary and a framework for a future endless spiral of inflation, the President did not veto the bill. He signed it with a mild reservation regarding the farm product provision.

In April when he set up the price fixing machinery Mr. Roosevelt asked for seven steps to prevent inflation, none of which has been taken up to date. He asked congress to repeal the parity provision of the price legislation, and congress turned a deaf ear to the request. He declared for the stabilization of wages at existing levels, allowing only for the raising of "substandard" pay and so far the war labor board has failed to make good this part of the plan.

In characteristic manner Mr. Roosevelt essayed to nullify by indirection the farm product parity price provision of the legislation. To keep farm product prices from rising he would sell the stocks of grain and other farm products the government has bought to keep prices up.

The farm bloc in congress retaliated with measures to tie his hands. The house forbade him to sell the stocks below parity. The senate restricted the sales of 125 million bushels of wheat for feed at 85 per cent of corn parity, which would be about 83 cents a bushel. It is a deadlock between the two houses on these restrictions that put the agricultural appropriation bill on ice and left departmental employés without pay since July 1.

Rout 4 at War Plant; Suspect Sabotage Plot

Four men suspected of being saboteurs attempting to blow up the plant of the Link Belt company at 38th and Wells streets, one of the most important cogs in the nation's war production program, were detected at 3:47 a. m. Saturday. One of the four was believed wounded in an exchange of shots with a watchman.

The four escaped in an automobile after firing three shots at the watchman. They took with them a large package wrapped in brown paper which army ordnance authorities suspect contained a bomb. An investigation was begun immediately by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, ordnance plant protection officers, and Chicago police.

Hole Under Fence.

William Damrill, 5403 South Winchester avenue, a private detective, discovered the men. He said one of them had gained access to the inside of the works thru a hole dug under a high barbed-wire fence. He said the three others were on the outside of the fence and that the man inside had the large brown package.

"It was about 3:47 a. m.," Damrill told authorities. "I know because not two minutes before, I had pulled my 3:45 a. m. clock to report that all was well.

"I saw this man on the inside. The men on the outside, near an automobile, passed the large package in to him and I started toward him. He turned, passed the package out again thru the hole they'd dug, then opened fire on me.

Returns the Fire.

"He fired three shots and I immediately returned his fire, emptying my gun of its six shots. At one of them he screamed, grabbed one of his shoulders, and dropped. Before I could get to him, the men on the outside pulled him back thru the hole, put him in the car, leaped in themselves, and sped away."

Three shells from a .32 automatic pistol were found on the ground near the hole under the fence, verifying the watchman's story that three shots had been fired at him. These were preserved by FBI agents.

Police Are Summoned.

Officials of the plant called the Stanton Avenue Police station and squad 185, commanded by Sergt. Patrick J. Filan, went to work on the case.

FBI agents, who had cautioned the policemen to secrecy, refused to comment, but Maj. A. B. Pattou, plant protection officer of the Chicago ordnance district, verified the episode. Maj. Pattou had high praise for Damrill. He said his vigilance, alertness, and courage had stopped "what might well be an extension of the activities of eight German spies recently landed on the eastern coast from U-boats and who were captured by the FBI."

"Damrill deserves ranking with the coast guardsman who was responsible for the capture of the spies," Maj. Pattou said. "We will recommend he gets it."

Praise by Armstrong.

Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong, chief of the Chicago ordnance district, also said he was gratified by the watchman's work. He said the ordnance department thruout the country had been holding its breath in hopes no serious sabotage would be attempted over the Fourth of July holiday.

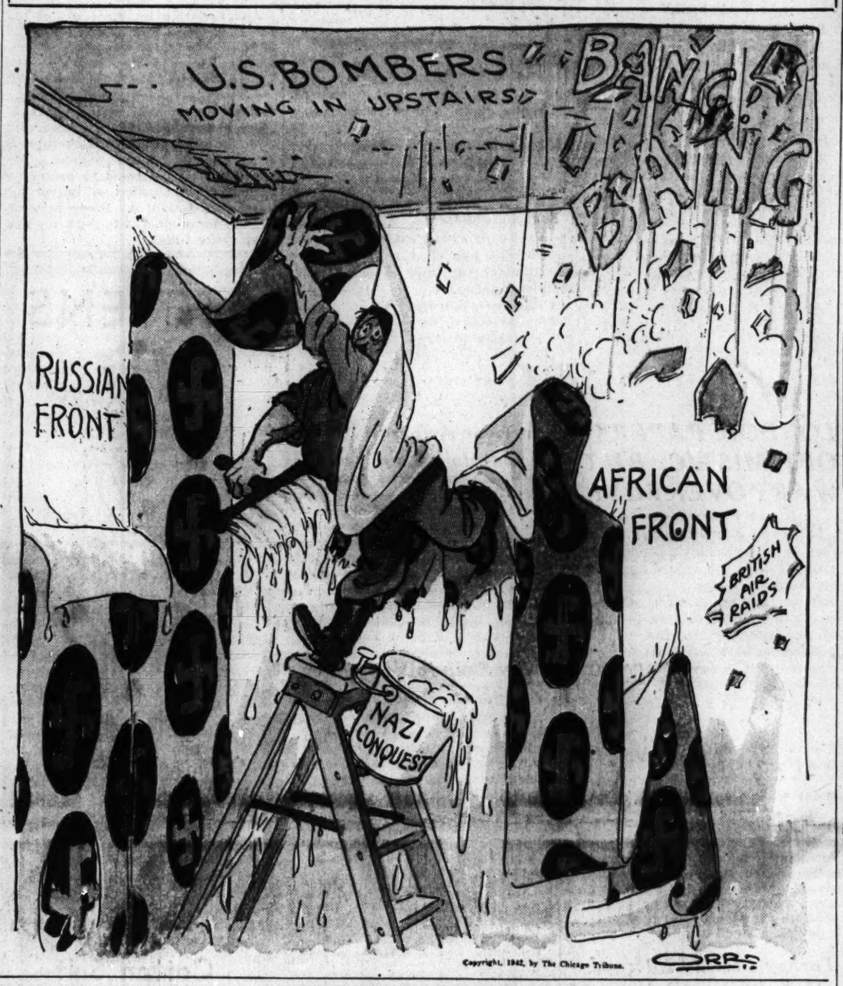
"We are glad this plot was discovered," Gen. Armstrong said, "glad that nothing serious happened in this tremendous war production area. It has always been our policy to recommended to all plants that they maintain extra vigilance over holidays and week-ends because it is a known tendency of our enemies to strike at such times, when they believe vigilance is likely to be relaxed."

CHILD OF BRITISH FLYER WHO SPED TO BEDSIDE DIES

LONDON, July 5 (AP).—Three year old June Challis, whose illness of diphtheria brought her airman father flying across the ocean from a Canadian training airfield early in June, died today after suffering a relapse.

Challis received a compassionate official shift back to Britain after being informed by cable of June's illness. Authorities arranged for his transfer in a Liberator bomber. He was rushed to the ferry command airport and put aboard the plane with a 150 pound kit, despite the regulation limiting baggage to 40 pounds.

PAPER HANGER'S JITTERS



Detective and Bandit Slain in Tavern Battle

Detective Walter Storm of the Austin police and Eugene J. Guzy, 2427 North Lotus avenue, an ex-convict on parole from Joliet penitentiary, shot and killed each other early today when Storm, off duty, walked into the tavern and liquor store at 5141-43 West North avenue while Guzy and three other gunmen were holding up the place.

Storm opened fire on Guzy and dropped him to the floor fatally wounded with four bullets in his body. The gunman turned as he fell and returned Storm's fire. Storm was struck in the head and shoulder and died as he arrived in an ambulance at St. Anne's hospital.

All Have Drawn Guns.

The four bandits entered the tavern at about 12:10 a. m., according to Lieut. Frank Walsh of the Austin station. All had drawn guns. Two remained in the tavern while two walked thru the connecting door into the liquor store. At the bar sat Richard Nicholas, 1537 North Laramie avenue, and his wife, Evelyn. They were the only customers in the place.

When the four bandits first entered the tavern, Guzy, their leader, shouted, "This is a stickup." He walked around the bar and started beating Fred Gross, 60, 3431 North Kenton avenue, the bartender, over the head with his revolver. After striking Gross half a dozen times, Guzy pushed him into a corner and took a wallet containing $20 from him. He then took $60 from the cash register.

Warns Detective.

It was at this moment that Storm, bound for his home at 4906 Wabansia avenue, only a few blocks away, walked into the place. Gross, who knew Storm, shouted:

"Look out, Walter, it's a stickup!"

Storm at once took his gun from its holster and started firing at Guzy. Lieut. Walsh said Storm had emptied his gun before Guzy, falling, turned his fire on Storm.

While Guzy and his companion had been robbing the tavern and the shooting had been going on, the other two men in the gang were in the liquor store robbing Mrs. Rose Martin, 32, in charge there, of $9.50. When Storm and Guzy fell all three others ran from the place to a waiting auto and sped away.

Detective Edward Capparelli, partner of Storm, said he and Storm had been out during their evening off seeking the very gang of men later responsible for the death of Storm. They had combed the taverns in the district, Capparelli said, because they had received a tip that the gang would show up in the vicinity last night.

Capparelli remained at the station when Storm left, he said, shortly before midnight, to go home.

Detective Storm was 35 years old and married. He is not to be confused with Walter Storms, deputy chief of detectives, assigned to the detective bureau.

Guzy had a criminal record dating back to Dec. 28, 1931. On Nov. 25, 1935, he was sentenced to Joliet penitentiary for one year to life on four charges of robbery with a gun. He was paroled on March 29, 1940. Police found his parole card in his pocket.

HEAR MEXICO SEEKS SPY ACCOMPLICE OF BUND LEADER KUNZE

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 5 (AP).—Mexican police are seeking a German spy here who is supposed to have been working with Wilhelm Kunze, German-American bund leader who was arrested and turned over to United States authorities yesterday, the newspaper Excelsior said today. Kunze and his accomplice were said to have fled the United States in a German submarine.

The newspaper also said another spy had been seized in Yucatan, Mexico, in connection with a roundup of suspicious characters which followed the sinking of two Mexican tankers near the gulf coast last week. Meanwhile, Mexican officials announced that all espionage control work has been centralized under one head, similar to the setup in the United States.

MEXICO LURES TOURISTS WITH TIRES FOR RENT

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 5 (AP).—A plan whereby American tourists can rent Mexican tires to use while in Mexico on vacation trips was announced today by a new company. Hotel proprietors, faced with a 50 per cent decrease in tourist trade since the war, formed the company. The government gave it permission to buy tires on condition it plant enough rubber trees to supply all the company's needs by 1946. A tourist also may have his own tires retreaded while he is on his trip and pick them up when returning to the United States, it was said.

Gandhi Alters Stand; Favors Yanks in India

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BOMBAY, India, July 5.—The presence of British and United States troops in India is now acceptable to Mohandas K. Gandhi, he said today in his weekly newspaper, Harijan.

He admitted that this reversal of his earlier stand will come as a jolt to his followers but justified the switch on the ground that "foreign" troops are necessary for defense of the land and are welcome so long as they leave as soon as the crisis is over.

Asks Exemption from Cost.

What he wants, Gandhi wrote, is the physical presence of these troops without their exercising any authority over the people of India who should, moreover, be exempt from the cost of maintaining them.

He said there should be a treaty with the government of a free India in which the united nations would assume full financial responsibility for the troops, whose job would consist solely of "repelling the Japanese attack and helping China."

Critics are Wrong, He Says.

Critics of his original statement deploring the arrival of United States reënforcements, who claimed that Gandhi wanted to hand the country over to the axis, were entirely on the wrong track, he said.

"If we have confidence in ourselves we need neither fear nor suspect the presence of allied troops," he wrote.

"Even with the troops remaining in India it would assuredly be the event of the century and might even be the turning point of the war if Britain were to honestly perform the act of renouncing India."

Makes Five Proposals.

Gandhi made these proposals:

1. India to become free of all financial obligations to Britain.
2. The annual drain to Britain to cease automatically.
3. All taxation to end, except that imposed by the new government of free India.
4. The "deadweight" of the all-powerful authority to be lifted.
5. "India to begin the new chapter of her national life in which nonviolence will be the predominant factor."

WAR MAPS.

Turn to the back page for a new color map of the eastern and central Mediterranean, crucial areas in the present fighting. On page 10 are news maps showing yesterday's war developments in Russia and Egypt.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 5 (AP).—Attacks by the reënforced British army of the Nile forced the Germans and Italians from their previous stabilized positions in the El Alamein sector 70 miles west of Alexandria yesterday after the axis had suffered considerable losses in men and heavy equipment.

The Germans retreated locally to the northwest after being pounded by heavy guns, constantly strafed and bombed by the RAF and South African air force, and pressed relentlessly by bayonet wielding New Zealand, Indian, and British troops.

All British lines in the 35 mile bottleneck between the Mediterranean and the Qattara depression held firmly, and the men of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck pressed their counterattack with vigor thru the day and night, front line dispatches said.

Not a General Withdrawal.

The German retreat was not a general withdrawal, but the fact that all the fighting was to the west and southwest of El Alamein was considered significant by military experts at this capital, 160 miles east of the front line.

[Another dispatch said private advices received in Berne indirectly from Rome indicated that the withdrawal of axis forces from their present advanced positions to Matruh was envisaged as imminent "while the initiative remains in axis hands rather than await the concentration of British reënforcements."]

The British headquarters communique said:

"Our land forces continued to attack the enemy yesterday in the El Alamein area. Enemy armored forces were forced to withdraw from a ridge to the south of El Alamein after a number of enemy tanks had been knocked out. Our air forces maintained a maximum effort against the enemy, and landing grounds in the El Daba area [35 miles farther west] were bombed and ground strafed."

Bombers Smash 50 Trucks.

The newly arrived heavy guns included some recently recaptured from the Germans. Bombers and fighter planes destroyed at least 50 trucks between Sidi Barrani and Gambut.

American made Kittyhawks and Tomahawks and British Hurricanes bagged 19 planes over the battleground and Malta while losing 10.

An RAF communique told of an

DIGEST OF WAR NEWS FROM MAIN BATTLE FRONTS

Latest war developments:

Twenty-four hours after the Japanese had occupied Ihwang, 80 miles south of Nanchang, Chinese forces drove them out and the Japanese now are in full retreat, Chungking reported.

Continuing attacks by the reenforced British army of the Nile have driven axis forces from their previous stabilized positions in the El Alamein sector 70 miles west of Alexandria, Cairo reported. The British moved additional heavy guns into action.

Russian troops repelled incessant German tank and infantry attacks on the Kursk front, Moscow reported, but admitted the Germans had driven a wedge into one of the sectors of the Belgorod front, between Kursk and Kharkov. Berlin claimed that German forces pushing eastward beyond the Ukraine after gains of 100 miles or more had driven spearheads to the Don river "on a broad front."

U.S. Air Attack on Nazis Called 'Precision Job'

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 5.—Except for the bare facts of the participation of American units as such in the royal air force daylight raids on Holland yesterday there is little so far that can be written regarding the American air force in Britain.

Its presence here has been known for some time and it also has been announced officially that American units in increasing numbers will cooperate in a large scale air offensive. Prime Minister Churchill announced that was part of a strategy calculated not only to relieve German pressure on Russia but to bring Germany to her knees.

Preliminary to Second Front.

Significance is attached to the fact that the first official American participation was in a daylight raid. The advantages of a daylight raid, despite the higher percentage of losses in such an operation, are in locating targets and precision bombing.

A large scale bombing offensive, if it is to be sufficiently effective to cripple the enemy's defenses as well as destroy his war potential by smashing key industrial centers and communications, necessitates precision bombing. Therefore, as preliminary to a second front, it is reasonable to assume that this question has been carefully thought out by those detailing the plans for a second front.

The American air force here is observing the same rules as the RAF in regard to what is permissible to publish. The names of those in the two crews missing were withheld so that relatives can be informed before they read of their loss in newspapers.

American Bases Secret.

Also, American pilots are not permitted to give interviews to the press until a full report of their action is digested by general headquarters.

The location of airports from which American flyers are operating will continue to be a secret.

News regarding the effective strength of the American air force operating from the British Isles probably will have to await operations which in themselves will be the proof. All that can be said now is that there are not nearly as many American planes and pilots as are wanted, but which are expected to pour into Britain within the next few months.

'Reach Don River'

BERLIN, July 5 [from German broadcasts]—(AP)—German and allied axis forces lunging eastward beyond the Ukraine after spectacular gains of 100 miles or more have driven spearheads to the Don river "on a broad front," the German high command said today. Its communique said these thrusts followed a break thru soviet positions between Kharkov and Kursk, and the Nazi press immediately proclaimed that "the long expected big push now has been started." Russian tank counterattacks were reported repulsed with heavy losses and the high command said 51 soviet planes were shot down.

[A Vichy, France, radio report heard in London said that the Germans had crossed the Don river at "several points."]

MOSCOW, July 6 [Monday]—(AP).—Russian armies fighting fiercely against the Kursk offensive in the Ukraine by German forces estimated at more than 150,000 men repelled incessant tank and infantry attacks at heavy losses to the Nazis yesterday, the soviet command announced officially today as the Kursk battle went into its ninth day.

Just below the Kursk front, however, the Germans succeeded in driving a wedge in one of the sectors of the Belgorod front despite heavy losses, the Russians acknowledged.

The soviet bureau of information reported that the Red army in the Kursk fighting "repelled uninterrupted enemy attacks, the enemy sustaining heavy losses."

Attack on Nazi Flank.

"On one of the sectors of the Belgorod direction, despite heavy losses, the Germans managed to make a wedge in our defenses," the bureau's midnight communique said.

"In a flanking attack our infantry and tank men inflicted heavy losses upon the enemy. Hundreds of dead enemy soldiers and officers remained on the battlefield."

Hurl Enemy Back.

The midnight communique indicated that the Russians still were holding their lines against the Hitler drive aimed ultimately at the Don river valley and the Caucasus and that the German legions were making scant progress in the fighting on the Belgorod sector.

Battlefront dispatches earlier said that fierce Russian counterattacks have hurled back the Nazis on two critical sectors and indicated that the Kursk offensive had stalled.

The Germans were described as using five infantry, four tank, and two motorized divisions in the Kursk offensive, whose immediate objective apparently was to break the Moscow-Rostov communications thru Voronezh province.

Recapture Four Points.

There again, the Russians added, the Red army counterattacked and rolled back the Germans, recapturing four inhabited points.

Altho the Germans have not yet taken any major objective, the situation appeared more serious than at any time since the Nazis launched their offensive east of Kursk on June 28 and expanded their push thru Belgorod and Volchansk.

Their objectives appeared to be to take Staroi Oskol on the Oskol river 80 miles southeast of Kursk, Novo Oskol, 60 miles northeast of Belgorod, cross the Oskol river paralleling the border of Kursk and Voronezh provinces, and march on the city of Voronezh, a vital communications center linking central and southern Russia, 130 miles east of Kursk.

Less Success at Volchansk.

The Germans appeared to be having less success with the offensive in the Volchansk sector. Amid constant ground and air battles they were re-

SEEK 'GOLF BAG SAM' HUNT FOR SLAYING QUIZ

Sam Hunt, the Capone gangster who became known as Golf Bag Sam after his arrest in 1930 when he was found carrying a sawed off shotgun in a golf bag, was sought by police yesterday for questioning about the slaying of Mike Wade, 54 years old, 570 Arbor Vitae road, Winnetka, a Negro houseman.

Sam Hunt.

Wade was shot early yesterday at Cermak road and Indiana avenue. The man who shot him was driving an expensive new car bearing a license which police said they traced to Hunt's wife, Patricia. The police found no one at the Hunt home, 2221 East 68th street, but waited there until a maid came to get some of Mrs. Hunt's belongings. The maid said Mrs. Hunt was in the apartment of friends who live in a building at 210 East Pearson street.

Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Central police ordered Mrs. Hunt brought to the station and announced after preliminary questioning that she would be held for further inquiry about her husband. She is 29 years old.

A Racetrack Gambler.

Duffy and David Leeds, assistant state's attorney, said Mrs. Hunt told them she had not seen her husband since 10:30 a. m. Saturday morning. She said she returned home about 9:30 p. m. Saturday and parked the car in the street. Her husband has a duplicate set of keys, she said, and sometimes drives her car. Asked about his occupation, Mrs. Hunt said he is a racetrack gambler.

Wade and his wife, Hilda, and another Negro couple, James and Mary Baxter, were in a northbound automobile on South Park way when another car bumped them. The Wades and Baxters, all of whom are employed in Winnetka, had driven to Chicago's south side to have a doctor treat Wade's sprained ankle, the survivors told Capt. Duffy. Then they visited a tavern and a birthday party and were on their way home when the shooting occurred.

Driver Forced to Curb.

"What do you mean cutting in front of me," shouted the driver of car which had bumped into the car driven by Baxter.

Baxter attempted to escape from the car bearing the license issued to Mrs. Hunt, but was curbed at Cermak road and Indiana avenue. The two colored men were forced to get out of their car. Several witnesses told of having heard loud and angry imprecations, then some shots. Wade was mortally wounded. Baxter was shot in his hip. Their assailant then returned to his car and drove away. Another man was with him.

Hunt's police record showed he had been arrested four times on charges of carrying concealed weapons—twice at the scene of shootings and while the smell of smoke was in the air. However he served only one sentence in the House of Correction.

LONDON PAPERS OPTIMISTIC, BUT WARY OVEREGYPT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 6 [Monday].—Headlines in this morning's papers reflect growing optimism regarding military operations in Egypt.

However, the News Chronicle struck a note of caution in its editorial. Referring to the view expressed by authoritative London circles that "it is too early to start to be exultant," it declared:

"Exultant? It most certainly is. If after the inexplicable defeat that befell us in Libya we are delivered from disaster in Egypt—and as yet that is not finally assured—it will be a matter not for exultation but for thanking God on our knees."

Similarly the Daily Sketch was wary. It warned that "Rommel is momentarily held in his dash toward Alexandria. It is just such a pause as followed the same Rommel's smash across France with his armored divisions two years ago. Our prayer is that we are able to put into practice what we learned in France."

BAN TRANSPORT OF EXPORT GOODS WITHOUT PERMIT

Washington, D. C., July 5 (AP).—The government announced today that beginning Aug. 15 large shipments of goods intended for export to other American republics cannot be moved to United States ports without a permit.

The action, apparently intended to augment methods for preventing congestion of export goods at harbors, was announced jointly by the state department, board of economic warfare, war shipping administration and office of defense transportation.

The order applies to shipments weighing 2,240 tons or more of dry cargo, not covering tank steamer shipments. Applications for shipping space must be filed with the board of economic warfare. Such applications will be considered only when the goods are ready for shipment or can be moved from the factory or warehouse within three weeks after application.

UNITED NATIONS WAR ACTIVITIES SHOW CANCELED

Appropriation by the army of the International Amphitheater, 41st and Halsted streets, for war purposes yesterday caused cancellation of the United Nations War Exposition which had been tentatively scheduled for the auditorium in August. Charles F. Glore, chairman of the exposition, said that no other Chicago structure is large enough for the exhibit. The exposition was planned to present a factual demonstration of united nations' war activities. Proceeds were to have been donated to the army and navy relief funds.

27 JAP BOMBERS RAID AIRDROME ON NEW GUINEA

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 6 [Monday]—(AP).—Twenty heavy Japanese bombers escorted by six Zero fighters attacked an allied airdrome in the Port Moresby area of New Guinea yesterday and were followed by a second wave of seven bombers, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today. The allies suffered only light damage and casualties, the communique said.

Allied air units made raids on the island of Timor, on Lae, and Salamaua in New Guinea and on Florida Island in the Solomon group. Large fires were started at Lae and Salamaua, where one enemy fighter was shot down and four damaged. The attacks on Timor and Florida Island, the communique said, were light.

PURGERS SEEK RUBBER STAMP CONGRESS: TAFT

Senator Denounces Union for Democratic Action.

New York, July 5 [Special].—Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.] today denounced the Union for Democratic Action for its current campaign to purge congressmen who fought to keep the United States out of war.

Sen. Robert A. Taft.

He charged the group is the outgrowth of a Communist front organization seeking to foist a rubber stamp congress on the American people.

Sen. Taft crossed rapiers with Dr. Frank Kingdon, president of the union, in a debate on the Wake Up America forum broadcast. The question argued was whether congressmen should be defeated next fall because of their pre-Pearl Harbor attitudes on intervention.

Cites 1940 Pledges.

"The Union for Democratic Action urges the defeat of certain congressmen because they voted against the lend-lease bill, the draft, or the repeal of the neutrality law," Taft said.

"However, these congressmen merely were following their pledges made in 1940. Many of their constituents then were opposed to our getting into the war."

He said that President Roosevelt in October, 1940, had asserted that the country was not arming itself for intervention in a foreign war.

"Every charge made against the noninterventionist congressmen can be leveled also against President Roosevelt," the senator said.

Explains Prewar Stand.

Taft explained the noninterventionist stand before Pearl Harbor by declaring that he and other members of congress sought to avoid war because they sought also to avoid the taking of lives, the destruction of life plans of millions of Americans, the disruption of industry, and the imposition of Fascist-like governmental control.

He added, however, that since the nation now is at war it must concentrate on destroying Hitler.

The senator declared that a successful purge would create national disunity and charged that the move appeared to be an attempt "to alienate the determination which every American now feels for the complete and utter defeat of the axis powers."

Lists Two Other Dangers.

He said such a purge would be fatal because it would stifle criticism essential to the correction of war errors and would mean the acceptance by congress of "a policy of 100 per cent internationalism in the making of the peace."

He acknowledged that America must accept many postwar international obligations, but insisted that many proposals which would appear after the war would need independent scrutiny.

Taft emphasized his belief that the nation could have remained out of war by arming itself so thoroly that no nation would have attempted to invade it. He reaffirmed his confidence that the Atlantic and Pacific oceans are natural barriers which, backed by a powerful air force, would have deterred any enemy.

Sees Peril to Democracy.

"I still maintain that had we had 1,000 airplanes and six or eight air bases in the Philippines we would not have lost there," he said.

Assailing the union's purge as a campaign for a congress which will rubber stamp President Roosevelt's wishes, Taft said:

"Why should the marked congressmen be purged because they disagree on the way to maintain peace? Such a purge is dangerous to the continuance of democratic government. It would result in a rubber stamp congress. It would punish those congressmen for exercising independent thought and action. Congress would be subservient to the President."

Dr. Kingdon replied that the union's program is not a purge but contemplates the defeat of congressmen whom he charged with lacking the intelligence and foresight to understand the implications of the present war and to support social reform. He assailed those congressmen who opposed intervention before Pearl Harbor because he said they believed the United States was not the inevitable goal of axis aggression.

Dr. Kingdon denied there are Communists in his organization, declaring it was formed by anti-Communist liberals.

MILDRED BORST.

New York, July 5 [Special].—William Guggenheim's four showgirl Cinderellas studied bad news today. The fortune which the 72 year old member of the famous mining family left them, at first believed worth $1,000,000 and later estimated at but $8,000, had skidded down to $3,632.

With further deductions scheduled to be passed on by Surrogate James A. Foley next Monday, it seemed highly possible that the estate might drop below zero, leaving nothing for division among the four girl companions of Guggenheim's old age.

The four—Lillyan Andus of Hollywood, the Miss America of 1929; Mildred Borst, ex-Earl Carroll beauty; Mary Alice Rice, a Ziegfeld alumna, and Florence Sullivan—will have an opportunity, however, to appear at the hearing and protest the executor's account and further proposed disbursements.

BUDGET SLASH IS IMPERATIVE, GREEN WARNS

Reminds Bureau Heads of Decreasing Revenue.

Lean years during which a policy of belt tightening and frugality must be pursued by the state government were foreseen yesterday by Gov. Dwight H. Green. He cautioned chiefs of state agencies and departments to prepare now to slash costs in the next two year fiscal period which starts July 1, 1943.

Emphasizing that it is not too early to plan ahead, Gov. Green in a letter to state officials, including elected officers, requested them to begin preparing their budget estimates on forms which will be issued soon by the department of finance. He stressed the serious need for drastic economies in a war period when state revenues are declining.

Some Revenues Dwindling.

The governor said it is imperative to anticipate the general financial problems which the state government must meet and to formulate broad policies in planning expenditures. He said the treasury balance appears quite favorable, but that certain revenues are dwindling. He outlined this prospect of state revenues:

1. Gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees will slump in the next three years.

2. A severe decline in the retailers' occupation tax [sales tax] appears inevitable. Retail sales will sink to a low level with the gradual disappearance of durable and other consumer goods from dealers' shelves because of war curbs on production.

"Must Live Within Income."

"Despite these highly uncertain revenue conditions," Gov. Green said, "Illinois must live within its income and must avoid the imposition of new or increased taxes. The public is paying without complaint the greatly increased federal taxes required by the war effort. It is clearly our responsibility at this time to see that the state government places no additional burden upon the taxpayers.

"To this end, state spending must be limited to activities which are absolutely essential, and those activities must be carried on without waste or inefficiency."

Policy Outlined.

The governor suggested the following policies to guide the state officials in preparing their budget estimates:

1. No new operation or expansion of existing activities should be considered unless related to the war effort.

2. Present operations and organization should be scrutinized to eliminate or curtail functions which might be restricted.

3. Purchases of new land or extension of existing plants should not be contemplated except to relieve dangerous overcrowding in institutions.

4. Repair and maintenance should be kept to the minimum necessary to protect health and safety and to safeguard the state's investment.

5. Expenditures for equipment should be limited to amounts needed to replace units essential to operation.

6. Current operating expenses must be cut substantially except for support and maintenance of institutional inmates.

This program will be followed by the governor, the department of finance, and the budgetary commission in reviewing department estimates for incorporation into the state budget.

MODEL TRAINS HAVE COLLISION WITH PRIORITIES

Chicago model railroad builders are having priority troubles. They can't get enough metal for tracks on which to operate their trains. To alleviate the shortage, the Model Railroad Builders Guild of Chicago will sponsor a meeting in the Hotel Sherman Friday to promote the coöperative building of 75 feet of track on a portable platform. Stephen M. Paddock, guild president, said the track then would be moved around to various meetings of the organization later this year so that the members handicapped by the priorities could still operate their trains.

BRITISH KEEP UP COUNTER-BLOWS AT AXIS IN EGYPT

Win Some Enemy Posts in Drive from Alamein.

attack on an enemy convoy off Sapienza Island, which was hauling up supplies and reënforcements to the axis. Sapienza is a Greek island west of Cape Matapan.

"One ship was hit by a torpedo and left enveloped in fire and smoke," said the communique.

Fourth Day of Attack.

It was the fourth day in which the army of the Nile had fought Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel to a standstill, halting for the moment at least the grave peril to the naval base at Alexandria and the Suez canal which lies 169 miles to the east.

During the night enemy air raids over Alexandria and the Suez canal area were broken up. Two German bombers were shot down by night fighters over Alexandria and three were destroyed in the canal area.

The fighting on the stony coastal desert saw each side trying desperately for a knockout. The British gained strength as a steady flow of reënforcements and new material moved up to the front lines.

The British apparently had drawn men from the 9th army of Palestine and Syria to replace the staggering losses in the disastrous opening phases of the offensive near Tobruk.

Navy Flyers Aid RAF.

AT BRITISH NAVAL AIRCRAFT HEADQUARTERS IN THE EGYPTIAN DESERT, July 5 (AP).—British navy fighter pilots, working in close coöperation with the RAF, struck a heavy blow at Nazi motorized equipment south of El Alamein today, destroying hundreds of trucks and other motor transport.

Navy airmen, who illuminated targets for the RAF bombers by dropping flares, also dropped bombs, they reported upon returning to desert headquarters.

Pilots who made the attack in darkness said they spotted a concentration of 3,500 axis trucks near El Alamein.

"Bombs fell smash into the mass of lorries," one pilot said. "We undoubtedly destroyed hundreds of lorries and hundreds more were put out of commission. We gave the enemy a pasting at El Daba. One explosion was followed by fire which could be seen more than 50 miles. We probably hit a big ammunition dump."

Move Up All Reserves.

BERLIN, July 5 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—British resistance in North Africa "has stiffened to a certain extent," Dienst aus Deutschland acknowledged tonight, quoting well informed Berlin military circles in a relatively detailed German version of recent developments there.

The Nazi commentary said the British "obviously moved all available reserves up to the front in order to offer a tenacious resistance."

The commentary also "explained" the recent Berlin news reports of a "German break-thru in the El Alamein positions" [denied by all other available dispatches] by saying that the Germans "encountered a second fortification which the British had built in the immediate vicinity" of the first line.

"The British were launching their counterattacks from this second fortified line," Dienst said. "All such attacks were repelled by the Germans."

Admit Stiffened Resistance.

ROME, July 5 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—British resistance in the El Alamein sector 70 miles west of Alexandria has stiffened and the high command said fighting raged all day yesterday on the front southeast of that desert position.

United States and British submarines were reported concentrated in the Mediterranean to disrupt axis supply routes.

Press accounts said the Italians and Germans were "bringing up all necessary fighting means to overcome the British."

The British were said to have mustered all available tanks, even those in workshops in Alexandria and Cairo.

In the eastern Mediterranean an Italian torpedo-carrying plane was said to have badly damaged a 5,000 ton enemy merchant ship.

Both Italian and German accounts said the British air base of El Kantara in the Suez canal area was attacked and mines laid in the Suez canal. Both said 19 enemy planes were destroyed yesterday and that 14 others were shot down over Malta.

TYDINGS PRAISES BRITISH ARMY'S STAND IN EGYPT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 5.—Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] today praised the British 8th army, fighting in Egypt, for its stand against the axis forces following the fall of Tobruk. He said the holding of Field Marshal Rommel's army, even tho it is not defeated, will save the allies from a great disaster and prevent the enemy from attaining one of its long sought objectives—the capture of Alexandria and the Suez canal, preparatory to a Japanese and Nazi junction in India.

In a radio speech, the senator also termed as splendid the work of the British government in strengthening its African forces with men and equipment enough to have made it seem improbable that Egypt would be invaded. That the efforts were upset by the loss of Tobruk does not detract from the credit due the British leaders, he said.

Tydings declared it is felt in this country that Winston Churchill, British prime minister, is not to blame for the Tobruk disaster since his critics could not show that he or his cabinet had been guilty of dereliction of duty.

RAF Promises Churchill to 'Help Clear Africa of Foe'

New York, July 5 (AP).—Air Chief Marshal Sir William Tedder, commander of the RAF in the middle east, told Prime Minister Churchill today that "we are all resolved to fight our utmost and more to assist the army to clear Africa of the enemy," the British radio reported in a broadcast heard here. Tedder was replying to a message of encouragement dispatched yesterday by the prime minister.

ONE LESS WORRY FOR U. S. ARMY—'SARGE' IS BACK

But with Dust of Libyan Desert in His Hair.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 5 (AP).—His shaggy gray hair powdered with the dust of the desert, Master Sergt. George L. Seastrom, United States army, strolled into the American ordnance office here recently, saluted and addressed himself to officers who had been worrying over his whereabouts for weeks and unofficially had given him up for lost.

"Hell," said the sarge, "that's nothing to be concerned about."

Everybody was relieved, because the lanky, raw-boned professional soldier, 20 years in the army, is one of the best of the American tank experts who have been helping the British with their American-made models. The officers listened eagerly to his story.

"Dog Tag" Found in Desert.

Not all of it was made public—for example how it happened that Seastrom's "dog tag" [identification disc] had been found in the desert by the British and turned over to American authorities on June 15. Seastrom then had been in the desert on his own for one month, nursing the tank engines he has come to love like babies.

After the tag had been turned in, usually an ominous sign, messages to the roving technician had gone unanswered and Seastrom was unofficially considered lost. Meanwhile Seastrom was deep in the western desert, helping the British with their tanks and winning praise for valorous acts over and above the line of his technical duty.

Repairs Tank in Battle.

During one battle, a British crew was unable to start their "General Grant" tank, so Seastrom worked his way forward, put things right and returned. Later he was in charge of a group of British noncoms inspecting tanks at a reception point west of Fort Capuzzo on the Libyan-Egyptian border.

Seastrom, about 40 years old, doesn't know exactly where he was born but he thinks it was some now extinct lumber camp near the Wisconsin-Minnesota border. He has a wife and two children, believed to be living at Tacoma, Wash.

He came to the middle east a year ago in the first group of Americans to teach the British how to operate and service the American made tanks.

Navy Officer Gives Life to Fire at Attacker.

The submarine sinking of two more American merchant vessels—one of them a large ship which was crowded with survivors of two previous torpedo attacks—was announced yesterday. One hundred and ten men were aboard the big ship, and 18 lost their lives and 92 were rescued. The sinkings brought to 339 the number of vessels lost in American and adjacent waters since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press. Since then 293 have been sunk near the shores of the United States, and the toll has risen to 1,848 known dead, 1,793 missing, and 9,642 rescued. Details of the new attacks follow:

OFFICER GIVES HIS LIFE

AN EAST COAST PORT, July 5 (AP).—A big American merchantman, crammed beyond lifeboat capacity with the survivors of two torpedoed vessels, was sunk June 15 near the northern coast of South America. A navy officer gave his life to fire at the attacking submarine.

Capt. Eric Johansen had halted the ship seven hours earlier to pick up 63 crewmen adrift in lifeboats, and 110 men in all were on the ship when the first torpedo struck it at 9:21 p. m.

Eighteen were lost, including nine of those who had survived the previous sinkings, six of the ship's regular crew, and three navy gunners.

92 Survivors Rescued.

Ninety-two survivors, including 30 crew members and 8 gunners were picked up after 18 hours adrift in overcrowded lifeboats and liferafts.

An order to abandon ship was given immediately after the torpedo struck, but Capt. Johansen, First Officer George Collings of New York City, and the radioman and the navy officer in charge of the gun crew remained aboard and were lost. Second Officer Harlan Soeten of Philadelphia, Pa., said he did not know the name of the radioman and knew the navy officer only as Lieut. Kammerer of Philadelphia.

"That lieutenant was a real man," Soeten said. "After we had left the ship he managed to fire three shots at the sub with the help of the first officer, who didn't know anything about the gun. The lieutenant had told his own men to leave, and he stood there by the rail and wished them good luck as they jumped overboard."

14 OF CREW RESCUED

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, July 5.—The United States freighter Norlandia was sunk Friday night by a submarine 26 miles off the northern coast of this Caribbean republic and 14 survivors, including the captain, arrived last night.

The captain said eight more of the crew of 30 were adrift in a second lifeboat. The fate of the eight other crew members was not known. The Norlandia, a 2,689 ton ship, was owned by the Merchant and Miners' company. Her home port was Baltimore, Md.

War Developments in China

(Story in adjoining column.)

RED WRITER DIES COVERING SIEGE OF SEVASTOPOL

MOSCOW, July 5 (AP).—Eugene Petrov, 40 years old, one of the best known newspapermen and popular novelists of the soviet union, died while covering the siege of Sevastopol, it was announced today.

As correspondent for the soviet information bureau, the army newspaper Red Star, and Pravda since the beginning of the German-Russian war, Petrov's front line dispatches were read widely in Russia and the United States. He was co-author of several novels, including "Twelve Chairs" and "The Golden Calf."

He was the second soviet information bureau official to die in service. Alexander Afinogenov, celebrated playwright, was killed in December during an air raid on Moscow.

HEAR NAZIS SEND WAR EQUIPMENT TO GREEK PORTS

ANKARA, Turkey, July 4 [delayed]—(AP).—Unconfirmed reports reaching the Turkish capital today said the Germans were bringing mechanized equipment down thru the Balkans to seaports near Athens where ships were concentrated to carry reënforcements, if necessary, to the battle of Egypt, by way of Tobruk. It was believed, however, that the reënforcements would be withheld pending outcome of the present battle of El Alamein. Travelers have observed German naval movements among the southern Greek islands in the last few days.

Reds Say Caucasus Oil Wells Exceed War Needs

MOSCOW, July 5 (AP).—Russia's central Caucasian oil fields in June produced "scores of thousands of tons" in excess of their charted national defense program, Tass news agency said today. Output was up sharply over May. Besides supplying the Russian military uninterruptedly, the wells also have produced sufficient quantities for mechanized farming, the agency said.

CHURCHILL PROMISES CHINA 'ALL MATERIAL HELP IN OUR POWER'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 5.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill sent a message to the people of China today as the fifth anniversary [July 7] of the Japanese attack on their country neared.

"The war in Europe and the middle east is as much a part of the defense of China as the war in the far east is part of the defense of Britain," he said. "We are determined to extend to the Chinese people every material, moral, and spiritual help in our power."

He also asserted that when the war is won the present British and Chinese association will have laid the foundations of lasting friendship based on mutual confidence and respect.

FALL OFF STEPS FATAL.

Otto Lunde, 55 years old, a bartender, 3307 Diversey avenue, was killed yesterday when he fell over a bannister to the ground from steps leading to his second floor apartment.

CHINESE RETAKE TOWN DAY AFTER ITS LOSS TO JAPS

Report Enemy in Retreat; Tiger Base Raided.

CHUNGKING, China, July 6 [Monday]—(AP).—Japanese troops who occupied the Kiangsi province town of Ihwang, 80 miles south of Nanchang, three days ago, have been driven out and today are in full retreat, the Central news agency said.

The Chinese, in a fierce counterattack, recaptured the town less than 24 hours after the Japanese had occupied it, the agency said. Its recapture was pictured as a blow to Japanese plans to trap large Chinese forces in the bulge of central Kiangsi.

In south China, the agency reported, Chinese forces successfully raided Japanese positions near Yuntam, a Canton-Hankow railway town about 40 miles north of Canton. The Chinese killed and wounded some 300 Japanese and captured a large quantity of war supplies.

Japs Bomb Base at Night.

Meanwhile, Japanese planes made night raids early Saturday and Sunday on Hengyang, Hunan communications center, after American airmen had smashed two daylight raids in a spectacular windup to their AVG career.

Enemy night raids, rare in five years of war in China, represented a new and cautious phase in Japan's aerial warfare prompted by defeats Friday and Saturday when the "Flying Tigers" shot down six planes.

From these fights the American airmen returned to their bases for the last times as members of the American Volunteer Group and those who elected to remain in China joined up with the newly established 23d pursuit group, United States air forces, and were sworn in today.

Cling to 25 Mile Gap.

On the Kiangsi province front, an army spokesman said Chinese forces also were thwarting Japanese efforts to close a pincers along the Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line.

Despite a Japanese claim five days ago that they had conquered all the rail line, the spokesman said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's men remained in control of a 25 mile wide gap.

Stung by the stubborn Chinese resistance the Japanese were reported to have launched a new push southward toward the Kiangsi-Fukien border where they apparently hope to find the going easier.

Dispatches received here indicated the invader was nearing the border in the Kwangfeng area of eastern Kiangsi for the first overland thrust into coastal Fukien province since the war started nearly five years ago. Heretofore, the Japanese have relied on sea-borne incursions.

The first big objective of an enemy backdoor drive into Fukien probably would be Pucheng, highway and industrial center to which Chiang has moved many factories from occupied territory.

Claim Heavy Casualties.

BERLIN, July 5 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—More than 6,700 Chinese soldiers were killed and another 800 were captured in a five day battle against the 4th Chungking army in a sector of the Ihwang river in eastern Kiangsi province, a DNB dispatch from Tokio reported tonight.

Costa Ricans Protest Ship Sinking; Attack Axis Shops

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, July 5 (AP).—Eighty-three business and other establishments of Italians, Germans, and Spanish Nationalists in this Central American capital were damaged last night in a demonstration of protest against the submarine torpedoing of the United States freighter San Pablo. More than 50 persons were injured before order was restored. Twenty-three Costa Rican stevedores died in the holds of the ship as it went down at its dock from three hits last Thursday night at Puerto Lemon.

3 NAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN IN RAIDS ON MALTA

VALETTA, Malta, July 5 (AP).—One German bomber and two fighters were shot down and several others were damaged over Malta during the last 24 hours, it was reported tonight.

Bombs fell over a wide area during three raids last night. Two attacks were made on an airdrome, one this morning and the second in the afternoon. It was during the second attack that the two fighters were destroyed. While chasing these fighters to the sea, the communique said, a pilot attacked a formation of German bombers and destroyed one.

Raid Alarm in Palestine.

HAIFA, Palestine, July 5 (AP).—This British eastern Mediterranean port had a short air raid alarm today which sent ground defenses into action. No bombs were dropped, however.

RUSSIANS REPEL GERMAN ATTACKS ON KURSK FRONT

Inflict Heavy Losses as Battle Enters 9th Day.

ported to have driven wedges into some sectors of the Red army line, but failed to develop their success.

The gains were made by tank columns numbering as many as 200 machines.

The Kalinin front was the most active of those farther north. The Russians have reported the repulse of German drives in that area, but said the enemy is steadily bringing reserves of troops and artillery, including the heaviest guns.

[The Germans said air raids were made by day on Russian troop camps in the Lake Ilmen area, south of Leningrad, and by night on communications west of Moscow. Siege guns before Leningrad were reported to have shelled war industries in the city.]

The Germans were using aerial transport largely, despite clouds and rain. Forty transport planes were reported detected landing simultaneously at a single enemy airdrome.

Claim Six Ships Sunk.

BERLIN, July 5 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command reported today that six ships were sunk and 10 damaged yesterday in an air and submarine assault on a Russia bound allied convoy in arctic waters between Norway's north cape and Spitzbergen.

A communique said the sunken ships totaled 36,000 tons, including a 7,000 ton tank laden American transport. It listed four ships of 24,000 tons destroyed by planes and the other two by submarines.

[Other German sources said nine ships were sunk, but there was no confirmation of either of these claims.]

Returning to War

Air Speed Trophy Winner Battles Nazis Above Suez

CAIRO, Egypt, July 5 (AP).—One of the flyers who brought down German bombers over the Suez canal area last night was Wing Comm. George H. Stainforth, winner of the famous Schneider trophy in 1932. At 44 years he is the oldest active fighter pilot in the RAF. The Vickers Supermarine plane with a Rolls Royce motor, with which Stainforth won the trophy, later was developed into the speedy Hurricane fighter-bomber.

SCRAP HEAP GETS FAMOUS RELICS OF NAVY BATTLES

The Great Lakes naval training station yesterday gathered up 18,000 pounds of old guns and other weapons which saw duty in previous wars or were seized as booty from enemy ships and contributed it to the scrap heap to provide vital ingredients in the manufacture of steel for new fighting implements in the war.

Among the weapons, which had been on display, were many which had been fired in the Spanish-American war. One relic from that war was a Hotchkiss semi-automatic three pounder, recovered from the famous Maine, which sank in Havana harbor in 1898.

Donate Two German Rifles.

There were also three 25 mm. Nordenfelt guns, captured by sailors under Adm. George Dewey in Manila bay on May 1, 1898.

The scrap heap also received two German naval rifles from the Prinz Eitel Friederich and Kronprinz Wilhelm, two German warships interned at Norfolk, Va., in April, 1915.

50 Cannon Balls in Scrap.

Among the obsolete American equipment were three 47 mm. Hotchkiss revolving cannons from the U. S. S. Yorktown [1895-'98], three Thorncroft depth charge projectors ["Y" guns] used by the navy in fighting submarines in the last war, several "ash can" depth charges, and 50 ancient cannon balls.

The rubber scrap collection drive in Chicago will be stimulated today and tomorrow by a task force of high school youths who will visit 200 loop buildings in search of old rubber articles. They also will distribute pamphlets urging more energetic coöperation in the drive.

RUSSIANS GRATEFUL FOR CHICAGO LARD; GET U. S. SUGAR, TOO

MOSCOW, July 5 (AP).—"Please tell your Americans how grateful an old Russian lady is for their nice lard." So said 86 year old Vera Polikarpovna Shirokova to American newspaper men after the product had been placed on sale in Moscow's stores.

The lard, as well as planes, tanks, trucks, jeeps, field telephones, and other equipment, was part of the aid the United States engaged to send to Russia.

Shipped from Chicago, the lard is procurable with meat tickets from ration cards and is highly popular among soviet housewives. American granulated sugar also has appeared on some soviet tables.

SAYS REDS IN U. S. USE RUSS VALOR TO FURTHER AIMS

New York, July 5 [Special].—Abraham Cahan, for 41 years editor of the Jewish Daily Forward, largest Jewish daily in the world, today assailed American Communists for "trying to capitalize politically on the heroism and sacrifices of the Russian people."

In an interview on the eve of his 82d birthday, Cahan, who came to the United States from Russia 60 years ago, said:

"A sharp line of demarcation must be drawn between our sympathy and help for Russia and our feelings concerning the antics of Communists in this country, who are placing many political time bombs in various strategic places in the hope of exploding them when the war is over. There is all the difference in the world between the heroic Russian people and the agents of the comintern in the United States."

INVADING EUROPE WON'T HELP REDS, EXPERT WARNS

DeSeversky Says Air Raid Is Best Strategy.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 5.—Maj. Alexander P. De Seversky, one of the nation's foremost military experts, warned tonight that an immediate land and sea invasion of the European continent is doomed to failure without clear cut mastery of the air over the entire theater of operations. It would mean, he said, immense sacrifices of human life and equipment without bringing substantial relief to the Russian armies on the eastern front.

Maj. A. P. DeSeversky.

Speaking over Theodore Granik's American Forum of the Air, he urged the continued smashing of German production machinery from the air to disarm and demoralize the enemy. Only thru using our industrial capacity to forge the weapon of air power and thereby disrupt Nazi industries, transportation facilities, and fuel supplies, can vitally needed aid be given the Red forces, said De Seversky, himself a former officer in the Russian army.

Other Experts Disagree.

Other speakers on the program, which was broadcast nation-wide over the Mutual network and W-G-N, disagreed with him sharply. He appeared with Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, Wythe Williams, and William B. Ziff, military analysts and writers.

Reilly and Williams asserted that the allies must create a second front and invade Germany by land before final victory can be assured. Ziff said "crushing superiority of air power" such as would protect the landing of ground forces would in itself be the margin of victory. All that would be necessary thereafter would be an army of occupation, he argued.

De Seversky, the author of the widely read book, "Victory Thru Air Power," said the transportation of a million men under arms with their equipment and supplies would require from 10 to 20 million tons of shipping, or an armada of between 2,000 and 4,000 vessels. He said not days but weeks would be needed to carry out the maneuver, and concentration of the invasion force would make a huge, inescapable target for enemy bombardment even before it could get started.

"Unfortunately there is no basis for believing that an attempted large scale invasion would actually force Hitler to withdraw a single soldier or tank from the eastern front," said De Seversky. "It happens that the Russians are fighting a land war, whereas an invasion attempt would involve action across a body of water. The two types of warfare call for totally different equipment.

Seek to Drown Invasion.

"To meet the threat of a land and sea invasion the Germans would not need land forces beyond those now concentrated in the west. Hitler would seek to drown the invasion while it is still on water. For this purpose he would need primarily the bombardment aviation he has been accumulating for nearly two years—for the most part aviation of a type that isn't being used in the Russian campaigns."

As shown in the battle of Midway, Ziff said, land based air power will annihilate any overseas expeditionary force which approaches the shore. Had the Japanese persisted in their attempt to land on the American outpost, not an enemy soldier or sailor who was not rescued by our own forces would have remained alive under the terrific pounding of our bombers, he asserted.

"These are the factors with which our military men must deal," he argued. "It is purely suicidal to maintain that since they never had to deal with such factors in the past, that they do not exist."

Only Way to Invade Europe.

"In considering the possibility of an invasion of Europe by land and sea," Williams replied, "I simply don't see how it can be invaded in any other way than just that—land and sea—if it is to be invaded at all."

He declared that, altho a country can be destroyed from the air and the morale of its people broken, it is doubtful that a country can be held unless it is occupied. Williams said there are insufficient pilots and planes to maintain a constant air attack, night after night, week after week, which he regards as the only way in which air power alone could conquer.

"Land-sea invasion of the continent of Europe is not only possible but necessary if we are to win the decisive victory we want," said Reilly.

RAF SINKS OR HITS 32 SHIPS IN JUNE; BAGS 265 PLANES

LONDON, July 5 (AP).—The RAF sank or damaged 32 axis ships and destroyed 265 planes during June and raided Germany 20 times by night and 13 times by day in that month, the air ministry announced today. RAF losses were set at 422 planes in the European and middle eastern theaters for that period.

Three of the night raids were 1,000 bomber attacks on Cologne, the Ruhr district, where Essen was the hardest hit target, and on Bremen. A "number of 300-fighter sweeps" were included in the daylight operations, according to the review.

The German air force was over Britain 22 nights in June, directing sharp attacks against Norwich, Southampton, and Weston Super-Mare.

Over Malta, the air ministry said, 53 German and Italian planes were destroyed during June, 45 by RAF fighters and 8 by anti-aircraft fire.

BRITISH IGNORE APPEAL TO STOP HOLIDAY TRAVEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 5.—Flouting the government's "no holiday travel" appeal, thousands of people crowded London railroad stations over the week-end.

A battalion commander said, "Many men returning long distances were forced to stand for hours in train corridors without room to put their kits down."

One report said holiday makers from East Lancashire and neighboring places thronged Blackpool, where they were forced to stand in endless lines at cafés, theaters, ice cream stands, pushcarts, and bus stops. It was estimated that 50,000 visitors poured into Blackpool alone today.

PROBE OF BRITISH PROPAGANDA BY COMMONS LOOMS

LONDON, July 5 (AP).—The effectiveness of British propaganda will be examined closely by the house of commons at its next session, it was reported tonight. Minister of Information Brendan Bracken will defend the work of his ministry before parliament members who feel that propaganda punches are not being delivered against the axis as efficiently as possible. Among the questions, it was said, would be whether the best possible job was being done to explain Britain's standpoint to the United States and Russia.

RELAX WAR JOB REQUIREMENT ON PROOF OF BIRTH

Drop Certificate Rule on Confidential Work.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 5.—Birth certificates no longer will be required as proof of citizenship of persons seeking jobs in plants where work is being done on secret or confidential contracts, Paul V. McNutt, war man power chairman, announced today. He said that a new procedure has been developed by his commission, the army and navy, and the United States Employment service.

The new procedure calls merely for a declaration that the applicant is a citizen. However, this declaration, must be signed by the worker in the presence of an army or navy district procurement factory or plant protection representative.

McNutt reported that information from the United States employment offices thruout the country indicated that many valuable man-hours of production were being lost because of difficulties in obtaining birth certificates.

State Bureaus Fall Behind.

State bureaus of vital statistics have been unable to keep up with the mounting number of requests, with the result that work on urgent war contracts has been delayed, he said.

In many localities birth registration was not required until recent years. In others the records have been destroyed or lost. The result has been that many persons whose families have been in this country for generations have been unable to obtain evidence of their birth.

To relieve the situation, United States census bureau records have been accepted in lieu of birth certificates. However, the bureau of the census which used to get two to three thousand requests a week prior to January, 1940, has been swamped in recent months by 16 and 17 thousand a week.

Stress Heavy Penalties.

So the war and navy departments have recommended that contractors require a prospective worker on any secret, confidential, or restricted contract to sign a statement that he is a citizen and understands the penalties for misrepresenting his status.

McNutt made it clear that this procedure does not relieve the employer from the duty of making further investigation in doubtful cases.

Workers will be informed that the penalty for misrepresentation may be as much as $10,000 fine, or five years in prison, or both.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

Mrs. W. E. K. writes: "I understand that $22 per month is to be deducted from my husband's pay, and the government will add $28 to this so that I will receive the equivalent of $50 per month. I have been told this money will not be paid until November 1st. How am I supposed to get along in the meantime? Couldn't I have the $22 per month sent to me right away?"

ANSWER: If you are now receiving an allotment from your husband's pay, this allotment will not be discontinued, but at the time of the first payment under the new legislation, the allotments you have received in the meantime, will be deducted from the amount due you. If you are not receiving an allotment, you are advised to write to your husband and ask him to make written application to the paymaster at his post.

Mrs. E. V. asks: "How do I notify the government of my changes of address since my husband entered the army so that I may be sure to receive any official war department notices promptly and without fail?"

ANSWER: Write to the Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D. C., giving your present address, and your last previous address, your husband's name, serial number, rank, and organization. If your husband is carrying government insurance, it would be advisable to supply the same information to the local office of the Veterans' Administration, Hines, Ill. Ask your husband to take similar steps.

J. W. writes: "My original classification was 4-F, but on the 27th of June I received a notice I was being put in 1-A. How can they [the draft board] do this to me?"

ANSWER: As a usual thing, deferred classifications—such as 4-F—are not given for longer than a six month period. At the end of that time, or before the expiration of the usual six month period, the man will be reconsidered for reclassification. If the condition which brought the previous 4-F classification has not been corrected or improved, the registrant again will be deferred.

G. L. G. asks: "If the supporter of the family joins the army or is drafted, must the oldest child quit school and go to work? Is it possible for the family to receive the government allotment even if the oldest child can get a small job after school and on Saturdays?"

ANSWER: There is nothing in the bill compelling the oldest child to quit school and go to work in order that the amount of the allotments may be decreased. The family of a man in service would be eligible to receive allotments if they were dependent upon him for support. It has been established that a working wife is entitled to receive allotments, and it is doubtful that the oldest child could earn enough under the circumstances to affect in any way your situation.

To Mrs. W. L: Your daughter should not hesitate to see the draft board. They will be more than happy to hear how she feels about her husband.

NELSON TO MAKE WAR PRODUCTION STUDY IN BRITAIN

Washington, D. C., July 5 [Special].—Donald Nelson, director of the War Production board, will go to Britain next month for a series of conversations with Oliver Lyttelton, British minister of production, on the coordination of Anglo-American war production, it was learned tonight.

The main purpose of his mission, it is understood, is to acquire a personal knowledge of Britain's production machinery and problems, and to continue the conversations which were started last month during Lyttelton's visit to this country.

The visit has been postponed until August to give Nelson an opportunity to reorganize the War Production board machinery here and to give the Anglo-American combined resources and planning board, which was established during Lyttelton's visit, an opportunity to start functioning.

Nelson and Lyttelton are attempting to reorganize the production of the two countries so they complement each other and turn out a pool of equipment necessary to fulfill the strategic plan of battle outlined by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill and their service chiefs during Churchill's recent visit.

PAY OFF YOUR DEBTS

... Here's how a Household loan can help you clean up your old bills on a monthly payment plan

Do you need some extra cash? Would you like to pay off old bills as part of your wartime financial program? This advertisement tells about a simple plan which is helping many men and women with their present day money problems.

Suppose you need $100 for an emergency or to pay off debts. You can get the money in a quick, simple transaction. Then you may repay on a regular monthly payment plan. At the end of a definite time you are entirely in the clear. The payment plan thus becomes a personal debt paying program.

The cost of this service is reasonable. Suppose you borrow $100 and repay in six monthly instalments of $18.18 each, a total of $109.08. The cost of your loan is just $9.08. A $50 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $9.09 each, a total of $54.54, costs only $4.54.

This service has been specially designed for folks with jobs. Many people have no car, furniture or other security on which to borrow. And they hate to ask friends to sign notes. Salary loans give these people an opportunity to borrow on earning ability and willingness to repay. When you get a salary loan you merely give us your personal note. We take no wage assignment of any kind. And no endorsers are required. We make many loans on other plans. The principal requirement is a job or other source of income. Even when making car and furniture loans, we consider character and regular income far more important than the actual value of your security.

Loans for many purposes

You may use a Household loan to pay a doctor or dentist bill, insurance, instalment contracts, old store bills, car repairs, union fees, a training course, tools, moving expense, coal for winter—and for expenses of many other kinds.

You may repay your loan on almost any plan you wish. The table shows how loans may be repaid in 2 to 12 payments. The sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Look in the table now for the loan you need. See how you may repay out of monthly income.

Payments in the table include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on a loan balance of $100 or less and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is substantially below the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law. Lower operating costs permit us to give our customers the advantage of a lower rate. Compare rates and costs before you borrow anywhere; why pay more for your loan than you have to?

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. Or just phone and tell us how much you need.

CHARGES JUDGE MINER TOO EASY WITH CRIMINALS

Courtney Asks Board to Extend 24 Sentences.

Twenty-four criminal cases in which the punishment recommended by Judge Julius H. Miner was deemed insufficient by State's Attorney Courtney were made public yesterday. Courtney asked the state parole board to review the facts in the cases and then impose longer terms than suggested by Judge Miner.

The prosecutor said he had taken similar action in other cases tried before Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne, and Judges Harold Ward, John F. Haas, Edgar A. Jonas, Ulysses S. Schwartz, and in one case tried before Judge Stanley Klarkowski and one before Judge Daniel P. Trude. Under the new parole reform law known as the Green-Rennick act the parole board may substitute its own judgment for that of the judges.

Requests Long Terms.

Courtney said he was not satisfied with the proposed punishment in the 24 cases. In reference to each criminal he sent a request to the parole board that it exercise its prerogative and make the sentences longer. To set aside the minimum and maximum of the trial judge the votes of four of the five parole board members are needed, along with the concurrence of T. P. Sullivan, state director of public safety. By the same process the state officials may also decide on a lesser sentence than given by the court.

The cases in which Judge Miner was too lenient, in the opinion of the prosecutor, were listed as follows, with the dates of sentences, names of the prisoners, the crimes, the number of indictments in brackets, and the recommended terms:

Sept. 19, 1941—Quentin Gibler, larceny, 1 to 3 years.

Oct. 3, 1941—Ira Rhodes, robbery, [3], 4 to 8 years.

Oct. 10, 1941—William Mohlman, robbery, 1 to 1½ years; Chester Woroszylo, robbery, 3 years.

Oct. 20, 1941—Mike Bender, indecent liberties with a child, 2 to 4 years.

Nov. 12, 1941—Henry A. Kiewic, larceny, 1 to 2 years.

Nov. 14, 1941—Francisco Castello, assault to murder, 2 to 5 years.

Nov. 24, 1941—Nathaniel Williams, burglary, [2], 1 to 3 years.

Dec. 17, 1941—George Hanes, robbery, [2], 2 to 3 years; John Mulvihill, robbery, [2], 1 to 2 years; James Hyland, robbery, 2 to 3 years.

Jan. 15, 1942—Raymond Markham, robbery, 1 year.

Jan. 23, 1942—John Marshall, robbery, [9], 4 to 6 years; George Eral, robbery, [7], 5 to 7 years; Steve Buncak, robbery, [4], 2 to 5 years; George Buncak, robbery, [7], 3 to 5 years; Adolph Sinkuols, robbery, 1 to 3 years.

Jan. 30, 1942—Walter Turk, larceny of automobile, 1 year.

Feb. 6, 1942—James Cravens, robbery, [2], 3 to 5 years.

May 29, 1942—Joseph Panczko, burglary, 2 to 5 years; Walter Jedynek, burglary, 2 to 5 years.

Has Choice of Sentences.

In all of the above cases where the defendants were convicted on more than one indictment Judge Miner ruled that the sentences should be served concurrently. In cases of that kind the trial judge has the power to rule that the sentences be served consecutively or concurrently.

Courtney also called attention to the fact that Judge Miner in two cases made the minimum and maximum sentences 1 year and in another case made both minimum and maximum 3 years, giving the parole board no opportunity to use its discretion or to provide for any period of supervision after the convict's release.

Long Drouth Ends; Food Prices Drop in Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 5.—Prices of sugar, milk, fresh fruits, and vegetables have declined, after reaching an all-time high, because of the break in the long drouth. Two years ago Nicaragua imported sugar because of two long dry seasons. Sugar planters now report there is an ample supply and a surplus for export. Large cereal and coffee crops also are assured.

Miss Williams wears a bunny soft pink suede cloth, with brown corduroy trim—the new type dirndl skirt and waist length jacket. The L-85's were designed to eliminate wide skirts and pleats.

Mrs. Jo Ford Adamsson, WPB clothing analyst, measuring width of two piece wool suit worn by Catherine Cramer to see if it conforms to the sweep permitted in the government order L-85 to conserve cloth.

Cottons that look like wools and new L-85 fashions conforming to WPB regulations are on display at the Palmer House where the National Wash Apparel show opened its market week yesterday. On Wednesday night the new modes will be paraded in a style show with Mrs. Jo Ford Adamsson, WPB clothing analyst, as commentator.

Even spongy pile fabrics have cotton copies in housecoats and robes. Cotton corduroy, velveteen, and gabardine, fabrics formerly woven of wool, do double duty now—saving priority materials and making possible lower prices on women's clothes. Skirts fall in slimmer lines and sleeves are shorter. Buttons and surplice fastenings replace zippers.

The WPB and OPA will maintain a booth on the 10th floor of the Palmer House until the show closes on Friday to help manufacturers and retailers answer style limitation and price ruling problems. Miss Camille McLean Anderson, Maid of Cotton for 1942, and her ladies in waiting will present a cotton pageant at the style show.

FOES OF CRIME ASSAIL MORALS SQUAD VERDICT

Exoneration Is Termed Disgrace to Chicago.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission, yesterday said the commission plans to take action concerning the verdict of the city civil service commission which last Friday exonerated four policemen formerly assigned to the morals division. Cahn called the verdict a "disgrace to Chicago" and said it should not pass unchallenged.

The policemen acquitted are Capt. Martin E. McCormick, Sergt. Tom Lee, and Policemen Fred L. Trauth and James E. Kehoe. They had been accused of neglect of duty—which was the suppression of gambling—inefficiency and the making of false official reports.

Plans Kept Secret.

Just what form the anti-crime body's action would take was not revealed, but it was hinted it would be drastic. It was intimated the indictment of the policemen might be asked. It was predicted that the anti-crime organization would denounce Wendell Green, a Negro lawyer, formerly a Republican but nominated for municipal judge last April as a Democrat, and Joseph P. Geary, president of the civil service board.

The crime commission had an observer at all sessions of the hearing of the charges against the four policemen. It is said that the observer reported that the "trial" was a farce.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, with whom Cahn and the crime commission were coöperating, gave the city officials a lashing in a statement early in the hearing. It was apparent, Courtney said, the city civil service commission did not want to hear the truth about the four policemen.

Evidence Is Rejected.

Courtney's assistants offered evidence to the commission which rejected it. They wanted to prove, Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin said, that instead of suppressing gambling the policemen sought to "regulate" it.

"A proper question is why did the civil service commission sit idly by and allow a gambling syndicate to be built on the foundation of police inefficiency and corruption?" Courtney said in a public statement at that time.

President Geary of the civil service board is a Democratic ward committeeman. The prosecutors said they found hundreds of gambling stations in Geary's ward, the 4th, in their investigation of policy gambling which, among other rackets was found to be under the control of William Skidmore, they added.

Fired Cop Hired by Sheriff.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said yesterday the civil service board should reconsider its decision in the case of Policeman Andrew Fosse. The policeman was fired by the civil service board after hearing that he was assigned to prevent gambling in a certain room in a loop building, and that the gambler thereupon opened another place down the hall.

Fosse was hired by Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien. He now is the sheriff's chauffeur.

Another recently hired public employé is William Rand, according to the crime commission. Rand is personal bailiff for Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli, succeeding the judge's son, Bruce, who is under two jail sentences for slugging.

Injunctions were obtained by the attorney general to prevent Rand from operating gambling houses at 11 different addresses in the 7th ward. Rand then was put on the pay roll of the Municipal court bailiff's office and is mentioned as a potential aldermanic candidate, according to the anti-crime agency.

30 GIRL SCOUTS TO BEGIN COURSE IN AIR TRAINING

New York, July 5 (AP).—Thirty girl scout leaders from all parts of the country will begin training next week in Philadelphia, Pa., as "wing scouts" in a nation-wide aviation program, Mrs. Paul Rittenhouse, national girl scout director, announced today.

The program will provide two years' basic training in aviation, including the ground school work. "Troops" will be formed in the fall, when training of the leaders is expected to be completed.

Twins, Naturally, Re-Elect Two Presidents to Office

One president isn't enough for the International Twins association. So the association reëlected two Chicagoans as co-presidents yesterday at its 11th annual convention in South Bend, Ind. They are policemen, Chester Doonan of the New City station and Warren Doonan of the police traffic division.

COUPLE LEAVES YOUNG CHILDREN ALONE AT HOME

Police were called to the second floor rear apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cook at 1107 Hudson avenue yesterday by neighbors who complained that the Cooks had left their eight children there alone. The children were taken to the East Chicago avenue station. The younger ones were later given shelter in St. Vincent's orphanage and the older ones in the Juvenile Detention home.

The Cooks came to the police station soon afterward and asked that the children be returned to them. But Detectives William Clark and Joseph Lynn held the boys and girls for a Juvenile court investigation.

The children are Raymond and Ronald, twins, 4 months old; John, 3 years old; Patrick, 4; Catherine, 5; Mary Agnes, 7; Barbara, 8, and Anna Mae, 9.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

SHIPS FOR WHICH FRONT?

Everybody will agree that the central problem to be solved before the United States can undertake a large-scale offensive anywhere is the problem of shipping. The choice of the front upon which we shall attack is not a free one, because our means of transport are limited. We must adjust our plans to fit our circumstances.

The rival suggestions of those who advocate an attack upon Germany in Europe and those who favor an attack upon Japan must be examined in this light. It is not enough to say that if Hitler is knocked out Japan must fall. Even if true, the statement has no present meaning for us if we lack the ships with which to transport to Europe an army large enough to force Germany's surrender.

It is commonly assumed that something like 200 ships, a total of perhaps 1,400,000 tons of shipping, could move a million men and their fighting tools to Europe in the course of a year. About half again that many ships would be required to maintain and supply the million men once they were established on a European front. Those who are talking about a second front in Europe must ask themselves whether we have the shipping required to send and maintain an army big enough to defeat Hitler with Britain's help. For such a purpose, a million Americans might be far from sufficient. Some people have suggested that twice as many would be expected of us as our contribution to the second front.

Do we have at hand the needed tonnage? The Wall Street Journal, in a story from Washington a short time ago, credited an official with the statement that "a year ago we didn't have enough ships to send 250,000 troops as far as Brazil, for example." In the whole of last year a total of 103 new ships were delivered by American yards. If the official was correctly informed and if the rough calculations of tonnages required for an expedition to Europe are at all correct, the conclusion cannot be escaped that we lack the means to send a big army to Europe today. The shortage is measured in hundreds of ships and millions of tons.

Certainly the net gain in our merchant fleet this year has been of no great importance. Rear Adm. Howard L. Vickery, vice chairman of the maritime commission, has just reported that 66 ships were delivered in June. This was an increase from 36 in April and 58 in May. In the first six months of 1942, 230 ships, in all, were delivered. The unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press shows that 317 merchant ships were sunk by submarines from Dec. 7 thru the third week of June. Adm. Vickery said that American shipbuilding is more than keeping pace with American ship losses, but he added that the united nations are losing more ships than are being produced. If we lacked the ships to move an army of significant size to Europe at the beginning of the year we still suffer from the same handicap today.

The distances across the Pacific are two or three times greater than to Europe, but the numbers of men required, and, indeed, the numbers that can be employed in advancing from island to island are very much less than would be needed for a European campaign. It has been said that the Japanese used no more than half a million men, and quite probably less, to conquer Hongkong, Malaya, Burma, the Philippines, Java, Sumatra, and the British islands flanking Australia. There have been intimations that not more than 50,000 Japanese were engaged in Burma, and perhaps 150,000, more or less, in Malaya. Some estimates of the force used in the Philippines have run as high as 250,000, but it seems certain that none of the other operations required as many. A couple of divisions were enough for Sumatra and Java.

Large numbers of men are not required for the amphibian warfare which would drive the Japanese back, as the Japanese themselves have shown in their advance. After the Japanese-held islands had been bombed and bombarded thoroly and troops had been landed, the defense of the newly won positions would be entrusted largely to land-based planes. Garrisons would be required, but the islands are small and the forces to defend against counterattack would be correspondingly small.

A couple of hundred thousand men, in addition to the Australians, might be enough to win and hold strategic bases within bombing distance of Japan. There is much reason to believe that an invasion of Japan proper would not then be required, for our potential in the air is so much greater than Japan's that we could hope to control the sky over Japanese centers of production and transportation. Once that dominance is achieved, the Japs may be glad to call it a day on any terms we may offer.

From all of this it appears that we can, within our means, carry the war to Japan. It is doubtful if we can wage an equally effective campaign against Hitler in Europe.

BOSS HAGUE TAKES OVER A FEDERAL COURT.

The senate has confirmed President Roosevelt's appointment of Thomas F. Meaney, a creature of Boss Hague of Jersey City, to the federal bench in New Jersey. Meaney's only apparent qualification was that the boss owed him a judgeship. He was juggled out of one in 1939 in order to give Hague's son, Frank Jr., a place on New Jersey's highest state court.

The appointment, with its confirmation by a vote almost strictly partisan, is significant of something more than the further degradation of the federal judiciary by the New Deal. It shows how little either the war or considerations of national unity have influenced the playing of ward heeler politics by the Democratic national administration.

Frank Hague is everything that the New Deal pretends not to be. The New Deal puts itself forward as a champion of popular rights. Hague has been the nation's most notorious foe of civil liberties. The New Deal turned whole departments of the government over to the CIO in return for political support, and Hague tried to run the CIO out of Jersey City. Ideologies have nothing to do with the compact between Hague and the New Deal. It is based on the practical consideration that Hague can deliver the votes and the administration can deliver certain privileges and immunities, including those connected with the income tax.

To the rest of the nation winning the war is the paramount job. To the administration that is secondary to winning the election. The smear artists go about crying that it is a blow to national unity to vote the Republican ticket, while behind the screen the Democratic machine barters judgeships and justice, as usual.

THE WHEAT AGREEMENT.

The terms of the international wheat agreement as given out in Washington indicate pretty clearly what those who talk glibly about "the century of the common man" really have in mind for the people of the United States and the rest of the world.

When the Atlantic charter was published, a good many thoughtful people concluded that it promised a return to a liberal world economy, an economy of free private enterprise and reasonably free international exchange of goods. The assumption was a natural one, because under such a régime, in only a little more than a century, longer strides had been taken toward freeing the common man from want and fear than had been made in all the previous thousands of years of recorded history. There is still a long way to go but there is no reason to suppose that the world will progress faster under rigid controls than in freedom.

Nevertheless those who are talking about the century of the common man are in reality planning a world of controled domestic economy and of international trade quotas and cartels, if one may judge from the pilot model just unveiled. Export quotas are to be assigned. "The basic export quotas for Argentina, Australia, Canada, and the United States would be 25, 19, 40, and 16 per cent respectively of the estimated volume of international trade in wheat." Maximum and minimum prices are to be set. The exporting nations bind themselves "to adopt positive measures to control production," or in plain English, to the AAA till the cows come home.

We are asked to believe that the common man will benefit from restricted production tho we know from experience that it is unrestricted production which has liberated from fear and want. We are asked to believe that wider distribution is obtained by controlling markets than by freeing them, tho the experience of the world tells the opposite story. We are asked to believe that export quotas are what we are fighting for tho they are the central feature of Hitler's and Hirohito's economic policy.

The plan is being dressed up as a scheme for the relief of famine in war stricken countries but no such elaborate cartelization of the wheat trade would be required for that purpose. Indeed, the Associated Press dispatch announcing the terms says the agreement is "designed as a first step toward the conclusion, after the war, of a comprehensive wheat agreement between all countries concerned in the international wheat trade."

They talk about the century of the common man but what they really have in mind is a strait-jacketed world bossed by politicians and busybodies.

THE RED CROSS AND FUND DRIVES.

The Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross has intimated that it will not participate in any consolidated fund raising campaign. It is to be hoped that the decision will be reconsidered.

If the Red Cross or any other organization wishes to raise funds in Chicago, and wishes the assistance and coöperation of civic and business organizations and thousands of volunteer workers without which no fund raising drive can succeed, it should accede to such conditions of cooperation as are laid down by spokesmen for the community.

The reasons for the consolidation of fund drives are compelling. Without such coördination people will be subjected to an endless series of requests, an immense amount of duplicating work will be done, and thoroly worthwhile organizations which are late in the field may fail to receive their proper share of collections.

It is not necessary to question the good works of the Red Cross to condemn its attitude in this matter, nor is it necessary to examine the charge that too large a portion of the revenue received by the organization goes in fancy salaries to executives. The Red Cross is a worthy undertaking, but it is no more so than the USO, the local charities which must carry on in war as well as peace, and the other organizations which would participate in a coördinated drive. The Red Cross is no more entitled to exemption on its own motion than is any of the other organizations.

Editorials of the Day

SANGAMON RIVER LORE.

[Illinois State Register, Springfield.]

The recently published book by Edgar Lee Masters, "The Sangamon," will doubtless be widely read thruout the entire nation and thus bring to the attention of many people far removed from the rich, mother lode of precious Lincoln lore in the valley of the Sangamon.

Town sites and villages of 100 years ago have now become centers of great historical and antiquarian interest. Family names that still find honorable survival were well known in the central Illinois social, political life of the Lincoln '30s and '40s of the last century.

Not to know the Illinois of 100 years ago is not to understand the middle west of today. More than ever before the American people need to know and appreciate the sacred fundamentals of the American way of life in contrast with the customs and standards of totalitarianism.

"I NEVER, NEVER MAKE A MISTAKE."

[Kansas City Star.]

It seems almost impossible for any government official to get up enough nerve to admit that he ever made a mistake. The rule laid down in the familiar verse is inflexible:

"I never, never make a mistake;
I'd like to for variety's sake.

Which suggests how refreshing it would be if the Office of Price Administration should put out a brief statement to this effect:

"Early in the year we thought our sugar supply would run short and decided rationing was necessary. Now we find there is plenty on hand and rationing isn't necessary. So the restrictions are off, and please excuse us."

As soon as the country got over the shock from the frankness of the OPA it would rise up and give three cheers for one government official, namely Leon Henderson, who was big enough to admit he once had been wrong.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

QUAINT OLD TOWN?

The Chicago school of novelists, largely nonresident, has never used the word "quaint" in scene painting. It contradicts the grim, tough, uproarious tradition which they have found salable to eastern editors. But if you keep your eyes open you will discover places off the beaten track which have a certain charm of age and distinction. They are oases of quaintness; they have the background and atmosphere that is meat for any novelist.

* * *

For example, the Presbyterian [formerly McCormick] Theological seminary. It may be viewed from elevated trains, but the casual eye catches only its two new buildings in Bedford stone and collegiate Gothic. The right approach is from Halsted street at Fullerton avenue.

The red brick halls of the old seminary date from 1863, 1875, 1884, and 1887. Its campus contains Chalmers place, whose location baffles taxi drivers, and the rows of houses on either side are income producers whose tenants share the calm of seminary life. . . . The last time we strolled thru Chalmers place we saw an artist with his easel planted on the sidewalk, recording the view.

* * *

Groveland and Woodland parks, off Cottage Grove avenue between 33d and 35th streets, are residential squares in the old London manner—green areas resisting sociological "blight." They cause one to dream of a bygone era, therefore they are quaint.

* * *

The Church of the Holy Family has been standing at Roosevelt road and May street since 1860, a striking monument to the zeal of Father Damen, who reared Gothic towers over a gaunt prairie and a few workingmen's cottages. "It is easily the most beautiful of our older churches," says Henry Ericsson in "Sixty Years a Builder." Legends of early Chicago are associated with it, and of such tales is quaintness born.

* * *

"Walk in Garland court, back of the public library, in the evening," writes this column's contributor, A Looper, who has a hobby for Chicago views. "You will get an impression of an old street in Boston." . . . "Look south from a high window in the Palmolive building," says Helmuth Bartsch, architect. "You will see the towers of Chicago arranged on the skyline like the towers of San Gimignano in Italy."

LINES TO A STREAM.

Beside you here, in furtive rendezvous.
But summertime he loved, for then no school
Could keep him from a carefree hour with you.

In winter, when the wind would sting his cheek,
He came to cut a fancy "figure eight"
Upon your surface. If the ice was weak
He fell, and rose to laugh at thwarted Fate.

Cool waters that he loved, I come to you,
To feel your soothing spray upon my brow.
Somewhere he keeps a perilous rendezvous
With sea and sky. . . . O, please, don't fail him now!

And as you wind your time-worn way to sea,
Take with your spray this kiss for him—from me!

Another Voice from Pike County.

You sort of stirred up some memories talkin' about Pike county the other da' [June 15]. Any old river man could spin you yarn after yarn about Valley City, Florence, Montezuma, and Pearl—all Pike county river towns on the Illinois—specially of the days when the showboats used to tie up and advertise from bluff to bluff by playin' the steam calliope. Sure sounded excitin' and pretty about sundown.

Then we'd get a gang together and go up or down the river to where she was tied up. The Cotton Blossom allus had the best shows. Maybe there'd be a square dance after. Nacherally we packed our artillery, but shucks, old Jason Corbin sure kept the peace. Jase stood six-foot-six and carried a long knife hung down the back of his neck on a cord. He could split an apple with it at 30 feet, quicker'n you could say Jack Robinson.

Mostly hill country down there, and they used to raise lotsa fine apples and lotsa hardshell Baptists. We river men and swamp angels used to freight the apples and leave the Baptists strickly alone.

Buckshot, O. R. S.

POEMS FOR PAM—V.

We have a time with people who Insist on Mispronouncing you!
Just start with "Pam"—
It rhymes with "lamb";
The next is "el,"
Which rhymes with "belle";
The last is "a,"
Which matches "ma."
The accent, too, is quite a thing
To start a person
Arguing.
The syllable to stress
Is Pam,
If you would pass this stiff
Exam.
Yet all these rules and all this fuss
Can never quite apply to us,
For if we wish our child to look,
The only name we use is "Snook!"

Tongue-in-Cheek Argument.

Let them observe how the cyclist invariably gives way to the pedestrian; how the motorist stops and smilingly invites the cyclist to proceed; how the driver of the heavy truck waits in beaming good humor for the motorists to pass; how the railroad train stops dead at crossings and patiently puffs until there are no motor cars in sight; how the steamer maneuvers skilfully to avoid impact with the rowboat; and finally, how the spider slinks into his corner at sight of a fly.

FIBROID TUMORS RARELY MENACING.

WHILE adult males are prone to certain physical troubles, women walk off with most of the prizes. Childbearing is a real chore and the structures involved frequently get out of tune.

Fibroid tumors are relatively common. They occur in the wall of the uterus [womb] and are composed of smooth muscle and fibrous tissue. They tend to assume a spherical form and, more often than not, are multiple. Such an affair may resemble a medium sized potato with numerous daughter protuberances.

For the most part, these "bumps" are innocent. Tens of thousands of women go thru life without the slightest knowledge of their presence. One can follow safely the rule that unless symptoms develop—for example, bleeding, pain, or pressure—they may well be left alone. Single blessedness is no guarantee that they will not appear.

They grow slowly and sometimes their increase in size is more apparent than real. It has been said that if the physician can actually observe a change in circumference from month to month he is probably dealing with something other than a simple fibroid.

A well trained medical man can spot these enlargements, which feel firm unless the tissues have degenerated with the formation of cystlike sacs. Inasmuch as the blood supply is deficient, this is not unusual.

Occasionally these tumors will create enough fuss to warrant attention, either because of their size, bleeding, or added discomfort. As we can well understand, hemorrhage demands relief. Anemia is a complication that should not be allowed to persist, particularly if the red coloring matter of the blood [hemoglobin] drops to 50 per cent of normal or below.

Now and then one of these masses can be shelled out of the organ without interfering with function. In such circumstances, skilled surgery will be required. Those who advocate the employment of radium or X-ray usually confine the suggestion to patients who are in or have passed thru the change of life or where surgery is contraindicated. The use of either form of therapy will generally stop or arrest marked losses of blood. A skilled and conscientious gynecologist should make the decision.

Once in a while, however, one of these growths will become abnormally large, with a sensation of weight in the area. But even this may not be observed and the fact discovered accidentally.

All in all, we can look upon these useless knobs as exerting little or no influence upon well being. It should be pointed out, however, that the appearance of blood other than at the regular period, should be regarded with suspicion until an accurate diagnosis has been made.

STIFF NECK.

H. W. T. writes: What is the cause of spasmodic torticollis?

REPLY.

Wry neck—momentary or permanent—has many causes. Intermittent contractions of the neck muscles bend the head to one side. The spinal accessory nerve may be involved.

"BROKEN" VEINS.

E. M. M. writes: What is the remedy for broken veins on the cheeks?

REPLY.

If anything should be done, the treatment is similar to that used for birthmarks. Skilled dermatologists employ radium or carbonic acid snow.

The Latin word "luna" means moon and years ago the mentally ill were called "lunatics." So far as is known, the human mind does not respond as do the tides.

FREE ENTERPRISE AFTER THE WAR.

Rochester, N. Y., July 2.—In a recent address to the National Industrial Advertisers' association, Eugene Casey, special executive assistant to President Roosevelt, is quoted as saying that in the postwar period "business will accept legitimate enlightened guidance by intelligent, public minded government agencies in the same spirit that the people of the world will accept a policing of the world after a new peace has been born." Mr. Casey's intentions may be excellent, but isn't there a quotation somewhere that says that good intentions may pave the way to a place universally regarded as quite undesirable?

People who know their American history realize that this great country was built up by the system of free enterprise!

During the period when government has been trying to manage business and agriculture, more businesses, great and small, have gone to the wall than would have been thought conceivable prior to the advent of the New Deal. People who under hampering restrictions were unable to find work were paid by the government for doing nothing, and those who worked have been freely ridden by those who did not. The country consequently accumulated the most prodigious debt in its history—a liability which is much more certain to be handed down to posterity than the fulfilment of the rosy visions held by government appointed theorizers.

The writer greatly doubts if any intelligent, practical business man, or any intelligent, practical farmer, will ever be willing to accept guidance from any "intelligent, public minded" government agency. If he is a successful business man or a successful farmer, he is convinced that he is more capable of managing his own business than is any government official in Washington, and as a free American he will prefer to take his own chances, make his own decisions, employ his own initiative. This is the American way.

The government agency which is intelligent and public minded will know that it derives its authority only from the consent of the governed. It will not say "we" will do this or "we" will do that; it recognizes that under normal conditions its only function is to administer the laws which have been enacted by the representatives of the people—the congress of the United States. If the agency does its own particular job well, that is all that should be expected of it.

Again, under any arrangement when, for the sake of expediency, a government agency tries to manage business or agriculture, one sure result is that a group of men of doubtful practical experience make their living out of attempting to direct the undertakings which have been established by the initiative, the industry, the sweat, and the sacrifices of other men. The government may use the business man's tax money or the farmer's tax money to compete with the business man or the farmer himself; and if, under these or any other unwise, unjust or unfair conditions the business man or the farmer goes to the wall, it makes no difference whatever to the government agency; the agency continues to sustain itself upon the money of the taxpayers.

The writer, of course, recognizes the need for laws to prevent injustices and wrongdoing on the part of business men and farmers just as it requires laws to prevent injustices and wrongdoing on the part of laborers and of all the rest of humanity. But there can be no certainty that such laws will be just, fair, or impartial unless they are enacted by the representatives of the people.

The writer, therefore, would suggest that in the postwar period the government agency can be of the most effectual help by relinquishing, as speedily as possible, all of the emergency control held over business and agriculture, and reverting strictly to its normal function. Neither the average American business man nor the average American farmer needs to be "policed." If the government agencies will only take "hands off" [thank you just the same, Mr. Casey], the American business man and the American farmer will give a very good accounting of themselves.

HYPHENISM PERSISTS.

Chicago, July 1.—On behalf of more than 100 delegates and representatives of the Serbian National Defense Council of America, assembled at their first annual convention at Chicago, and at their instance and unanimous request, I am registering our protest, and with profound indignation we take exceptions to your editorial, "Black George's Heir," appearing June 29. It is to be regretted that the writer of said editorial has so completely discredited your great newspaper by displaying contempt for the young monarch of Jugo-Slavia and utmost ignorance of facts. Black George was not a bandit, but a great liberator of his people and defender of Christendom. Your comparison of Black George's times to the present presents a case of cheap demagoguery. King Peter's government is not the only one in exile today and we hope that your writer of such scurrilous editorial is acquainted at least with the fact that the president of the Philippine Islands, Manuel Quezon, and his government are also in exile today and defending the sovereignty of their nation without sharing the physical hardships of the people under temporary conquest. We are all loyal American citizens, and as such we shall all remember your present attitude.

EXPOSED TO DEMOCRACY.

Wausau, Wis., July 2.—Your editorial, "Down to Earth," and L. V.'s letter in today's Tribune, both utter truth needing emphasis at all times. We can and do respect the peoples of all lands, but if we are ever to arrive at final democracy, it requires elimination of the foibles of aristocracy and pretentious worship of false powers. Royalty itself, no doubt, will welcome full cancelation of what can only be a strain on its credulity in a democratic land. V. L. Morisette.

FACTORY NOISE.

Chicago, July 3 [Legal Friend of the People].—I live in an apartment building which is 200 feet from a factory that operates 24 hours a day. Some kind of sawing machine makes a very disturbing noise and the nailing up of cases creates a nerve racking disturbance. Because the windows are left open the noise carries to such an extent that it is impossible for us to obtain rest. I, of course, do not have any desire to make a request which would in any way curtail production, but I am sure if the factory windows were kept closed at night the noise would not disturb the neighborhood.

M. S.

An investigation reveals that the occupant of the building is manufacturing wood cases in connection with the war program. The owner of these premises has been requested to reduce as much as possible the disturbing noises. In view of the war effort it is not deemed wise to require the complete discontinuance thereof.

WISCONSIN BOYS NEEDED AT HOME BUT GO TO WAR

Women Work in Fields As Sons Battle Axis.

(Armchair strategists of the east say the middle west does not know the war is on. Miss Winn has toured small towns in six central states with this charge in mind. In this, the last of a series of articles, she tells what she found.)

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Salem, Wis., July 5.—No one was at home in the yellow lemon farmhouse with the service star in the window. Five fluffy yellow ducklings waddling in the trail of a brown hen, five Holstein calves nibbling at the sparse grass in a pasture to the right, a pen full of squirming pigs, and the dark withers of a horse in the big yellow barn were the only signs of life.

Suddenly from far down in the fields came a loud "Hal-loo!" and a beckon from a man at the seat of a tractor pulling a hay baler. George Eddy, his dark face drawn and tense, clambered painfully down from his perch to receive his guests.

"I'm not supposed to be out here working," he apologized. "I'm supposed to be in bed. I got arthritis and ulcers bad, but what else can I do with the boy gone? Gotta get the crops in somehow."

Son Is Radio Operator.

"The boy" is Eddy's son, Duane, 22, who enlisted in the army in December and now is a radio operator. He contrived to come home on furlough in April long enough to get the corn in the ground, but now that summer is in full head the farm is about to go to pieces without him. The father is far too ill to work. Farm help not only is scarce now, but too expensive for the Eddy family to hire. A younger brother, 15, does what he can, but he, too, is small and frail. As a result, the burden of an 182 acre farm is being borne by his slender mother.

"I wish I could talk to you," Mr. Eddy says with the quiet innate courtesy of the farmer, "but the day's getting late and we have to finish this baling. Wait for the woman. She's just gone down to drive the cows home."

Eventually Mrs. Eddy, a grandmother, came home. A slender woman in blue slacks, she had a red bandana around her gray hair. Her face, with its patrician features, was heavily tanned and drooped with fatigue.

Boy Is Only Help on Farm.

"I've worked so hard," she said, as a simple statement of fact rather than as complaint, as she led the way into the clean, gay living room with MacArthur on one wall and Duane's graduating class [Genoa High school, 1939] on the other, "that my back's breaking. I hardly know what I'm doing.

"It's a case, I'm telling you, whether we're going to be able to get anything done most of the time," she continued. "We have no help at all, just our other boy, and my husband should stay in bed all the time. This morning he fell off the tractor and had to be lifted back on it.

"And there's plenty of work. There's 39 acres of grain to cut, shock, thrash; 45 acres of hay to put up; 22 cows to milk——"

She shook her head in dismay.

"O, I milk and cultivate corn and bind hay. I run the pulverizer and the drag and anything else I can do to help out. I've done every kind of farm work there is to be done except to plow, and I've never yet tried that.

"I've always done some things on the farm," she reflected, "but I do a lot more now than ever before. I have to. Mister can't do it. His leg just gives way. You can't hire help, and we can't afford it now anyway. It's five in the morning to seven at night and not a minute to sit down in between.

"Try and get Duane to stay home?" she repeated in wonder. "No. None of us did. I just said, 'That's right, son. Go ahead'."

The Eddy predicament, wholly a warborne one, is no rarity among the farms of the midwest. It is no rarity in rich, rolling Wisconsin where wander as you will, thru the dairy and cheese country, along the fertile prairies or into the valleys of green and yellow grain, you will find farmers endeavoring to feed the world without farm help.

Two Farm 327 Acres.

Up near Elkhorn a farmer with two stars in his window interrupts his work on a new bed for his haywagon to tell of his and his neighbors' war worries. Not only are two boys—the only boys—gone from his home, but the son of his hired hand, a boy of 17, enlisted in the marines. He and his hand now farm 327 acres, tend 60 head of cattle and try to make headway with that wartime essential crop, soybeans.

"Can't get lumber," he says. "Can't get any new farm machinery. Can't run half of what you have without tires. Can't get fertilizer. Can't get help; can't even steal it from your neighbors.

"If you don't see stars in the windows," he adds, "it's just because folks don't have time to paste 'em up. The boys are sure goin' fast, I'm tellin' you. Still, I guess I can't complain. I'm strong enough," wagging his white head, "but it's plenty bad on plenty of folks.

Doesn't Like Name Changes.

"Just one thing that really makes me mad in this war," he concludes. "I'll do all I can right here. Sure will. But why don't them people in Washington stop changing the way places are pronounced. If anything riles me, it's to hear 'em call Carribee-an that new way, Ca-rib-ean. And New Del-hi now is New Delly. Hmmmph!

"And that," with a final shout as he went back to his hammer, "is not an unpatriotic thing to say. Now is it?"

Wisconsin farmers are not emotional about the war. They are laconic. They hide their pride in a boy gone behind a semimocking phrase such as, "O, he's at a camp where they chase each other up hills and capture the sergeants." They hide their concern about their harvesting with, "O, we'll get along." Their wives join them in the fields and when the day's work is done outdoors, go indoors and make gingerbread with molasses or devil's food cake with sirup instead of angelfood cake with sugar. Every window has its Red Cross emblem, its war bond minuteman and its USO insignia, a brave triumvirate against the enemy.

Sent Three to War.

Mrs. Eugene Reilly probably phrased the farmer's attitude toward war and its necessary encroachments as well as any. She and her husband, who farms 140 acres near Janesville in Rock county, have sent three sons to battle. Two more probably will go soon.

"We've got two young one left that can help thrash," she said as she rocked away in the little living room next to the kitchen. "Course they can't build a straw pile, but they can do light work."

"And about the rest, we just made up our minds we wouldn't brood too much about it. Phil and Ed and Joe are glad they're in it, so we're glad, too. Somebody has to win this war."

CHICAGO MARKS HOLIDAY WITH SAFETY RECORD

Chicago ended its wartime Fourth of July observance last night with two records: Production had increased in the war plants and accidental deaths and injuries were the lowest in years for a holiday wek-end.

The 40 mile an hour war speed limit and the curtailment in motoring because of the tire shortage kept week-end traffic deaths for the Chicago area down to seven.

The restriction on fire crackers resulted on a truly safe and sane Independence day, with only one persons injured by fireworks and one by a holiday reveler's stray bullet.

[The Associated Press reported that in the nation 241 persons had met violent death during the week-end. Of this number, 124 were killed in automobile accidents, 67 drowned, and 50 died in other violent ways.]

Auto Trips Cut.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, said that there were 40 per cent fewer automobiles on trips out of Chicago during the week-end than on July 4, 1941. There were 750,000 cars on holiday outings last year and he estimated that there were no more than 450,000 this year.

Long trips were relatively few, most of the motorists going to resort areas in the Chicago area. Few cars bearing out of state licenses were seen in Chicago.

The police reported that traffic nevertheless was heavy on the highways leading into Chicago last night as the week-end vacationists returned.

Mrs. Alice Mangis, 37 years old, of 1119 Massasoit avenue, was burned on her legs when a firecracker saved from last year struck her at a picnic in the forest preserve at Chicago and Thatcher avenues. Mrs. Katie Bonkowski, 48, was standing in front of her home at 4337 South Honore street when she was struck by a stray bullet from a gun believed to have been fired by some one celebrating the holiday. She was not injured seriously.

Ten thousand attended the celebration of eight Chicago Irish societies in Harms park, 4207 North Western avenue. Anthony J. [Tony] Corcoran, assistant secretary of the fire department, was master of ceremonies. Guests of honor were Lieut. Thomas C. Griffin, Chicago airman who flew with Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle to bomb Tokio, and Lieut. Emmet F. Gibson of the Maywood tank corps, who escaped from the Japanese at Bataan.

Slovaks Celebrate.

The 10th annual American Slovak's Catholic day celebration drew a large crowd to Delta Grove in Black Oak, between Hammond and Gary, Ind. Public officials of a number of northern Indiana cities attended.

Members of the Chicago branch of the National Alliance of Postal Employés heard an address in the Wabash avenue YMCA by Snow F. Grigsby of Detroit, editor of Postal Alliance.

Workers in the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's great plant at Gary were receiving congratulations on their record breaking July 4 production, when they turned out enough steel to build three submarines.

DEVOTE MEETING OF B'NAI B'RITH TO WAR EFFORT

Members Hear Green Laud Its Activities.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Gov. Green praised the Jewish fraternal order, B'nai B'rith, yesterday for devoting its regional convention, which opened in the Stevens hotel, to consideration of increasing its war activities. The women's grand lodge of the order met jointly with the district lodge.

"There are two words today by which we shape our thoughts and deeds," Gov. Green told the 1,000 delegates at the luncheon. "One is Americanism, and the other is victory. The first is yours by right of heritage, a right for which you have fought and which you have treasured above all other possessions.

Fighting, Working in Unity.

"The second, which now stirs the soul and determination of every true American, will be yours because the members of B'nai B'rith are fighting, working, and giving in unity to achieve victory. B'nai B'rith's record of 100 years in education, philanthropy, and advancement of individual freedom is a glorious one.

"Never before in the history of warfare has the home front proved so desperately important as in this war. And never before have such organizations as B'nai B'rith held such vital responsibility in determining whether we, with our ideals of Americanism and our cherished freedoms, shall dictate the terms of peace which will perpetuate liberty."

Prior to the luncheon the two groups met separately to hear the annual reports of Mrs. Benjamin Samuels, president of the women's lodge, and Benjamin I. RESUME INQUIRY TOMORROW INTO JOB SALE RACKET

Dozen More Witnesses to Be Heard in Ziller Quiz.

Bloomington, Ill., July 5 [Special].—The McLean county grand jury will resume its investigation here Tuesday into the activities of George W. Ziller in procuring jobs for laborers and truckers in the construction work on the Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants in Will county.

Ziller claimed to have important connections with Democratic politicians thruout the state and with the laborers' and teamsters' unions in Joliet. He reported previously that 68, or two-thirds of the state's county Democratic chairmen, had indorsed him for their choice as state-wide patronage agent.

The jury, which began its inquiry two weeks ago and then adjourned until after the July 4 week-end, has heard persons who paid money to Ziller, labor officials, contractors, and business men. Many are reported to have told the jury that they lost money even while working, because of Ziller's financial demands upon them.

Ziller, they said, demanded $300 for each truck put on the job and $50 a week while the truck remained on the project. In addition, truckers had to pay $63 initiation fees to the Joliet teamsters' union and monthly dues. Ziller had been authorized, union officials admitted, to collect dues for both the teamsters' and laborers' unions.

Records in the hands of investigators reveal that Ziller, who weighs between 500 and 600 pounds, had made numerous calls to leading Democratic state leaders and had been made a deputy sheriff in Jersey county, more than 100 miles from his home in Weston.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. E. S. Hershberger, Decatur, Illinois.]

THE QUESTION.

As a child, what particular thing that the grown-ups did or said embarassed you most?

WHERE ASKED.

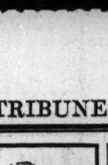
Heyworth building, 29 East Madison street.

THE ANSWERS.

Betty Blonsky, stenographer, 1533 South Lawndale avenue—My family and friends were always saying and doing many things to let everybody know I was the baby of the family. Others had a chance to grow up, but even now I'm still the baby and not yet capable of accepting responsibility.

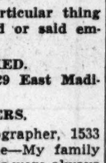
William F. Umbricht, clerk, 4945 North Keeler avenue—Company, or no company it was routine embarrassment for me to have my ears inspected after diligent scrubbings and polishings. I worked hard at it in hopes of eliminating the ordeal. Nevertheless, they were inspected every time.

Phyllis Rose, stenographer, 4843 North Monticello avenue—It was a habit carried over from my baby days and I was doing my bes' to break myself of drinking milk from a bottle when I was 6 years old. Whenever they began to discuss their problem child I'd run off in shame and hide the bottle where they couldn't find it.



Mable Orr, stenographer, 641 North Mayfield avenue—It was an effort for me to join the adults and feel at home. Every time they got together they would make me feel so conspicuous by remarking about my resemblance to my mother. It seemed like all the attention was directed to me and I sat there and blushed.

Wesley R. Wilson, representative telephone company, 6444 Northwest highway — When they stood me up on a chair and told me to sing, I didn't do it because I wanted to collect pennies afterward. I sang so I could get it over with and get out of the limelight. I knew from experience that was the quickest way out.



Virginia Lund, clerk, 3715 Sheffield avenue—Every time there was a discussion about whether I was old enough to go with my sister or too young to stay home alone, I was humiliated regardless of the decision. It didn't matter how much older I became, the discussion was always the same.

PAINTER CALLS QUIZ ON LINER A 'GREAT SCANDAL'

Jersey City, N. J., July 5 (AP).—Lawton S. Parker, noted portrait painter and an associate of the National academy, who left the diplomatic exchange liner Drottningholm today, denounced as "a great scandal" the official investigation of passengers returning to this country from Europe.

More than 400 passengers are still aboard the ship which docked here last Tuesday. All are being questioned by army and navy intelligence officers, FBI agents, and immigration and customs authorities.

Parker said he had "gone thru a great deal in Europe, but there was nothing there that compared to the handling of the people on the Drottningholm."

Belief that the investigators "had found what they were looking for" was expressed today by C. Charles Devaux, a Nice, France, hotel man, who was released from the ship today with his wife, Marguerite.

No comment was forthcoming from the agents.

HOWARD WARNS LANDLORDS NOT TO EVADE RULES

Permits Must Be Obtained for Evictions.

Chicago area landlords yesterday were warned by Rent Director Earl Dean Howard against attempting to evade federal rent regulations by evicting tenants or cutting services. He reiterated his warning against dissemination of false information about rent control.

"I appeal to all landlords to maintain existing tenants in their properties," Howard said. "The maximum rent regulations, in general, prohibit evictions of tenants except for nonpayment of rent at the March 1, 1942, rate and except in situations where the tenant is committing a nuisance or using the property for an illegal or immoral purpose, or where the landlord seeks immediately to use and occupy the dwelling for himself. This prohibition continues even tho the tenant's lease has expired."

Watch Eviction Cases.

He said that landlords commencing an eviction [except for nonpayment] must notify the rent office at 222 West Adams street. A staff attorney has been assigned to observe eviction cases in the Municipal court.

Petitions to cut services must be made to the rent director, he said.

Howard said his staff had studied more than 4,000 inquiries which were handled last week and selected nine which recurred most often. The questions and answers follow:

For Landlords.

Q.—I have not increased rents for several years. May I collect my May 1 rent increase? A.—No.

Q.—The rents for some of my apartments are lower than for other apartments in my building or in my neighborhood. May I collect my May 1 rent increases on those apartments for which the rents are lower? A.—No.

Q.—In view of increasing taxes and operating costs, at this time may I collect my May 1 rent increase? A.—No.

Q.—I have kept my building in good state of repair and have redecorated my apartments. May I collect my May 1 rent increase? A.—No. Rent increases are not permitted for customary maintenance, repair, replacement, or decorating.

For Tenants.

Q.—I am a new tenant. How can I determine the March 1, 1942, rent for my apartment? A.—First get a bill from the landlord. Make an investigation and communicate with the former tenant. If then you do not know the March 1, 1942, rent, or a dispute exists between you and the landlord as to the rent rate apply to the rent office.

Q.—My landlord says he will not accept the March 1, 1942, rent rate. What shall I do? A.—Tender to him the March 1, 1942, rent in the presence of witnesses. If you do this, you cannot be evicted. Ask your landlord to confer with the rent staff. If he persists in his refusal, apply to the rent staff for aid.

Cannot Reduce Services.

Q—My landlord refuses to decorate, or has cut down on maid and linen service. What shall I do? A.—Your landlord is required to furnish substantially such services as he did in the past or reduce his rents. If he refuses, continue to pay the March 1, 1942, rent and file a petition to decrease the rent because of a decrease in services. Forms may be obtained at the rent office.

Q.—Can I obtain a refund for May 1 rent increases paid in May or June. A.—No.

Q.—I paid the May 1 rent increases for July. Can I obtain a refund? A.—Yes. For collecting such increases in July or thereafter, your landlord is subject to the penalties of the law.

The rent regulation became effective July 1 on all types of dwellings, including unfurnished and furnished houses, apartments, apartment hotels, summer cottages, hotels, tourist camps, and trailers.

Just by KEEPING WELL You can help win this war!

"Wave goodbye to Dr. Cross, darling"

FOLLOW THESE 5 RULES

Learn them, practice them—help in this practical way to keep yourself in fighting trim. A hundred million well Americans can't lose!

1. Eat right

Milk, butter, eggs, fish, meat, cheese, beans and peas, fruit, green leafy vegetables and the yellow ones, whole-grain or enriched cereals and bread—these are the key foods. Eat plenty of them. And eat 3 meals a day!

2. Get your rest

Regularity counts most. You can't catch up on lost sleep or missed relaxation! Try to keep on a regular schedule every day. Take it easy for a little while after lunch and dinner. Go to bed on time, get up on time.

3. See your doctor once a year

You have your car checked and serviced every thousand miles. Do as much for your body. Physicians can prevent many diseases and illnesses for both children and grownups nowadays. Give your doctor a chance now, BEFORE you get sick. Go to see him!

4. Keep clean

5. "Play" some each day

Romp with the family, visit with friends, take walks, play games—or do whatever you like to give your mind and body a change from the daily grind on the job. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

WANT TO KNOW SOMETHING that you can do to hurry the victory we all want so much? Just keep well.

Nearly one-third of all our physicians, dentists, and nurses are going to war. The time of the remaining civilian medical forces is limited.

So, we simply mustn't get sick if we can possibly avoid it. If we do, we lose time from our jobs, upset our families, slow down the whole march to victory!

It's EASY to keep well

For example, think what great progress children's doctors have made! In a few minutes of a physician's time today your child can be completely immunized against such serious things as diphtheria and smallpox. And grownups can have the benefits of modern medical science as well.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, Editor of the Journal of The American Medical Association, puts it this way: "If all the people will follow a few commonsense rules of health, we will save millions of man-days of war work and save untold amounts of human misery."

Life insurance has provided the means to keep millions of Americans in health and security. This message is one way life insurance companies believe they can help you to help win this war. Institute of Life Insurance, 60 East 42nd Street, New York City.

Mrs. Burton Learns How to Make Her Electric Washer Last Longer

Mrs. Burton: Let's start with proper loading.

Miss Scott: With the right amount of soap and water in the tub, we start the agitator, run the soaked clothes through the wringer and put them into the tub one at a time. We continue as long as the clothes roll over regularly, appearing and disappearing as the agitation takes place. If the clothes fail to turn over regularly, you know that too many pieces have been added. Too many clothes slow down the water action and strain the motor. Too few clothes increase the number of tubfuls needlessly.

Mrs. Burton: Is there any special way of wringing clothes to save the wringer rolls?

Miss Scott: Yes, several. In the first place, never bunch the clothes, but send them through evenly. Overlapping a few articles saves, too. Let the handkerchiefs ride through the wringer on a towel or some other flat article. Fold buttons and buckles in so they can't cut the rollers. Keep the rollers evenly adjusted. If they're too loose, they are inefficient . . . if too tight, they bruise and tend to crease the garments and make them hard to iron.

Miss Scott: When washing, rinsing and wringing is all done, an important part of conserving your washer is proper cleaning. Wash the wringer rolls with regular soap...rinse thoroughly with warm water...dry well...release the pressure, this prevents flattening of the rubber rolls. Treat the washer tub as a fine dish, because if the porcelain finish is chipped the metal will rust, this will eventually cause a leak in the tub. The washer tub should never be scoured, but should be washed with a mild soap, thoroughly rinsed and dried with a soft cloth.

Mrs. Burton: Do we clean the agitator?

Miss Scott: Yes, and don't forget to lift the agitator and wash beneath it. Be very careful not to drop the agitator because it might chip or dent the tub. If you keep your washer in a dusty place, cover it with a cloth. Keep your washer properly oiled and greased according to the manufacturer's instructions. Be sure to keep the cord off the wet floor and never roll the washer over it. Do not disconnect the washer by yanking the cord from the outlet, but pull it out easily by the plug.

Mrs. Burton: Do you think this washer is in good condition?

Miss Scott: It seems to work beautifully, but it's a good idea now and then to have a serviceman look it over. There's no telling when you can get another washer...so I'd suggest that you read your instruction book over again and do what it says to make the washer last longer and give perfect service all the time. I'll pin this handy set of rules right here over the washer to remind you each washday of how important it is to give your washer the best of care.

Care of your Washer

1 Fill washer to within a few inches of load-line.

2 Start motor before putting in soap.

3 Pour soap in until suds are about 3 inches deep.

4 Drop in articles to be laundered one by one.

5 Do not overload your washer, and do not wash clothing over-long.

6 Keep wringer rolls evenly adjusted. Do not send garments through in bunches. Send them through flat, and a few at a time.

7 Wash and dry both washer tub and wringer rolls after each washing. Use regular laundry soap . . . rinse well and dry completely. If they stand where dust may reach them, cover them with a cloth. Release the wringer pressure.

8 Do not kink electric cord or roll washer over it. After washing is finished disconnect cord gently and hang in loose coils.

9 Keep your washer properly greased and oiled.

Sen. Lodge Back in U. S. After Mission to Egypt

Washington, D. C., July 5 (AP).—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.], who is on active duty as an army officer, returned to Washington today from a mission to Egypt. He said he had "very many amazing experiences" during his stay in the middle east but for military reasons did not feel free to talk about them.

CHICAGO'S DANES, BELGIANS, DUTCH FIGHT NAZI YOKE

70,000 Patriots Stem from Low Countries.

[This is the tenth in a series of articles on win-the-war activities of groups of foreign birth or extraction in the Chicago area.]

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago is the home of some 70,000 Americans of blood origins from Denmark, the Netherlands, and Belgium, three Nazi-occupied countries. The three groups are among the most active in aiding war enterprises. They have had a high rate of enlistments, before and after Pearl Harbor, they are participants in all home front activities, in war bond purchases, Red Cross, USO, civilian defense, and as workers in plants and factories in production of the sinews of war. All three groups are thoroly Americanized and are so absorbed into the stream of American community life that it is not possible to separate the full extent of their patriotic endeavors. "We're all working as Americans, pure and simple," say the leaders.

The Rev. A. W. Andersen.

Americans of Danish extraction number some 30,000 in the Chicago area. The Chicago Denmark committee, a central organization, is composed of delegates from 42 societies, churches, lodges, clubs, in Chicago representing about 8,000 members. Its president is G. P. Jensen, vice president, the Rev. A. W. Andersen.

Bond Goal Is Million.

This committee sold in excess of $300,000 maturity value of war bonds and stamps to Danish Americans in eight weeks, President Jensen reports. Its goal is $1,000,000. In addition there have been heavy purchases by individuals thru banks and payroll deductions. The Denmark committee has several Red Cross units, has provided many blood donors, has aided in USO and civilian defense. "Its function," says Mr. Jensen, "is general to act for victory where possible."

The Danish National committee, Jens Holmen, president, is also composed of delegates from all the Danish societies. Its best known function is to arrange each June a festival in celebration of Denmark's universal suffrage grant in 1848. It also has activities in good citizenship training, and aids charitable work.

Incidentally, the Danish American group is said to show one of the highest percentages in naturalized citizens. All the clubs, singing societies, churches, lodges, leaders report, are working in various ways toward winning the war.

30,000 of Dutch Blood.

Americans originating from the Netherlands are estimated at about 30,000 in the Chicago area. The Holland Dutch are an old migration stock here. Leaders say they started in the '50s and '60s. After the Civil war and after the Chicago fire their numbers increased. Many of them were Holland Dutch farmers. They settled in Roseland, South Holland, Englewood, Wheaton, and now many are scattered, thru the city. The 1930 census gave 9,135 Holland born and 16,444 American born of foreign parents in Chicago. Some leaders, counting in the younger American born generation, figure Chicago and suburbs at between 35,000 and 40,000 of Hollander blood. The 1940 census breakdown figures are not yet available.

Leaders report this American group is intensely aiding all war measures. Enlistments were high. Among the organizations is the Knickerbocker Society of Chicago, Harry Bierma, president. Mr. Bierma was recently elected department senior vice commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, and he is also in the American Legion. The Holland Dutch American stock, he says, is so completely Americanized and is so identified with the current of Chicago's life, that one cannot figure the extent of the group participation in the war.

"They buy war bonds, for example, not as Hollander-Dutch Americans but as all Americans," he says. "They are all out to win the war."

Active in Red Cross.

The women are active in Red Cross and USO. Among other organizations are the Women's Netherland War Relief society, Mrs. W. F. Kroon, chairman; the Chicago chapter of the Queen Wilhelmina fund, V. DeBont, chairman; the Holland Social club, Mrs. Henry Pott, secretary, and the Holland Ladies' society, Mrs. J. Vandernald, president.

In Chicago are some 10,000 Americans of Belgian stock. This may be a low figure, but the 1930 census gave 4,106 Belgian born and 3,780 native born of foreign parents. Many Belgians, however, are said to have been put down in the census as Hollanders. Nearly all the foreign born are naturalized.

Major Felix J. Streyckmans, of Belgian origin, chairman of the racial committee of the citizenship program, sponsored by the United States department of justice, reports that all are participating in all patriotic affairs, and are investing their savings in war bonds.

Speak Native Patois.

Chicago Belgian Americans are Walloons and Flemings, about fifty-fifty. The Walloons, from the south of Belgium, speak French and have a patois of their own. They came here in the '80s and '90s and were mostly stone cutters and masons. The Flemings, who speak a language akin to the Holland tongue, came around the turn of the century and were mostly agricultural. The colony has its own meeting hall and recreation center at 2625 Fullerton avenue.

One main diversion of this group is pigeon training and it has furnished many carrier pigeons for the army. About 1,500 American Belgians are janitors in Chicago.

2 Engagements Told at North Shore Parties

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO parties over the week-end revealed interesting romantic news concerning north shore families. At an open house yesterday at their farm in Prairie View Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Geoffrey Fanning of Winnetka announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Betty Mercer, to Rogers Butz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Otto Butz, also of Winnetka.

At a family party on Saturday afternoon at her home in Winnetka Mrs. Louvia Pittman announced the engagement of her daughter, Lois, to John Franklin Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Eugene Davis of Glencoe. The Davis-Pittman wedding will not take place for at least a year, as Mr. Davis is a midshipman at the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, and will not be graduated until next June. Miss Pittman, whose father is Knowles Pittman of Chicago, attended the Erskine school in Boston, and with her cousin, Miss Lois Mason, was among last season's debutantes, altho she did not have a formal party.

Miss Mercer Is Taking Business Course Here.

Miss Mercer attended Connecticut college for two years and is taking a business course in Chicago. Her fiancé attended Kenyon college and Northwestern university and is in business in Chicago. He has two brothers, Herbert and William.

Miss Mercer also has two brothers, Fielding, a student in the air corps in Washington, D. C., and Donald Mercer, who was just graduated from the Asheville school, and who now is at Princeton university for its accelerated three year course. Their father was the late Donald W. Mercer. Cyril Fanning Jr. missed yesterday's party, for he is attending Camp Highland this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Griffin of North Knox avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Ensign Joseph R. Schwaba, son of Judge and Mrs. Peter H. Schwaba of North Knox avenue. Miss Griffin is a graduate of St. Mary's college at Notre Dame. Her fiancé, who was graduated from the Northwestern university law school, was commissioned a few days ago and will be leaving shortly for training at Dartmouth college.

Nelson L. Barnes Jr., who has been commissioned a lieutenant [j.g.] in the navy, has left for two months of training on the west coast. His family is remaining in Chicago.

Lieut. Comm. Clifford Rodman is taking five months of training with the navy at an eastern base.

Lieut. and Mrs. Jefferson Curriers have gone to Thomasville, Ga. Their Lake Forest house has been taken by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walker, former Tennesseeans.

Homer Dixon's Family Scattered Over Nation.

The Homer L. Dixons' large household has shrunk to smaller proportions than usual. After a Chicago visit, Lieut. and Mrs. Wallace S. Wakem left on Monday for Oklahoma. After Lieut. Wakem has completed a three month course, they expect to go to Maryland. At present another of the Dixon daughters, Mrs. Howard E. Buhse, and her husband and three children are in Minneapolis, Minn., visiting his family. The Alex C. Fletchers [Ethel Dixon] also live in Minneapolis.

If they follow their annual tradition, the A. Parker Bryants [Elizabeth Dixon] will be coming up from Palm Beach, Fla., about the end of August to stay until after Thanksgiving. Homer Dixon Jr. is in training at the naval reserve school at Glenview.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon B. Smith and young Solomon and Wendy are getting settled in their new home. They have deserted the Scott street colony and have moved out to Mrs. Eckhart Williams' home in Lake Forest as year 'round residents.

Mrs. Frank G. Hoyne and her daughter, Mrs. Leonora Temple Hoyne, have closed their apartment at the Seneca and have gone to Leland, Mich., for the summer.

Mrs. Westray B. Hazzard of Greensboro, N. C., and her two children, Harvey and Ruth Coryelle, have been guests for the last month at Broadlands, the North Prairie, Wis., farm home of Mrs. Hazzard's parents, the Arlington C. Harveys of Evanston. The Hazzards will be leaving on Thursday for North Carolina.

Mrs. Charles H. Ross and her two daughters, Polly and Christina, have gone to Washington, D. C., to join Mr. Ross, whose business has taken him there. Mr. and Mrs. Ross have taken a house in Washington for the summer. Their own new home in Northfield, which they never have occupied, is to be rented.

Miss Gertrude Barrett and Dr. Laadt to Wed.

Miss Gertrude Barrett and Dr. John Raymond Laadt will be married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Hawthorne place home of her mother, Mrs. Charles V. Barrett, with a small reception following for relatives and close friends. Charles V. Barrett Jr. will give his sister in marriage. The bride's sister, Ruth, will be maid of honor, and James Laadt will be his brother's best man. Among the guests will be two other sisters of the bride, Mrs. Stephen Glennon of Larchmont, N. Y., and Mrs. John Bertrand, who recently returned to Chicago from Kansas City.

The christening of the treasury's new bus that will advertise war savings stamps and bonds over its regular route was postponed last Monday because of rain. The ceremony will be held at noon today in front of the Art institute, with Miss Joan Hixon as sponsor.

A Grandmother's Spirit.

We've just heard of one grandmother who's no rocking chair patriot. She not only goes on the theory that you're as young as you feel, but she proves it. She also is sure that the best way to win this war is to get to work, and she's doing that. Her name is Mrs. Sylvia T. Dougherty, she lives in Oak Park, and she has enrolled in the 10 week intensive ordnance inspection course at the Illinois Institute of Technology. When she's finished she will be at work daily inspecting shells and artillery ammunition. A young mother in the World war, Mrs. Dougherty saw her husband drafted when their son was three months old. She became postmistress in a small town, later went to college and received her degree, while rearing her son to fine manhood. The son is now employed in a midwestern defense plant, and is the father of 7 month old Patricia Diane Dougherty, the apple of her grandmother's eye.

Disguise.

'Tis Pity, 'Tis, 'Tis True.

From the Camp Robinson News:

Many a romance is battered and bruised
When dancing slippers meet GI shoes.

Punster.

The career of Phil Fein, stage manager of the Chicago Opera company, has included practically every conceivable kind of a part, on stage and off. But not until a recent performance of "Rose Marie" at St. Paul, where he'd been called to help with operetta productions, was he ever required to take the part of a savage wolf howling at the door. Reporting on Phil's performance, a clownish friend said, "It was a case of a wolf in Phil's clothing, but he was a howling success."

Observant Lad.

A little lad visiting the Field museum's hall of African mammals asked a guard, "Does the rhinoceros use its horns for opening its eggs?" "They don't eat eggs," replied the guard. "No, but they lay them, don't they?" retorted the lad. When the story was told to Karl P. Schmidt, the museum's chief curator of zoölogy and one of America's foremost herpetologists, he commented, "The boy was far from dumb—in fact was extremely smart. He showed unusually keen powers of observation and deduction, even if he did reach a wrong conclusion. He's probably been in the country and closely observed the hatching of birds' or turtles' eggs. Both, when ready to hatch, have what is known as an 'egg tooth,' which bears a remote resemblance to a rhinoceros's horn. Such teeth are used for exactly what the boy thought—for breaking eggs, but the breaking is done by the hatchling to escape from the shell. The boy's question was probably based on a subtle recollection of some such observation, combined with excellent ratiocination, and a sense of the incongruous."

Reason Enough.

The garage which adjoins the James G. Shakmans' residence in Wilmette has doors of solid wood, an architectural feature that invariably calls forth questions from their guests as to why it was built that way. Mr. Shakman explains that when they lived in Peoria their garage doors were mostly of glass, making the interior of the garage so light that as often as not he backed the car out thru the closed doors. This time he took no chances, and gets along fine.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The blossoming Actors Company of Chicago, whose production of "The Children's Hour" aroused unqualified enthusiasm last spring, have now made another important contribution to the theater life of Chicago. In bringing "Letters to Lucerne" to Chicago's attention, the Actors Company has singled out a play strong enough to merit inclusion in Burns Mantle's annual list of the ten best, and a play which, even without Mr. Mantle's discerning tribute, contains much that is touching and much that is honest, and certainly much that is of the greatest topical interest. The present production is skillful and full of illusion, to the point that it will not disappoint those who demand a fully professional standard of performance.

"Letters to Lucerne" tells of half a dozen schoolgirls who, before the outbreak of war, live happily and peaceably together in a modest and gracious little establishment in Lucerne, under the kindly care of Mrs. Hunter, an American schoolmistress with a heart for her work. The bond among the girls is so strong that they all share their most intimate letters, devoting a period in the evening to the ceremony of reading them aloud. The French girl, the British girl, the German girl, the Polish girl, and two Americans—from the north and from the south—pool their thoughts and feelings with no sense whatever of separating national attitudes.

The fateful outbreak of war, on Aug. 31, 1939, abruptly changes the serenity of this sheltered life. Warsaw is attacked, and the Polish girl's parents are killed in a raid in which the German girl's brother takes part. Soon the unhappy German girl finds herself an outcast, with most of the other girls stridently hurling at her the anger which rightfully belongs to the military leaders of a country whose aims she honestly cannot understand.

Minnie Galatzer's direction is superbly apt and complete. Althea Murphy plays the unhappy German girl with appealing reticence. Winnie Hoveler, of the night club arena, displays unmistakable acting gifts, but despite a thoughtful performance does not quite succeed in projecting the spontaneous appearance and movements of an adolescent. Fern Head contributes an exceptionally stagewise portrait of the gabby southern girl. Ruth Perrott wins sympathy as an assistant teacher. Hope Summers' characterization of the headmistress, on the other hand, is too static and literal.

The other performers, for whom I have no space, function well in an ensemble so good that you have to pinch yourself to realize that Chicago actually has a local acting company as expert as this.

Steindel Leads His Orchestra in Program at Park

The serene evening, marking the end of a two day holiday, brought a large crowd of listeners to the Grant park band shell last night. Walter Steindel conducted the orchestra for the first time this season, and Marian Carlisle, Chicago radio soprano, was soloist.

It is always a good, solid pleasure to observe Mr. Steindel at work with an orchestra. Even tho his musicianship can never be called inspirational, it is always honorable in its intention.

In Beethoven's third "Leonore" Overture Mr. Steindel was at his best, for the music was delivered with naturalness and with good structural integration. Elsewhere the orchestral program included such favorites as Smetana's "The Moldau," Bach's middle sized G minor fugue, in an unidentified transcription, Sibelius' "The Swan of Tuonela," and other works of comparable merit.

Miss Carlisle's singing has a good deal of suavity and felicity of style, but her voice is too small to make climaxes effectively. In Micaela's aria from Bizet's "Carmen," there were many felicities of incidental treatment; when the high notes came along, however, they seemed pale and lacking in significance. C. S.

Mitropoulos at Ravinia Park Provides Critic with a Theory

BY EDWARD BARRY.

You think of a great truth as something that comes to a person at night in a desert or on a mountain top. Yet a great truth came to me yesterday afternoon in normal, sunny Ravinia park.

It was a truth about Dimitri Mitropoulos, who was closing his engagement as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and it runs something like this:

When Mr. Mitropoulos deals with a score which has, legitimately and in its own right, the kind of tense, supercharged drama he loves, his conducting of it is good, and perhaps great. It is only when he has to manufacture this drama himself, and set it to compete with and eventually to overwhelm and destroy the inherent character of the piece, that he forces himself into difficult artistic positions.

What drove this truth home was yesterday's magnificent performance of Strauss' "Don Juan." The piece's tremendous urgency and its incredibly splendid sonorities add up to the kind of flooding, all out character which appeals strongly to Mr. Mitropoulos, and, in conducting it, all he had to do was point up and make more vivid qualities which already existed. The music swelled into the most terrific climaxes naturally and easily.

If any reader with a long memory reminds me that the same conductor's performance of another Strauss tone poem last Tuesday drew less than enthusiastic comments in this column, the reason for the apparent contradiction is not far to seek. At that time Mr. Mitropoulos and the orchestra were almost strangers to each other; yesterday they were old friends. The musicians seemed to sense the conductor's every desire.

The Strauss was followed by another superbrilliant favorite of Mr. Mitropoulos—Glazunoff's Overture on Three Greek Themes, opus 3—and was preceded by two Mendelssohn works—the "Ruy Blas" overture and the "Scotch" symphony. The fact must be recorded, even tho it does not fit in well with my big generalization about the conductor, that in the slow movement of the symphony there were at least two examples of simple, unforced lyrical flow.

The Fourth of July program Saturday night ended with what was perhaps the loudest performance in Ravinia history. Tschaikowsky's "1812" overture, complete with bells and cannon crackers, frightened the last squirrel out of the park.

The program began with Berlioz' "Corsair" overture. Berlioz and Mitropoulos, altho a century apart in time, have quite an affinity artistically, and the performance of the overture was not only extremely vivid but proper and idiomatic.

The Grieg G minor quartet which followed—it was played by the string orchestra—seemed to take much more time than its importance as a piece of music justified. Also it had a wearisome number of climaxes.

The Brahms-Haydn Variations, set just before the Tschaikowsky, brought the first surprise of the week-end. Mr. Mitropoulos did indeed give the statement of the theme its requisite directness and simplicity—and he did it by the expedient of not conducting at all! The orchestra just played it in its accustomed way. In the variations proper the conductor introduced so much tempo variety as to change the rugged, four square character of the kind of performance we are used to into something much more flexible and wayward, but the composer's own markings justify some, at least, of this tempo variety among the movements.

Tomorrow evening George Szell, the Hungarian-born Czech conductor who received so warm a welcome at Ravinia last year, returns to begin a series of eight concerts.

WIFE'S OPINION.

"Then Sharon shot Harold—I suppose you know about that?" Philip said.

"Yes," Juliet said. "But I don't know why."

"Nobody does—she would never talk about it. I don't even know whether she told the police the truth. At any rate she convinced them she had just provocation.

"They didn't punish her. She stayed around until Harold recovered, then she went away for a few months, and she returned as Sharon Lathrop."

"Another husband?"

"I don't know—it would be just like her to have changed her name. At any rate, after that she and Harold met often—very friendly of course, but not sweethearts. Well, here we are."

He pulled up to the side of the highway close to the blue walls.

Mrs. Lathrop herself opened the grilled door to them.

"Come in—come in," she called out gayly. The evening sun caught the copper glint in her hair. There was a sparkle in her eyes. "Philip, I was hoping you'd stop by—and Julie! It's good to see a couple of cheerful faces," she laughed as she ushered them into the main room—bare-floored as they are in many Mexican homes.

As in the Lynn home, no attempt had been made here to preserve a strict Mexican atmosphere. But the furniture and the decorations, brought from all parts of the world, revealed infinitely more taste in the choosing than did those in Elaine's expensively decorated rooms.

"It isn't New Year's day," Sharon rattled on, "but I seem to have been keeping open house for the greatest assortment of tears and grouches. Have some tea?"

"Thanks," Philip spoke quickly for both. "And can we have a little food with it? We forgot to have lunch."

"O, O, police trouble, I suppose," Mrs. Lathrop's green eyes narrowed to slits. "We've had the whole Mexican force here today. I thought they were going to move in—fingerprint sets and all."

"Sir James here?" Philip inquired.

"He was. He's gone now. He was trying to persuade Elaine to go home with him. She's still here, tho. Seems to be afraid of him. She came in very late last night—drove over herself — and asked if she could sleep with me—in my room. Said James kept showing up in her bedroom—spookylike—and wouldn't let her sleep."

Mrs. Lathrop rang for tea.

"Better eat hearty. From all the police hints we'll all be eating prison fare in no time at all. I understand they're ferreting out deep, dark secrets about each one of us," she said with a laugh that was like the soft tinkle of bells.

"Hello!"

Elaine came swinging into the room—looking almost like the delicately beautiful showgirl she once was. Her hair was fluffy, her complexion pink and white. Her pastel blue sweater was a complement to her eyes—there was but the slightest trace of tears.

"I'm not much of a hostess to run off and leave you, am I, Julie?" she asked apologetically.

"O, I understand," Juliet answered altho she didn't. "Coming home tonight?"

"I don't think so. I told James I wouldn't come home until he did something I wanted him to. He's bloody mad at me because of what I told the police."

"What did you tell them?" Philip asked, so casually that Juliet wondered if he really expected an answer.

He got it promptly.

"Do you remember that afternoon when Harold offered to take us to the San Martin market?"

Elaine spoke to Juliet. The girl nodded. She thought she detected a tremble in Elaine's husky voice when she mentioned Harold's name.

"And James said we'd ride in Chaputepec instead?"

Juliet nodded again.

"Well, while you were trotting along ahead, by yourself, I told James I wanted a divorce."

Her audience gasped.

"O, he made a terrific fuss at first," Elaine continued. "He was jolly sarcastic. Said he guessed it was Harold I wanted. Said he'd be glad to kill himself to get out of our way. Then he cooled down. Asked me where I wanted to get a divorce. How much money I wanted. Where I wanted to live. I might have known he was only pretending!"

Sharon squeezed her hand. Rankin studied a carved Buddha on the table.

"You told all that to the police!" Juliet said in amazement.

Elaine's chin went up defiantly.

"I told them a good deal more than that. After we got back from the ride and I was changing for dinner James told me we were going to dine at the Bellavista with Harold.

"I said I didn't want to go. He patted his hip pocket and said he'd kill me if I didn't go. I was never so scared in my life."

"You told the police that?" Rankin asked.

"Certainly I told them. And I told them James was as nasty as he could be all thru dinner. It was awful, wasn't it?"

She turned to Sharon.

"I'll never forget it," Sharon said softly.

"But by the time Harold asked me to go dancing, James was so drunk we couldn't understand what he was saying. And by the time Harold brought me home—it was about 3 in the morning—James was in his bedroom. I looked in and saw him. But he wasn't asleep. And he wasn't undressed."

"And you told the police that?" Sharon asked.

"Certainly. I think some one should be punished for Harold's death, don't you?"

"Well, yes," Rankin agreed—"but your husband?"

"Why not? I'm convinced he did it," Elaine answered.

"A strong motive doesn't necessarily convict a man, dear," Sharon said, shaking her head. "You're just wrought up now. Come on, I'll pour you a cup of tea. It will brace you." And then, as if to change the subject, she asked:

"Philip, why don't you and Julie stay for dinner with us? We need company."

Juliet would have declined, but Philip accepted with alacrity.

"But we left no word and Sir James will be wondering where I am," Juliet protested.

"He'll probably think you've left his house and home for good. You certainly gave the impression this morning that you were going to do that," Philip answered, laughing.

"What has happened?" Elaine asked.

Juliet told them about the discovery of the torn letter and of Sir James' insistence that she had written it.

"Didn't you?" Philip asked jokingly.

"Philip! I've said over and over I didn't."

"Very well, let's not quarrel about it."

"Better still," Mrs. Lathrop said quickly, seeing distress in Juliet's dark eyes, "let's not say another word about Lord Festone or anything relating to him."

Juliet, in particular, was thankful for Sharon's tactful suggestion.

She was dreadfully frightened and sorry, too, that she had lied about the copy. She knew that the police were bound to find out sooner or later that she had written it. Well, if her finger prints were on it, somebody else's would be also.

Silently, Juliet grew more and more annoyed at Philip's devotion to Sharon—and then was provoked with herself because she let it bother her.

Juliet made a few futile attempts to enter the conversation, but she could not keep up with the brittle exchange between Philip and Sharon.

Elaine sat without speaking, scarcely touching her food. Finally, Juliet, too, lapsed into silence. But her thoughts were far from idle.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of the most luscious sun tans we have ever seen was achieved by a young collegienne we know who used an oil. It was serious business with her, but we'd say results were worth the time and trouble.

She sunned daily, right in her own back yard, lying on a couple of bath mats. She began with brief periods and gradually lengthened them as her skin became more and more tolerant of the sun's rays. She never once got a burn, and attributes this to the use of the fine oil and her discretion about the length of exposure. She started at 4 minutes a day and added to this by a few minutes daily.

The oil she used is one of those miraculous modern jobs which even enables you to choose the color you'd like to be. If you want a light tan you use one specially designed to give you a honey colored coat. If you prefer a deeper bronze skin tone you use a different oil. The oil speeds up the acquisition of a tan and of course helps the skin keep its satiny texture while the tan is being acquired.

This is one of the pleasantest sun tan oils you can find, light in texture and delicately perfumed. We don't care for oils if the sunning is done at the beach. Sand adheres and makes a scratchy mess. But if you can take your sun baths on a lawn or a roof, with a mat to lie on, the use of a good oil helps you achieve a rich tan rather quickly. Remember, tho, that moderation about the length of sun baths is always wise.

This oil comes in handy capsules, a dozen to a box, as well as in various sized bottles. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Good Morning!

Some years ago Maurine Watkins—who used to work on THE TRIBUNE, wrote a very swell play called "Chicago" and produced by Sam Harris. . . . "Roxie Hart" is its movie version.

Miss Watkins' heroine was a child of chaos. . . . A 1927 girl in whose veins ran the excited and undisciplined blood of the gangster era, and her story was based on fact.

As the picture opens a gray haired newspaper man of 1942, who had been a hot blooded reporter in 1927, tells the story of Roxie over the bar in one O'Malley's saloon.

Fade-out—and now it's 1927 and one George Chandler is frantically confessing to the murder of a man who had been found dead in his flat. . . . The fellow was burglarizing, says Chandler. . . . Mrs. Chandler? O, downtown shopping — or something like that. . . . BUT it turns out that Mrs. Chandler was right there and, at that particular moment is up on the roof, keeping well out of sight.

The corpse is identified as a theatrical agent with whom Roxie Chandler had been having more than business dealings. [You gather.] But, for a good story, the sort of reporters we don't know anything about, persuade her to confess that she has killed to protect her virtue. . . . A famous criminal attorney takes the case. . . . Feature writers and sob sisters get busy and Roxie—who had yearned for her picture in the paper more than anything else in life—becomes famous. . . .

For a day. . . . But, while she awaits trial, a new murder is committed and now everybody's lavishing attention on "Two Gun Bertha." . . . What to do? Roxie thinks up a new one. . . . Never mind what it is—but from here on the little woman is fairly drowned in limelight. . . .

It would have been right nice if the director had known just when to end his epic. For the most part "Roxie Hart" is right clever satire, tho I think a lighter touch might have been employed.

Ginger Rogers is deft. Adolphe Menjou is skilful as the rascally, quick-thinking criminal lawyer. . . . Lynne Overman as the old time newspaper man is just right and there's much good playing by the supporting cast. . . . Didn't care for George Montgomery.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., July 5.—Preston Sturges told me that the last time he acted was about 13 years ago, when he did a small part in the Chicago company of "Frankie and Johnny." After a week of it he got fed up and quit. Went home, wrote a play, and its name was "Strictly Dishonorable," which won him fame and fortune. Incidentally, it was Preston who gave Julius Tannen his screen chance in "Great Without Glory." Studio talked of getting Massey, who would have set them back around $7,000. Walter Huston would have cost them $5,000. And Tannen has done a swell job. All he needed was an opportunity. He got it. Now let's watch his smoke.

How Does It Happen?

I thought Melvyn Douglas had gone into the Office of Civilian Defense for the duration. Now, by golly, he's coming back to co-star in "Miss Grant Takes Richmond" with Rita Hayworth. Yet none of our stars in uniform have been permitted to come back and make feature pictures. Sure, some of them made shorts, but not features. I lunched with an exhibitor the other day, and he said the one they miss most is Jimmy Stewart. No matter what the picture was, he sold the house. . . . Martha Raye's waiting until after her marriage so she can take her husband along when she goes to entertain our soldiers up in Alaska. Alan Ladd claims if he does a good job in "The Glass Key" it will be entirely due to Brian Donlevy, 'cause he taught him more camera tricks of the trade than Alan ever thought of. . . . Wonder who Irene Rich was gunning for when she came to a broadcast with a .45 revolver strapped to one leg and a belt filled with cartridges?

He Should Know.

Billy Wilder, back from New York, says the women there were too cold and the weather too hot. "You've got to change your shirt six times a day," he said, "and who's got six shirts?" He's fed up with the belittling attitude of Broadway for Hollywood, and I don't blame him, 'cause from an entertainment standpoint we're giving 'em cards and spades. And heaven knows I was reared—well, anyway, I was in—the theater. He said the Broadway dim-out crowds are greater than any he's ever seen on that stem. He's waiting for Arthur Hornblow's return before they preview "The Major and the Minor." His next will be "Men's Wear," which his sidekick, Charlie Brackett, produces and he directs. . . . Paul Lukas, who starred 15 months on Broadway in "Watch on the Rhine," goes into two days' rehearsals with Bette Davis so she can catch up with him.

Only the Brave.

While I was talking with Henry Fonda on the "Ox Bow Incident" set he told a story about one of my helpers, now in the army, that couldn't be funnier. Seems Fonda was weeding his front garden, when along came Spec McClure, on his way to Fort MacArthur, and said, "I just stopped by to find out who your favorite authors are." Hank said, "Well, for Pete's sake, what good is that going to do you?" Spec replied, "I'll tell you, it'll give me something to dream about when I'm on duty as K. P." . . . Hank, in his endeavor to become a farmer, has used so much poison spraying his vegetables that all but a few cabbages succumbed. And his missus won't use those for fear they'll poison the family.

Good Advice—but Will They Take It?

The girls of the Chi Zeta Epsilon sorority at Barnard college write in praise of our movies, but would like to see a different team of lovers. For instance, they'd like Clark Gable and Martha Scott together, Irene Dunne with James Craig, Marlene Dietrich and Cowboy Charles Starrett, Cary Grant and Loretta Young, Charles Boyer and Marjorie Woodworth. They get their wish about Gary Cooper and Zorina. They think Martha Scott is one of our best actresses, but that's no reason why she should keep on playing a clinging vine. "Beauty is more than skin deep and passion is something more than mugging," they say. Girls, I'm passing this along, and we'll let the chips fall where they may.

Not Used to Our Playful Way!

Down in New Mexico where they're shooting "The Desert Song," Jack La Rue came to the set carrying a bull whip with which he was supposed to threaten an actor, and one of the extras, thinking he was on the level, rushed to the rescue, hit Jack on the noggin with a pick-axe handle, and knocked him cold! But fortunately it wasn't serious.

My Girl Scout Deed.

Since Gracie Fields is the hit of Broadway, Metro's frantically looking for a picture for her. Well, they've got two perfect stories on the shelf over there—one written by Francis Marion and called "Mollie, Bless Her!"—in which they were going to star Fannie Brice and Sophie Tucker. But they were saved in the nick of time because, while the girls in the story were former actresses, in the picture one becomes a housekeeper and another a cook. It's a natural for Gracie. The other story is "A Perfect Gentleman" by Edward Childs Carpenter. Hey! Metro, if you dust off these stories, I'm going to ask for 10 per cent. Yeah! And I should hold my breath till I get it! . . . The most famous magazine cover girl of all time—Betsy Ross. Her American flag adorns all our magazines for July.

Sally's Guests to See Newest Disney Movie

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Well, boys and girls, who's coming to see "Bambi" with me?

The youngsters who are selected to see this beautiful new color movie are going to have a wonderful treat. The famous Walt Disney has been working on this picture for almost five years and it is soon to be shown at the Palace theater. At our party, however, 100 boys and girls will see a special preview of this movie, arranged just for us by R. K. O. Won't that be fun?

I'm sure that many of you have read the book from which this movie was adapted, and that should make you doubly anxious to see the little fawn "Bambi" come to life in the movies. Every one loved "Snow White" and "Dumbo" and I know how you boys and girls feel about Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck,—so I'm positive you'll enjoy every minute of the film which has been selected for our second big party of the year.

The date is July 16, and if you think you'd like to come with me to see the big, shady forest where Bambi grows up with all of his friends—the screech owl who loves to scare people, the hare who has long wiggly ears and an elegant mustache and all the other little people of the woods—better get started on your letters to me right away.

You see, I want to have as my guests boys and girls who like this sort of entertainment, and who would thoroly enjoy such a party. If you prefer swimming to movies, you're not the boy or girl I'm looking for.

I'll have room for 50 boys and 50 girls, and they'll be the youngsters who prove to me that they'd have a wonderful time as my guests. If you'd like to come, just tell me in your own words why you'd like an invitation, and don't forget to give me your full name, address, and your age. If you don't remember each of those three items, or if your letter isn't on my desk by next Thursday morning, you can't possibly be a winner—so keep your thinking cap on while you're writing!

Just mail your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

On the House

Waxes of various types are the surest insurance to longevity and good looks that a floor can be given. . . . In fact, these modern waxes are almost a "must" if we'd give our floors vitamin strength. . . . No matter what type flooring, there are waxes which will give it a protective, cleanable surface, as well as add to its water endurance. . . . For wood floors, in particular, there are penetrating floor finishes which bind the wood fibers together as they penetrate the wood. . . . This type treatment prevents splintering and uneven wear, under heavy traffic, and puts up a fight against moisture and dirt.

Planning summer menus is something which most of us anticipate with pleasure. There's such an endless list of delicious and colorful fruits and vegetables from which to choose that, unless a woman completely lacks the artistic sense, she thoroly enjoys spreading her table with the treats of the season.

Midday appetities during the warmer months usually are not huge and do not call for hearty fare. Menus should be simple, colorful, and well balanced. Vegetables make the basis for many a noonday meal, either in vegetable plates, salad bowls, jellied salads, or raw vegetable sandwiches.

Fruits are equally important in the summer luncheon menu. A whole meal fruit salad platter speaks for itself, and rounds into a complete menu with the addition of hot biscuits, simple dessert, and beverage. Another favorite main dish is cottage cheese ring filled with mixed fresh fruits and served with sweet French dressing.

Fresh vegetable plates are colorful and nutritious. Center the plate with a peeled tomato stuffed with cottage cheese, and sprinkled with chives or parsley, and surround it with servings of spinach, mixed carrots and peas, green lima beans, and asparagus. Or use green beans, parslied carrots, and cut corn with pimiento, centered with a broiled tomato half. Serve either of these with whole-wheat bread sandwiches and stewed or fresh fruit.

Asparagus rolls with cheese sauce are a great luncheon favorite. Roll thin slices of boiled ham or freshly made toast around stalks of cooked asparagus, and serve with a cheese sauce and bacon crisps. For dessert serve fresh pineapple cubes or fruit flavored rennet dessert and crisp cookies.

Macaroni salad is another popular luncheon entree. Into this filling salad go any of the ingredients suitable for potato salad, chopped, hardcooked egg, cucumber, sweet pickle, pimiento, and celery seed. Blend with mayonnaise diluted with a little cider vinegar. [The vinegar peps up the mixture.]

1 cup cucumber, diced
1 cup thinly sliced radishes
1 cup thinly sliced young green onions

Dissolve gelatin in warm water and add vinegar and salt. Chill until slightly thickened and fold in vegetables. Turn into ring mold or individual molds, and chill until firm. Serve with mayonnaise.

Hold-up plays in all their ramifications are not too well understood by the great body of bridge players. As valuable as this type of play may be when used at the right time, its use can be just as fatal in other instances.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	1 spade	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the nine of hearts, dummy played the ten, East the jack, and declarer won with the ace. A low club then was led to the ten. East won with the king and shifted to a low diamond. West played the queen and, at this point, declarer slipped. In a vain attempt to keep control of the diamond suit, he held up dummy's ace. What he could gain by this procedure is hard to see. Actually, it gave West a chance to perfect the defense by leading, and thus showing East, the heart eight. Declarer won and continued his attempt at club establishment by laying down the queen.

But now, when East took his second club trick, he was able to lay down the high heart and thereby give West the opportunity to discard his third club. This resulted in declarer's taking no club trick whatever. East returned another diamond, and dummy's ace was knocked out. Declarer could count that a third round of clubs could not go thru, hence led a spade and played the nine spot. West won with the jack and returned a diamond. East won with the jack and led his remaining club. West ruffed with the deuce of spades and then, to protect his major tenace in trumps, merely exited with the fourth diamond. In all, the defenders took four spade tricks, one heart, two diamonds, and two clubs, thus earning an 800 point penalty at a mere one contract.

If declarer had accepted dummy's diamond ace and immediately returned a club, he would have insured one club trick for himself and held his loss to 500 points. This would not have been so serious, since many East-West teams made a vulnerable game in no trump.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Monday, July 6.

Today's general tendency is to sacrifice long range selfishness [the only good kind] for the shorter variety [that always costs more than it's worth]. Avoid impulsiveness, particularly in the evening; detour the too emotional decision.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, because this is your birthday, brings personal advantage, expansion, if sought and earned: Push June 29-Aug. 12, and Dec. 21-March 12 especially. Inner problems crystalize. Danger: Sept. 30-Oct. 8; Feb. 2-14; June 8-15.

White Dresses Lead in Favor for Day Wear

BY REA SEEGER.

Cooling colors come and go for popularity, but the daytime dresses of spotless white still look the coolest, especially if they are immaculately snow white. Listed under the classification of casual dresses are some of the smartest all-white models ever unpacked. The materials are jersey, and a dull white chalky crêpe, each dress a sleek marvel of summer white perfection ready for the most torrid temperatures.

The simply cut shirtwaist models are always welcome, the even more simply cut straight line affairs with gathered skirts attached to a narrow band belt and a very brief sleeved bodice with round neckline rate second with the exacting shoppers, while the more dressmaker styles, those discreetly frilled models, are this summer's particular successes.

One such model has fine pleated frills in vertical lines on the pocket flaps in the gathered skirt, to match the pleating along the sleeves and a soft frill at the neckline. Others have soft tucks, others boast fagoting, net band insets and so on.

Long sleeved all-white dresses are dramatic possibilities with studs and cuff links of huge pearl buttons or the same idea in contrasting color or the painted stud sets. Sheers and the less transparent summer crêpes are used for these effective models, especially becoming to the tall and willowy streamlines.

Despite the early scare of priorities in regard to material pleated and full gathered skirts are available. In the smartest of tailored models the four gored flared skirts are featured along with some straight line skirts with inverted pleats fore and aft. If you really want to look spic and span during a blistering heat wave, wear white from head to foot.

Fathers Have Big Place in Lives of Their Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Sometimes I wonder if men quite realize how much they are needed, yes, and wanted, in their children's lives. Not as providers or disciplinarians, but as fathers and friends.

Children are eager to adore their father, if he will give them the chance. And if their mother will give them that chance too; for I am sorry to admit, there are some women who are extremely possessive about their children, always calling them my children; and others who even deprecate their husbands to the children, and do not give father "a break."

These situations however, are the exceptions. I believe it is more often the rule that fathers let themselves drift off the scene and do not realize how much their children need them and want them, and how much pleasure they themselves are missing.

Children fall less easily into our conventional and convenient mold in these years between little childhood and the teens than at any other age. And they need then from their fathers a special kind of understanding and companionship.

Particularly when their sons are at this stage, some fathers become very quick, irritable, impatient, and demanding. They become demanding just at a time when their boys are least able to conform to strict demands. Their impatience grows in proportion to their son's heedlessness and irresponsibility, and unfits them to deal wisely with him. Then sharp reproofs are quite likely to take the place of interest and companionships.

Fathers, in these rough and ready years, miss the "little boy-daddy" relationship, and yet aren't able to substitute for it the equally interesting but different "big boy-father" relationship. And so quite often they drift away from each other, just when they could be having such good times together, and when this son of theirs could be learning to "open up" about so many things [mental-emotional-spiritual] that a father should be "in on." With adolescence just ahead, this is a pity.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Dibelka of North Paulina street announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Allison, to Donald Eggen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eggen of Hemet, Cal. She is attending the University of California at Los Angeles, and Mr. Eggen is a student at Whittier college in California.

Dr. and Mrs. Jacob Goodman of Sherwin avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Beth, to Lieut. Albert Bertram Friedmann, United States army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Friedmann of Oglesby avenue. Lieut. Friedmann is stationed on the west coast.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Bromann of North Karlov avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Howard Pollitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Pollitz of North Drake avenue. Mr. Pollitz is an air corps cadet at a southern field.

Crocheted Gloves and Bag

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Short crocheted gloves with a matching handbag are popular and seasonal accessories for any light dress. Little time is required to create the gloves and bag. The stitch on the cuffs is repeated in the bag, and the open mesh for the gloves works up rapidly.

For instructions in crocheting the bag and gloves, No. 1136, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Women in War Work

Miss Ella L. Moseley used to be a housemother at "The Kiddies," a Los Angeles home for children of divorced parents. She used to be a grade schoolteacher, and she is also a once-upon-a-time private tutor. She used to be an advertising executive—she set up her own little agency in Los Angeles and became both saleswoman and executive.

Last March she read an announcement of courses to train women in war work offered at the Illinois Institute of Technology. She wrote for more information. Then she bought a train ticket—one way—to Chicago. She went to the registration office directly from the train. Now she's a student in the 10 week intensive course in industrial chemistry. She is one of 30 women in the class.

Miss Moseley has an A. B. degree from the University of California at Los Angeles. She's had courses in chemistry but finds her current one unbelievably comprehensive. She intends to work in war production thru-out the emergency. Then, she says, she'll become a chemistry teacher, and an especially good one, she thinks, because of her technological school training and industrial experience.

Miss Moseley is among 200 women being trained by the Illinois Institute of Technology in chemistry, ordnance inspection or engineering drafting. She is among the 400 women the school expects to have trained by the end of the summer.

Continuing the course in child welfare service sponsored by the women's coördinating committee of the Oak Park-River Forest defense councils, two sessions will be held this week at the Stevenson playground, Oak Park. The classes will meet at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning and Thursday morning. There will be story telling, a dramatic demonstration and handcraft displays.

Mrs. J. W.'s letter repeats an often received inquiry. "I have spare time in the evenings and should like to help in the war effort. I should like to be a nurse's aide. I have had two years of high school. . . . Could you tell me where I may apply for such a course?"

High school graduation or its equivalent is a requirement for enrollment in the nurse's aide training. The equivalent of a high school diploma often consists of a high school principal's or teacher's verification of the individual's training.

This requirement does not shut out the nonhigh school trained woman from Red Cross instruction, however. There is an alternative in the home nursing course. This is training in care of sick in homes. It is especially helpful in epidemics, in war or in emergencies, when professional nurses and doctors may not be available for home care. The standard course carries 24 hours of instruction. It is open to men as well as women and to boys and girls. Enrollment is at Red Cross headquarters, 616 South Michigan avenue.

Mrs. A. J. M. writes: "I should like to know just where in Chicago one may apply for a position in the ordnance department or one of its branches. You see I am interested in obtaining a secretarial position in one of the government offices, without making it necessary for me to go to Washington.

"Would this type of work require a civil service worker, and if so, when and where do they give the examinations?

"Also, would they give a woman whose husband is in the service of the United States army preference if she measured up to standards?"

All civilian workers in government offices, and these include the civilian office staffs of the Chicago ordnance district, are under civil service. Any one seeking such work must apply at the civil service commission, new postoffice building. The commission has applications for Chicago only and for Washington only. As a rule, a person not making a specific request is given a "Chicago only" blank. Applicants from small towns in the Chicago districts are placed as near their homes as possible. Wives of men in service receive no preference.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Are You Flying, or Am I?

A buyer for a department store flew to Washington to untangle a priorities mixup. Accustomed to flying she dozed quietly in her seat but awakened suddenly to be startled by the sight of two pilots, laughing merrily, standing at the back of the cabin. Wildly she pushed the button for the stewardess. "Who," she asked in alarm, "is at the controls?"

The stewardess explained. Seems the pilot was exactly where he should be up in front and the two men at the rear of the cabin were the co-pilot and an extra pilot which the plane was carrying as a passenger. Simple enough . . . but a bad moment for our lady buyer.

Thirty-Six Years' Practice.

Mrs. C. F. Phillips writes, for the Backward Glance, "It was about 36 years ago I was a student in business college, learning the touch system of typing and am still using it today. Our typewriters were in rows on narrow tables with metal swinging plates before the machine on which to hold our practice cards [I still have mine] and shut off the vision of the keys. There were no caps to cover the individual keys. . . . And I also remember making those copies of letters on tissue . . . and I remember we wore black sateen ruffled aprons or sometimes white ones while at work and took second sheets, folded a corner back and pinned them around our sleeves to keep them clean."

You Knew All the Time.

The answer to Saturday's mathematical puzzle [arranging the 9 digits so that the first three are one-third of the last three and the middle three the result of subtracting the first three from the last] is:

219, 438, 657.

White Collar Wedding.

What do you do when you are holding down a job and getting married? Two days before the wedding the office force gives you a lovely wedding present for which you thank them all. Then you go away on your honeymoon [two weeks] and return to find an unsigned note reminding you of your oversight in not writing a thank-you note.

"I am wondering if I am wrong in believing you are given sufficient time to have a honeymoon and get yourself adjusted a little before you write your thank-you note," asks Marion.

My answer would be yes—the employed wartime bride obviously should be allowed time to write her notes.

For other Marions who are planning to be married this summer or fall I suggest "Your Wedding," by Marjorie Binford Woods. O pooh, you say . . . no girl needs to be told how to get married. But there you're wrong.

"Suppose you are being married on the spur of the moment, and economically, with an eye to army pay. So are hundreds of other people in these flurried days. . . . This book has been designed," says the author, "to deal firmly with wedding complications and the necessary details without skipping a single heartbeat."

From a $200 wedding [including the bride's trousseau] to a $2,000 wedding, from the engagement announcement to the bell-topped bride's cake, Mrs. Woods tells graciously, practically, and convincingly how you can do it for your wedding.

MAJOR LEAGUE ALL-STARS BATTLE TONIGHT

WHITE SOX TRIUMPH, 14-2, LOSE, 13-2; CUBS BEATEN TWICE

LYONS SCORES 252D VICTORY IN FIRST GAME

Ross and Grove Hit Hard in Second.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Those of the 11,673 gathered in Comiskey park yesterday afternoon who are fanciers of sloppy baseball had a jolly outing. In the first game they saw the White Sox break a six game losing streak as Ted Lyons led them to a 14 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns, who helped with seven errors.

In the second game the tables were turned as the Brownies romped to a 13 to 2 decision, Steve Sundra contributing a sacrifice, a double, a triple, and a homer to his six hit pitching accomplishment. Third Sox pitcher in the second game was Thornton Lee, 22 game winner last year, making his first appearance this year. He was much better than his predecessors, but perhaps needs some more competitive work.

Fourth in Row for Ted.

Lyons' victory in the first game was his fourth straight, his seventh of the year, and his 252d as a member of the Sox. He again tied Red Ruffing, who won his 252d American league victory Saturday.

Loser in the first game was Elden Auker, in quest of his 11th victory. Elden was knocked out in the third inning with 11 runs and 11 hits charged to his account. The Sox made two runs in each of the first two innings then broke loose with a seven run third in which the Chicagoans made five hits off Auker and one off his successor, Stan Ferens. Ferens held the Sox runless until the eighth when they got three runs without anybody paying much attention.

Brightest factor in the first game, aside from Lyons' pitching, was Taft Wright's emergence from a week long hitting slump. The pudgy one made two singles and a double and drove in four runs.

Lyons made a double and a single and was robbed of another hit when Turner failed to get to second after Ted had dropped an apparent single in right field.

Home Runs Ruin Ross.

Buck Ross pitched the first five innings of the second game. In the fifth he was given a shower which included Walter Judnich's fifth homer of the year and Mike Chartak's seventh, his third in two days in Comiskey park.

Orval Grove pitched part of the sixth and was charged with five of the six runs the Browns made in that inning before Lee went in with the bases loaded. Lee took over with one out. Chartak singled, scoring two runs, but Vern Stephens, who had been on first, was thrown out by Wally Moses at third, Chartak taking second. Tony Criscola's grounder went past Don Kolloway and Chartak scored. Frankie Hayes, up the second time in the inning, fouled to Turner.

A Flash of the Old Lee.

After pitching a homer to Sundra at the start of the seventh, Lee pitched some tight baseball reminiscent of his spectacular work last season. Don Gutteridge got to second on a single and Wright's fumble and stole third. He had to stay on third while Harlond Clift popped to Kolloway, George McQuinn bounced to Lee and Judnich fanned.

With two down in the eighth Criscola walked and Hayes singled. Sundra doubled, scoring Criscola, then Gutteridge flied out In the ninth Clift popped to Kolloway. McQuinn singled but Judnich flied to Myril Hoag and Bob Kennedy threw out Vern Stephens.

The Browns left town with a record of three out of four in the series and 8 out of 12 in the season series to date. They remain in fifth place,

JOCKEY LANDOLT DROWNED IN LAKE NEAR DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., July 5 (AP).—Charles Landolt, 34 year old Louisville jockey, drowned yesterday in Lake St. Clair when he fell off a small cruiser owned by Ford Harnden of Detroit. Landolt did not have any mounts at Fairgrounds yesterday and accepted Harnden's offer of a boat ride. He was accompanied by his wife and two sons. While the boat was going at full speed, Landolt fell overboard. He attempted to swim back but the tide was against him and he went down before the cruiser could reach him.

Ballet Dancer Retains National Walking Title

Philadelphia, Pa., July 5 (AP).—John P. Connolly, a ballet dancer, successfully defended his national senior AAU 15,000 meter walking title today over the scorched pavements of south Philadelphia. The New York Civic Opera company dancer, representing the New York club, walked the approximately nine and a quarter miles in one hour, 18 minutes 56.4 seconds.

CARDINALS DOWN CUBS, 5-3, 11-6; LEE LOSES NO. 8

Johnny Schmitz Knocked Out in Second Game.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., July 5.—The Cubs folded up twice with the greatest of ease today with the result that the Cardinals ran off with both ends of a double header, 5 to 3, and 11 to 6, before 14,128 fans. The Wrigley team's double collapse thus gave the frisky Cards three of the four week-end games and left the Cubs with a record of 10 won and a similar number lost to show for their three weeks' trip.

Bill Lee, who has lost six of eight games since he won seven of his first nine games earlier in the season, was no match for the Cards in the first game. They whacked him around for nine hits in five innings, scoring all five of their runs off the bespectacled right hander before he was removed for Jake Mooty. It was Lee's eighth loss, one less than he has won.

In the meantime, Harry Gumbert, who hadn't won a game since April 21, limited the Cubs to six hits and won handily with the aid of four double plays, two of which were hit into by Jimmy Foxx.

Schmitz Chased in First.

The Cardinals knocked Johnny Schmitz out before he could get two men out in the first inning of the second game and got away to a five run start. This didn't dismay the Cubs too much. They showed some staying power by scoring one in the third and four in the fifth on homers by Bill Nicholson and Lou Stringer to tie the score.

Hiram Bithorn had relieved Schmitz, So long as he was behind, Bithorn did nobly. But with the score tied and the situation in his hands the Cardinals piled up six runs in the fifth before Bithorn was removed.

The Cards made 10 hits off Schmitz, Bithorn, Vern Olsen, Tot Pressnell, and Paul Erickson. The Cubs disposed of Ernie White during the four run fifth, but couldn't do much against Johnny Beazley and Max Lanier. Beazley pitched to one batter in the fifth to retire the side and was credited with the victory.

FIRST GAME

It was evident from the way Lee was going that he wasn't going to last out the first game. The Cardinals opened up in the second and after getting nine hits in five innings they had him off the scene.

The Cubs scored first with a run in the second inning when Jimmy Foxx walked, took third on Bill Nicholson's single and scored when Jimmy Brown threw out Len Merullo. Stan Musial opened the Cardinal half with a double and Johnny Hopp walked after Ken O'Dea had been retired, moving Musial to third. Musial scored when Merullo threw out Frank Crespi and Martin Marion drove Hopp home with a single.

Both Score in Fourth.

Both scored in the fourth. The Cubs got their run when Nicholson walked and Lou Stringer and Merullo singled. The Cardinals got theirs on a double by O'Dea and a single by Crespi.

Then the Cardinals put the finishing touches on Lee with two more runs in the fifth. With one out Terry Moore and Enos Slaughter singled. Musial popped to Merullo, but O'Dea got his second double of the game when his drive was too hot for Nicholson to handle and Moore and Slaughter scored the fourth and fifth Cardinal runs.

Cubs' Rally in Eighth Checked.

The Cubs had a good rally in the making in the eighth, but it fizzled out. Stan Hack led off with a double and took third while Crespi was throwing out Phil Cavarretta. Lou Novikoff's second hit, a single, brought Hack home. Foxx, however, was

In the Wake of the News

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, July 5.—While we're waiting for the start of the 10th annual All-Star baseball game at the Polo Grounds tomorrow evening let's look back at some of the interesting incidents in the national sport's star spangled series. . . . The site of the original game, which this department promoted in 1933, was decided by the flip of a coin in Commissioner Landis' office. . . . President Will Harridge of the American league called the turn and picked Comiskey park. . . . Had he chosen Wrigley field, it is doubtful if he still would be chief of his league. . . . Al Simmons, White Sox outfielder, led the fan poll conducted by THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers. . . . He got 346,291 votes. . . . Babe Ruth was second with 320,518. . . . The series has drawn 399,732 cash customers and gross receipts less federal taxes total $458,736.76. . . . Expenses of operation for the nine years have amounted to $91,641. . . . All profits have been distributed among charity organizations. . . . The Association of Professional Baseball Players, which cares for sick and indigent members, received $239,895 from the first eight games. . . . The profit from last year's contest, which was $52,226, was donated to the United Service Organization. . . . The largest crowd that ever has seen the All-Star game was 69,831 in 1935 at Cleveland.

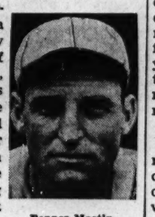
Al Simmons.

William Harridge.

Ailing Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, is the only player originally named to this year's American league team who was a member of the 1933 squad. . . . He has been named to every All-Star lineup except that of 1935 when his batting average slumped to .279. . . . Joe DiMaggio, whose average at the moment is below Dickey's 1935 figure, probably will get into the lineup tomorrow for the seventh time. . . . He has been held to a .160 percentage in his six previous appearances. . . . Lieut. Mickey Cochrane, whose All-Star Service team will meet the winner of tomorrow's game in Cleveland Tuesday night, will be a spectator at the Polo Grounds. . . . Mickey himself was an All-Star in 1934 and 1935. . . . Jimmy Dykes has an All-Star batting average of .667. He played in only one game—1933—and hit safely in two of his three trips to the plate. . . . Charley Gehringer of Detroit has a .500 average for six games. . . . The late Lou Gehrig, Arky Vaughan, and Frank Frisch are tied for the All-Star home run record with two apiece. . . . Lefty Gomez, Yankee southpaw, has won three of the American league's six victories. . . . The winning National league pitchers have been Dizzy Dean, Paul Derringer, and John Vander Meer. . . . Every box seat in Comiskey park was sold the first day mail orders were accepted for the original game.

Only five members of the 1933 National league All-Stars are still in the league's player rosters. . . . They are Paul Waner of Pittsburgh, who now is with the Braves; Dick Bartell of the Phillies, who is now a Giant; Carl Hubbell, then and now with the Giants; Lon Warneke of the Cubs, who is now a Cardinal, and Tony Cuccinello of the Dodgers who is now the property of the Braves. . . . Pepper Martin, third baseman on the original All-Star squad, is manager of Sacramento in the Coast league. . . . Frankie Frisch, second baseman, is managing the Pirates; Chuck Klein, right fielder, is a coach for the Phillies; Chick Hafey, left fielder, has retired;

Charley Gehringer.



Pepper Martin.

Bill Terry, first baseman, is manager of the Giants' farm system; Wally Berger, center fielder, has retired; Jim Wilson, catcher, is manager of the Cubs, and Gabby Hartnett, who shared the catching, is manager of Indianapolis; Bill Hallahan, whose wildness probably cost the National leaguers the ball game, has retired; so has Woody English, an infielder; Pie Traynor, third baseman, is a scout for the Pirates and Frank O'Doul, outfielder, is manager of the San Francisco Seals. . . . John McGraw, manager of the first National league All-Star team, is dead. . . .

Now let's see what has become of the American league's 1933 All-Stars. . . . Ben Chapman, outfielder, is in the minors. . . . Charley Gehringer is a player-coach at Detroit. . . . Babe Ruth is in retirement and Lou Gehrig is dead. . . . Sam West, who then was an outfielder with the Browns, is now with the White Sox. . . . Al Simmons is a coach for Connie Mack's Athletics. . . . Jimmy Dykes, according to President Harridge's office, is manager of the White Sox and Joe Cronin, 1933 shortstop, is managing the Red Sox. . . . Rick Ferrell, who was the starting catcher, is with the Browns. . . . Pitcher Vernon Gomez is still with the Yankees. . . . Alvin Crowder is in the minors and Bob Grove has retired. . . . So has Earl Averill, outfielder. . . .

Players come and players go, but the All-Star game carries on.

Ten Years Ago Today—Lon Warneke pitched the Cubs back into second place with a victory over Philadelphia. . . . Joe Boley, veteran shortstop, was given his unconditional release by the Cleveland Indians. . . . Babe Ruth pounded out his 23d home run and was trailing Jimmy Foxx by six.

TRIBUNE'S SWIM MEET IS FREE TO BOYS AND GIRLS

13th Annual Event Will Start July 18.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Boys and girls who wish to enter the 13th annual Chicagoland 100 yard free style swimming races may compete without paying a fee of any kind. For a number of years Golden Gloves boxers in the novice division have had their registration fees in the AAU paid for them and this policy was extended in 1937 to include the swimming meet.

There is no fee, of course, connected with the filing of your entry. Fill out the blank which is printed daily in these columns. Team entries may be made by the person in charge but the home address of each contestant, as well as the age of each, must be given.

Sanctioned by AAU.

The 100 yard swimming races are promoted by the Chicago Tribune Charities, and they are sanctioned by the Central Association of the Amateur Athletic association. Contestants who are 16 years old and over are required to register with the AAU. THE TRIBUNE annually pays this fee for the 100 yard races so that there is no cost to any contestant. The registration, however, is only for this particular meet.

Swimmers who are not 16 years of age are not required to register with the AAU. More than half of the list of swimmers each year falls into this classification. Heaviest entry ordinarily is in Classes B and C. The former is for those who are 13 and 14 years of age. Class C includes contestants 15 and 16 years of age, and many in this class are exempt from registration.

Entries Close July 13.

Entries will be accepted until midnight, July 13. Lists then will be compiled for the four sectional meets on July 18 and 19. Each contestant will receive a postcard accepting his entry and notifying him of his racing number. The cards for the preliminaries on Saturday, July 18, will be in the mail two days before. The same procedure will be followed for the trials on Sunday.

The sectional races will be held July 18 in Cermak pool, Lyons, Ill., and Sherman park, 52d street and Racine avenue. On July 19 trials will be held in Whealan pool, Devon and Milwaukee avenues, and California park, 3901 North California avenue. Approximately 120 boys and girls will qualify from these four meets for the Chicagoland championships on July 26. These will be staged in the California park pool.

Each qualifier will receive a gold medal. All boys and girls reporting for their trials will be awarded bronze souvenir buttons emblematic of their ability to swim 100 yards.

Shirley Fry, 15, Wins Two Pennsylvania Net Titles

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 5 (AP).—Shirley Fry, 15 year old Akron, O., star, won the Western Pennsylvania women's tennis championship today with a 6-2, 6-2 conquest of Kay Hackett, of Coraopolis. The men's vistor was George Pryor of Edgeworth, who turned back the bid of Bill Blair of Johnstown, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2. Miss Fry later teamed with Edna Shalala of Cleveland to win the women's doubles title from Mrs. Hackett and Dolly Harris of Edgeworth, 6-3, 6-3.

Odman Wins Eastern College Tennis Title

Montclair, N. J., July 5 (AP).—Bob Odman, University of Washington junior, today defeated Dick Bender, Princeton university captain, 6-3, 6-2, in the finals of the 20th annual eastern intercollegiate tennis tournament. Bender salvaged some glory out of the day by teaming with Edgar Buttenheim to win the doubles crown for Princeton with a 6-1, 4-6, 8-6 victory over Lester Hirschfield and James McGuire of St. John's college, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ray Starr. Joe Medwick.

The National leaguers, led by the Dodgers' Durocher, will be after its fourth All-Star victory. Claude Passeau of the Cubs, who was the victim of Ted Williams' ninth inning homer in last year's game, has been announced as the starter.

PASSEAU MAY OPEN ON MOUND FOR NATIONALS

Game On W-G-N

BOB ELSON, W-G-N sports announcer, will broadcast a description of the 10th annual All-Star baseball game between the American and National league over W-G-N and the Mutual network starting at 5:30 p. m. [CWT]. He will be assisted by Mel Allen and Jim Britt.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 5.—The big leagues' tenth annual midsummer baseball spectacle—this one different from its predecessors because this is a war year—will be unfolded tomorrow evening in the Polo Grounds before a crowd which may approximate 50,000. The game will start at 5:30 p. m. [Chicago war time].

Tonight there was a guessing contest on the identities of the starting pitchers, despite the fact that up in Boston, Leo Durocher of Brooklyn and manager of the National leaguers, asserted Claude Passeau, the Cubs 12 game winner, would start on the mound. This could come under the heading of being strictly on the level, or a piece of strategy hiding the true identity of the Nationals' first choice.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees and leader of the American leaguers, was content to let the so-called experts pick his No. 1 man from the list of nine pitchers. The most solid guess seemed to be that Spurgeon Chandler of McCarthy's Yankee staff would be trotted out first.

A National League Mixup.

There were many last minute developments, not the least being a National league mixup on the substitute for Paul Derringer, Cincinnati pitcher who was injured in Pittsburgh today, necessitating his withdrawal.

Ford Frick, president of the National league, summoned the Reds' 36 year old Ray Starr to fill the vacancy. Tonight, when his New York bound train stopped in Providence, R. I., Durocher told reporters that Carl Hubbell, veteran Giant southpaw, would replace Derringer.

Addition of both men would put the Nationals one over the limit, so it is believed one will be chosen at a conference tomorrow morning. Starr won his 12th game against 3 defeats today. Hubbell, All-Star hero of other years, is having the worst season of his long career.

When Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, only active survivor of the 1933 All-Star game, excepting Hubbell, was definitely withdrawn tonight, Hal Wagner, Athletics' young catcher, was added to the squad. Dickey has an injured shoulder.

That Homer by Williams!

Passeau was the victim of Ted Williams' home run with two out in the ninth and two on in the 1941 game in Detroit. This gave the American leaguers a 7 to 5 triumph, their sixth in the nine played. Under a new rule pitchers may work a maximum of five innings in this game. They were restricted to three rounds last season.

The feeling is general that this is to be a National league year. The alleged prophets are thinking this way because of various factors. The Dodgers have been hot and they are expected to carry the load. There will be a lot of Yanks in there, too, but they have sort of cooled lately, at least on the surface. Then there is the matter of Polo Grounds' short foul lines. The power men assembled for the occasion by Durocher thrive on handy fences. But nobody ever accused the American league of lacking fellows able to make themselves annoying in a hitter's paradise such as the home of the Giants.

In the narrow Polo Grounds spaces

SOUTHERN CROSS, WARRIOR RETAIN YACHT TROPHIES

Jackson Park Yawl First Across Lake.

Southern Cross, a 55 foot Jackson Park Yacht club yawl, successfully defended the George Owen Clinch trophy for cruising division time prize honors. The yacht was first to finish the 94 mile course yesterday. It was sailed by Robert P. Benedict Jr., the owner, with his daughter, Farada, and Dr. William Thomas, Kirk Ruger, Robert Lewis, Bill Crowe, Norman Daniels, Frank Evans, and Jack Wolfe, professional.

Warrior is owned and sailed by Victor C. Milliken, judge advocate of the Lake Michigan Yachting association and a member of the Chicago Yacht club. Warrior was second to finish in the fleet, and first of the Universal [racing] division to cross the Belmont harbor finish line.

Retains Morse Trophy.

The yacht, a 50 foot 8 meter class sloop, retained the Col. Robert H. Morse trophy as Universal division winner. The yachts started on the Michigan shore Saturday night.

Colleen, which defeated Falcon in the small Universal class, was sailed by four navy men and one civilian. The R class sloop's crew consisted of Lieut. L. A. Wheeler, the owner, Robert Wheeler, his brother, Lieut. Comm. E. P. Wilson, head of the navigation department at Abbott hall, naval officer training school in Chicago, and Ensigns A. L. Funk and A. W. Phillips.

Nye Wins Third Race.

Harry Nye Jr. of the Chicago Yacht club won the third and final race for the Sterling Morton trophy, Star class series held over the holidays off Belmont harbor. He won the trophy in his Star boat Gale with a total of 39 points to 37 for Gemini, sailed by Commodore John T. Snite of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club.

Tabasco, owned and sailed by Gould Davis, won the Chicago Yacht club's Subscription cup series for R class sloops off Belmont harbor. The 39 foot sloop was sailed by Skipper Davis, William Hansen, Otto Stoessel, Walter Wolfe, and John McEvoy.

Martin Cassell won the 110 class series for a trophy awarded by himself, in sloop Petrel, with 13 points to Gus Martin's 12, in the Sea Puss. Mrs. Ralph Wheelock won the Arrow class crew race held at the Sheridan Shore Yacht club, sailing Lorelei. Her time for the six mile course was 1:19:50.

ECORSE ROWING TEAMS SWEEP CENTRAL TITLES

Detroit, Mich., July 5 (AP). — The Ecorse, Mich., boat club made a sweep of championships in the Central States Rowing regatta today by winning the senior title with 61 points, the same total that clinched junior honors for the club in opening events yesterday.

Competing for the first time under Jim Rice, in his 50th year as crew coach, Ecorse outdistanced six other team competitors in senior events on the Detroit river. A rival Michigan club, Wyandotte, finished second with 27 points, trailed in order by the Central Rowing club of St. Louis, Minnesota Boat club of St. Paul, Detroit Boat club, and St. Louis Rowing club.

Ecorse won the senior eights, doubles and singles, with Lou Tank stroking to the individual title and teaming with James Cameron to take the doubles. The Central club of St. Louis captured the senior fours without coxswain, and John Adelsberger of St. Louis Western won the lightweight singles.

One Sox Who Didn't Score in Seven-Run Third

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Joe Kuhel almost did it—score from second on Lefty Ferens' wild pitch in the third inning of the first White Sox-Browns game in Comiskey park yesterday. But the Sox first baseman was out on Catcher Frankie Hayes' throw to Ferens at the plate. The umpire is Bill Summers.

In their home stand now ended, the Sox won 10 and lost 13. Their most spectacular attainment during this stretch was three out of four over the Yankees, their worst four straight losses to the Indians, followed by three losses in four games with the Browns.

The next opportunity home folks will have to see the Sox, weather permitting, will be on the night of July 21, against the Boston Red Sox.

SOX TO GET A REST

The White Sox have from now till next Thursday evening to get to the Washington ball park to play the Senators under the Griffith stadium lights. They will do likewise Friday night. Saturday afternoon they will play a single game with the Senators. Sunday they will play a double header against the Athletics and Monday they will go under the lights again. Tuesday they will play an afternoon game in Philadelphia, then go on to Boston for three afternoons. They will wind up their third eastern trip with a two day visit in New York—Saturday and Sunday, July 18 and 19.

The Sox yesterday released Pitcher Pete Appleton, for two and a half years a member of the bullpen corps. Year before last, Pete won four and lost none for the Sox, and last year he lost three and won none. His major league record with Cincinnati, Boston Red Sox, Cleveland, New York Yankees, Washington and the Sox is 55 victories and 65 defeats.

Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns, who on Saturday restored himself to the active player list, caught in the first game yesterday from the fifth inning on. The Sox were leading, 11 to 1, and big hearted Luke figured it was a good opportunity to give Frankie Hayes a bit of a rest.

FOUR STAKES ON WEEK'S SCHEDULE FOR ARLINGTON

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Four stakes are on the Arlington Park schedule for this week. The $30,000 Lassie, which annually draws many of the most fashionable fillies in the country, will be run on Saturday, the co-feature being the $5,000 Green Velvet handicap over the grass course. In midweek there will be the $5,000 Cinderella handicap for fillies and mares on Wednesday and the $3,000 Skokie handicap on Thursday.

The value of the Lassie, which is financed by $10,000 in added money from the track, plus fees on a futurity basis, now is $28,600. Inasmuch as starters will pay an additional $500 it will gross over $30,000.

Good Field Entered.

A sharp field is pointing for this event. The Calumet farm has a brilliant prospect—Easy Lass, a daughter of Blenheim II., out of Slow and Easy. This fashionably bred filly gave a splendid performance in winning earlier during the Arlington meeting.

Fair Weather, another strong candidate, is due to arrive today with the Joseph E. Widener string of horses which is being shipped in from the east. Trainer Danny Stewart thought so much of her that she was made a supplemental entry at a special fee of $2,000.

Two other supplemental entries are J. D. Weil's Wiseasyou and Emerson F. Woodward's Valdina Marl. A division of the Valdina stable, which has been consigned to Trainer Roscoe Goose, is due to arrive during the week. It will include both Valdina Marl and the stable's futurity candidate, Valdina Sol.

Five Other Probables.

Among the other probable starters in the Lassie are W. E. Boeing's Clickety Clack, Norman Church's Blenheim Girl, Woolford farm's Even Stitch, Mrs. Ethel du Pont Weir's Parachutist, and Mrs. R. H. Haight's Adroit.

The Green Velvet handicap, which shares interest with the Lassie, is the second stake of the Arlington meeting to be run on the turf. Haichow won the first of these—the Rolling Lawn—last week. The climax of the turf campaign will be the $10,000 Grassland on Wednesday, July 22.

Haichow will defend his prestige as a grass runner but he'll have to hustle. Among his rivals are expected to be Equifox, Staretor, Reading II., Welcome Pass, Step By, Cherry Trifle, Moscow II., Gallant Play, Pumpgun, Fairy Mant, and Equitable.

Miss Dogwood in Cinderella.

Brownell Comb's Miss Dogwood, one of the best fillies of last season, is being pointed for the Cinderella stakes on Wednesday. Twenty-one are on the list of eligibles and a fast field is expected to go to the post.

The Skokie handicap is a dash for milers and will bring out quite a few good performers in this popular division. These are expected to include Best Seller, Dogpatch, Technician, Smacked, and others which are capable of blazing speed over this route.

DEWEY THORSEN OF BATAVIA WINS ARCHERY TITLE

Charleston, W. Va., July 5 (AP).—Dewey Thorsen of Batavia, Ill., rolled up 2,985 points today in the single York and double American rounds of the Midwestern Archery association's 16th annual tournament.

The champion was outhit 319 to 303 by Carl Strang of Dearborn, Mich., but Thorsen's score was 107 points better than Strang's 1,978 tally. Walter Sharp of Milwaukee, with 291 hits and 1,961 points, was third.

Mrs. Jean Finnegan of Fort Thomas, Ky., registered 2,030 points on 288 hits to take the women's title, upsetting Mildred Miller, the defending champion from Milwaukee. Henry Reinecke Jr. of Chicago captured the junior crown with a score of 1,794 in 251 hits.

A. G. Russell of Chicago, was elected president of the association, and Chicago was chosen for the 1943 tournament.

French Wins Ninth Straight as Dodgers, Braves Break Even

Boston, Mass., July 5 (AP).—The Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers broke even today, Jim Tobin scoring his eighth victory of the season for Boston in the opener, 6 to 5, while Larry French ran his unbeaten string to nine by winning the second, 2 to 1.

Brooklyn scored the winning run in the eighth inning of the second game without making a base hit. Arky Vaughan opened by drawing a base on balls and was sacrificed to second by Pete Reiser. Al Javery, the Boston pitcher, tried to pick him off second and Vaughan went to third when the throw was wide. Joe Medwick brought him home with a long fly.

REDS, PIRATES SPLIT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 5 (AP).—Pitcher Ray Starr captured his 12th game of the season, 5 to 2, today to give Cincinnati an even split in a double header with Pittsburgh after the Pirates had won the opener, 4 to 3, but the National league lost one of its pitchers, Paul Derringer, for tomorrow's All-Star game in New York.

Derringer, who started the opener for the Reds, was felled by a line drive from Bob Elliott's bat during a three run Pirate rally in the sixth inning. Physicians ordered an X-ray to determine the full extent of an injury above the left knee cap.

Rip Sewell had to pitch out of several tight spots to win his eighth game of the season in the opener. He was touched for 12 hits. Scores:

Pick Joyce to Beat Dubs in Bout Tonight

Willie Joyce, lightweight challenger from Gary, Ind., will resume his quest for a title bout with Sammy Angott in a 10 round return contest against Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont., in Marigold outdoor arena, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Even tho Dubs will be carrying about 144 pounds, six more than his rival is expected to weigh, Joyce is favored to score his seventh consecutive victory. Willie's previous conquest of Dubs in the same arena a year ago is the reason. However, Dubs is not a soft touch and Willie will have to be in his best form. In their earlier fight, Dubs traded punch for punch in the 10th round in a desperate effort to swing the decision his way.

Joyce's Record Better.

During the last 12 months, Joyce has lost only two decisions in 14 appearances [one of these he avenged in a rematch], while Dubs was defeated four times in 15 starts.

Johnny O'Brien, Calumet City middleweight, who hasn't fought since stopping Danny Lancaster on March 16, will be back in action in a six round semiwindup against Jimmy Pierce of West Allis, Wis. Five round events will bring together Tito Taylor, south side welterweight, and Johnny Johnson, and Frankie Petroff, Peoria 147 pounder, and Al Walker. Taylor, one of the most popular boxers to appear in this city in recent years, will join the army next Monday. A four round opener involves Jimmy Varketta, competent Cleveland lightweight, and Jerry Hoffman of Milwaukee.

Wrestlers in White City.

Two engagements will feature the wrestling card in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. Bert Rubi will meet Ignacio Martinez, and Rufus Jones will encounter George Becker. . . . Leo Rodak, Chicago 135 pound boxer, left yesterday for West Haven, Conn., where he clashes in 10 rounds with Aldo Spoldi Thursday. Spoldi is barred from competing in this state by the Illinois Athletic commission because he is an enemy alien. . . . King Levinsky, former west side heavyweight, expects to be inducted today.

SERVICE TEAM WINS ALL-STAR TUNEUP, 8 TO 2

Flint, Mich., July 5 (AP).—Great Lakes, assisted by several army men who as former major leaguers will play Tuesday night in the Service All-Star game at Cleveland, tuned up today with an 8 to 2 victory over a Flint amateur baseball federation all-star team.

Sam Chapman, former Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder, smashed a 400 foot home run to top the 11 hit Great Lakes attack. Two other former American leaguers, Pat Mullin of Detroit and Cecil Travis of Washington, hit triples. Travis drove in three runs.

CARDINALS DOWN CUBS, 5-3, 11-6 LEE LOSES NO. 8

The Cubs threatened no more after the eighth. Charley Gilbert, batting for Stringer in the ninth, walked, but Rip Russell batted for Merullo and hit into a double play.

SECOND GAME

The Cardinals' five run first inning in the second was accomplished with the aid of three singles, three walks, a hit batsman, and a wild pitch. Schmitz's troubles started when Brown and Moore beat out hits to deep short. Schmitz then hit Slaughter with a pitched ball and the bases were filled. Brown scored on a wild pitch and Triplett walked. Walker Cooper singled to center to score Moore and Slaughter. Hopp drew a pass and the bases were again filled. Crespi fanned, but Marion walked and Triplett scored. Then Bithorn came in and White hit a long fly which scored Walker Cooper. The agony ended when Merullo threw out Brown.

Nicholson, Stringer Connect.

The Cubs got one of these runs back in the third on Hack's single, Foxx's walk, and Nicholson's single. They tied the score in the four run Cub fifth. Hack got on when Harry Walker dropped his fly ball in center field and after Cavarretta walked Novikoff filled the bases by beating out a bunt. Foxx hit into a double play, but the Cubs still had two men on base when Nicholson came up. He slashed one into the right center for his eighth homer of the season. Stringer then knocked his seventh homer into the left field bleachers.

With the ball game in his hands, Bithorn collapsed and before Olsen could get the side out in the fifth a total of six more Cardinal runs clattered across the plate. During this debacle there was a triple by Walker Cooper, doubles by Brown and Crespi, and singles by Walker and Musial, not to mention walks by Hopp and Marion and a bad throw by Stringer, which the official scorer called an error for Merullo.

Cubs Make a 2 Game Jaunt to Wisconsin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., July 5.—The Cubs will not have the benefit of three off-days as prescribed by the schedule during the All-Star games interlude. Instead, they will be occupied tomorrow night and Tuesday night with exhibitions in Madison and Janesville, Wis. They will rest Wednesday in preparation for the opener of a three game series with the Braves on Thursday in Wrigley field.

'PAY AS YOU GO' SCALE IS LIKELY FOR HENDERSON

Congress Tightens Purse Strings on OPA.

Washington, D. C., July 5 (AP).—Congress may keep a finger on price control and rationing by limiting immediate appropriations and requiring the Office of Price Administration to ask for more money before it can broaden its present program.

Members of a senate appropriations subcommittee were reported today to have instructed Price Administrator Leon Henderson to trim his requests for funds to the minimum necessary to carry on without expanding operations, with the understanding that when and if he believed it necessary to extend rationing or other controls, he could come back for additional funds to finance the expansion.

Would Provide Check.

This, it was observed, would give congress a check on any enlargement of the present rationing program, covering sugar, gasoline in 17 eastern states, automobiles, tires, typewriters, and bicycles. Henderson has told the committee that rationing of about 15 major groups of items might become necessary within a year.

There has been dissatisfaction with sugar and gasoline rationing orders which many legislators felt was reflected in house action cutting to 75 million dollars the 161 millions Henderson requested for operation of the OPA for the next 12 months.

Members said the senate committee, considering a plea that it restore the house cut, had insisted that Henderson produce figures to show exactly how many employés he must have to keep the present program operating. This done, the committee was said to be willing to give him the amount he needed on that basis.

Grange Raps Program.

Henderson has asked congress to approve subsidies to industries which, because of higher costs, cannot operate under present price ceilings. Authorizing last week a 15 per cent increase in prices of canned fruits, he said it was necessary because of lack of such subsidies.

Taking issue with Henderson, the National Grange made public today a letter to chairmen of house and senate appropriations and agriculture committees contending ceiling price changes were necessary because Henderson's "policy resulted in prices so low for farmers that they could not cover the cost of harvesting."

The Grange asked an investigation, asserting "the truth is that the program is unworkable and it has become necessary to modify it in order to maintain production."

THREE MORE MUTUAL RADIO STATIONS JOIN STOCKHOLDERS' LIST

Three additional member stations of the Mutual Broadcasting system—WFBR, Baltimore, WCAE, Pittsburgh, and WGR, Buffalo—will become shareholders in the network, and one present stockholder, the United Broadcasting company [WHK-WCLE, Cleveland, and WHKC, Columbus] will increase its shareholdings, according to an announcement by W. E. Macfarlane, president of the network.

This action is consistent with the Mutual network's plan for enlargement and diversification of its stock ownership among leading, independent radio stations affiliated with the chain, Macfarlane said. The additional shares of capital stock will give these stations further participation with other Mutual stockholders in the underwriting and management of the corporation.

The complete list of Mutual Broadcasting system stockholders as of Oct. 1 will be:

WOR, New York; Bamberger Broadcasting service; WGN, Chicago, WGN, Inc.; Don Lee Broadcasting system; United Broadcasting company; WFBR, Baltimore, Baltimore Radio Show, Inc.; WCAE, Pittsburgh, WCAE, Inc.; WGR, Buffalo, Buffalo Broadcasting corporation; Yankee Network of New England; CKLW, Windsor, Detroit, Western Ontario Broadcasting Co., Ltd.; and WKRC, Cincinnati, Cincinnati Times Star company.

Directors and stockholders, meeting last Thursday in the Drake hotel, discussed a new and simplified rate plan, which when adopted and put into effect, is expected to encourage network advertisers to purchase additional markets. Plans for improved programming were adopted.

STEEL PRIORITY CHANGES TO AID WAR DELIVERIES

Mills Welcome Rule as Partial Solution.

Application of new steel priority "is expected to be made slowly to cause as little disruption as possible," the magazine Steel reported yesterday.

The ratings, designated as AAA, AA-1, AA-2, etc., were adopted to untangle "the situation resulting from an excess of A-1-A priorities, on which had been superimposed a mass of allocations and directives." With the heavy load on mills, the plan is "welcomed as at least a partial solution," Steel said.

Little Change in July.

"Probably not much effect will be apparent on shipments in July. It means that some holders of A-1-A ratings will not get steel that might have been delivered under the former plan. The volume of steel orders under allocations and priorities is estimated at double what it was in May and will total about 90 per cent of July deliveries. The remaining 10 per cent will go to highest rated orders, probably not lower than AA-2.

Holiday Effect Is Small.

"Steelmaking was little effected by the Independence day holiday at the week-end. Operations declined one point to 97½ per cent, partly due to lack of scrap and necessity for furnace repair. A year ago the corresponding week showed a drop of 7½ points, mainly from observance of the holiday."

TREASURY RULING.

I am considering the purchase of some government bonds with the intention of naming an invalid sister as beneficiary on the bonds. Upon my death would my wife have an interest in these securities?—C. N. M.

Answer: The treasury department has ruled that upon the death of the registered owner of a government bond the beneficiary named on the bond would have the sole right of ownership. In the case where the wife is not named as a beneficiary she would have no interest in the bond. To date there has been no legal ruling that is contrary to the treasury's ruling.

BANKS HANDLING BIGGEST PART IN WAR FINANCING

Huge Deposits Laid to Deficit Spending.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The midyear statements of Chicago banks, disclosing a continuation of 10 years of deposit growth, emphasize how closely the country's commercial banks are tied in with the government's wartime financing.

Chicago bank deposits have been expanding steadily since the beginning of 1933. During that period combined deposits rose from 1 billion 400 million, the low point reached shortly before the national banking holiday, to the present all time peak of 4 billion 800 million dollars.

The deposit growth of Chicago banks, which corresponds closely with the national trend, illustrates the effects of the government's deficit financing policy on the banking system.

Blame Federal Borrowing.

The government's prewar financing policy by which the commercial banks absorbed most of the new treasury securities was primarily responsible for piling up the record bank deposits. As the government borrowed from the commercial banks to cover its huge deficits, it was causing a corresponding expansion in deposits.

The treasury is now seeking to restrict the rôle of the commercial banks in the financing of wartime deficits. Its intensive drive to sell war bonds to wage earners and other nonbanking investors is part of this effort. By this program it seeks to restrain as far as possible the wartime growth in deposits. It is one of the objectives of the new series of measures designed to check the economic forces that might bring about serious inflation.

Banks Still U. S. Mainstay.

The commercial banks, however, will continue to be the main source of funds borrowed by the government. The total of new securities to be sold the public during the current fiscal year is estimated at 47 billion dollars. Of this amount 12 billions are expected to be raised thru the sale of savings bonds to individuals. Other nonbanking investors are expected to purchase 6 billions of governments. This leaves about 29 billions to be absorbed by the commercial banks. If this estimate is realized, it will bring about a corresponding expansion in deposits.

Commenting on these prospects, the National City Bank of New York observes that many people do not understand how the banks can absorb such a tremendous volume of government securities.

Money Comes Back Quickly.

"The explanation," the bank adds, "is that when the banks subscribe to government securities and pay for them by making bank deposits available to the treasury, such deposits, after they have been collected into the treasury account, are disbursed for wages, materials and other purposes. Thus they return quite promptly to the banking system and remain there. This does not mean that the new deposits necessarily remain with the same banks where they originated, but merely that for the banking system as a whole there is no loss of deposits."

Because the banks use credit, not cash, to pay for the securities, they can continue the process as long as they have unemployed reserve funds to meet the legal reserve requirements for the new deposits.

CURTAILED CIVILIAN SHOE PRODUCTION IS FORECAST BY MAKER

No serious shortage of shoes is likely in 1942 altho scarcities of materials are expected to result in curtailed civilian production, the International Shoe company, St. Louis, the nation's largest shoe manufacturer, said yesterday in a semi-annual report to stockholders.

"A growing shortage of materials for civilian shoes is anticipated for the second half of the year, probably resulting in curtailed production thruout the industry in that period," Frank C. Rand, chairman, and Byron A. Gray, president, said.

"However, both last year and the first half of this year, production of shoes was substantially in excess of normal consumer requirements, indicating that an important reserve supply of shoes has been established in the hands of dealers and consumers. This should offset in large measure decreased production and prevent any serious shortage of shoes from developing during the year."

For the six months ended May 31, the report showed, the company earned $3,631,535, equal to $1.08 a common share, compared with $2,750,812, or 82 cents a share, in the corresponding period a year before. Provision for federal taxes in the 1942 period was $3,202,067.

NorthCarolinaShipbuilding Yards Go on 24 Hour Basis

Wilmington, N. C., July 5 [Special].—Production of 10,000 ton Liberty freighters for the maritime commission will go on a 24 hour daily basis tomorrow at the yards of the North Carolina Shipbuilding company, officials announced. A vessel is being launched every six days.

Outlying Banks Report Rising Deposits and Shrinking Loans

Outlying Chicago banks shared in the general decrease in loans and discounts from levels prevailing in the first quarter of this year, an analysis of statements of condition as of June 30 showed yesterday.

Bankers said business borrowing usually slackens in the June quarter, but other influences also were cited. These included government financial assistance to a number of companies engaged in war work, the demise of a number of industries because of inability to shift to a war production basis, and the curtailment of operations by others.

Deposits Increase Generally.

Total deposits increased generally among the outlying banks. There was a decline in the preceding quarter.

The Drovers National bank reported loans and discounts of $5,093,000 on June 30, compared with $5,329,000 on April 4, and total deposits of $49,023,000, against $45,853,000. Loans and discounts of the Live Stock National bank declined to $5,743,000 from $6,608,000, while deposits rose to $33,427,000 from $32,385,000.

The Chicago City Bank and Trust company's loans and discounts were $9,779,000, against $10,557,000, and deposits totaled $34,085,000, compared with $33,504,000 on April 4. Loans and discounts of the Mercantile National Bank of Chicago were $5,115,000, against $6,096,000, while deposits advanced to $27,786,000 from $21,526,000.

Lawndale Loans Increase.

The Lawndale National bank was an exception to the general trend, with loans and discounts of $2,660,000 on June 30, compared with $2,647,000 on April 4. Total deposits were $12,972,000, against $12,565,000.

The Lake View Trust and Savings bank had loans and discounts of $858,000, compared with $926,000, and total deposits of $35,757,000, compared with $34,260,000. The Mid-City National bank reported loans and discounts of $3,874,000, against $4,286,000, while total deposits were $18,470,000, against $16,462,000.

Loans and discounts of the Pioneer Trust and Savings bank fell to $6,127,000 from $6,556,000, and total deposits rose to $27,244,000 from $26,162,000.

U. S. EXPERTS AID COLOMBIA IN ITS RUBBER RESEARCH

New York, July 5 (AP).—Dr. Alfonso Lopez, president-elect of Colombia, said today that American rubber growing experts are studying the possibilities of rubber production from wild rubber plants in the Latin nation. He told reporters that a survey of his country's wild rubber had shown "more than had been anticipated."

Discussing the agreement between the Colombian and United States governments to increase Colombia's production of rubber, he said he could not predict that the increase would substantially relieve the shortage in this country. All rubber produced in Colombia in excess of domestic needs will go to the United States, he said.

Dr. Lopez will go to Washington Tuesday to visit President Roosevelt.

SOUTHERN MINE UNITS QUIT LEWIS; CHARGE HE'S 'WRECKING' LABOR

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 5 (AP).—Charging that John L. Lewis is attempting to "wreck the labor movement," Bernard Borah, regional director of district 45, United Mine Workers of America, today announced his resignation and a mass withdrawal of southern locals of district 50.

Borah said the withdrawing units will become affiliated directly with the CIO thru the National Council of Coke, Gas, and Chemical Workers.

FURNITURE MEN OPEN 2 WEEKS' MEETING TODAY

Drop in Attendance Held Probable.

Chicago's summer home furnishings market opens today for a two weeks run, and nearly 10,000 representatives of retail stores are expected for fall and winter buying and to consider wartime problems in the home furnishings field.

Officials of the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart expect attendance to drop from the record-breaking level of a year ago, altho they predict about the same number of stores will be represented. Stores generally will send fewer buyers, they say, because of transportation restrictions and other factors.

Withhold Sales Forecasts.

Officials of the two buildings were reticent in predicting buying volume. Before the general price freezing order, they said, many retailers built up sizable inventories as a hedge against rising prices, a trend which the price order checked. The price ceilings also have curtailed overbuying by consumers. Counteracting these factors, they assert, is a growing fear among retailers that shipping difficulties might slow or curtail deliveries in the fall or winter.

Displays of new developments in the plastic wood manufacturing field are expected to attract much attention among retailers. Furniture leaders say recent research, stimulated by wartime metal shortages, has brought about significant improvements in the plastic wood furniture.

Representatives of several government agencies will attend the markets to answer questions of retailers and manufacturers. They are setting up headquarters in the American Furniture Mart.

WPB Aid to Speak.

Government representatives, manufacturers, and retailers will speak at several meetings in connection with the markets, William A. Adams, chief of the War Production board furniture industry branch, will speak at a dinner in the American Furniture Mart Tuesday, and others will address National Retail Furniture association breakfasts Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

The usual run of meetings, including those of the Associated Merchandising corporation and the Allied Purchasing corporation, will be in progress at the Merchandise Mart.

As a result of the war, trade sources said, style trends will be marked by a return to colonial and early American designs. There will be an increase in soft color tones, they added.

U. S. Lumber Production Shows 3% Gain in Week

The National Lumber Manufacturers association reported that lumber production for the week ended June 27 totaled 273,816,000 feet, 3 per cent more than in the preceding week, and 3 per cent less than a year ago.

Trio of Steel Plant Employes Cited to Tribune for War Deeds

Production records for a single plate mill at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's Gary works were broken by three employés, the company announced yesterday. The trio, operating the machine in three consecutive shifts, produced a record amount of plates for the 24 hour period, and one of them established a new record for eight hours.

The individual mark was set by Lyle Morrison, 477 Arthur street, Gary. Sharing honors with him in the outstanding 24 hour performance were Charles Sanford, 464 Garfield street, Valparaiso, Ind., and Charles Barnes, who lives on his farm near Westville, Ind.

They're Tribune Prize "Timber."

Their accomplishments were cited yesterday as the type THE TRIBUNE will reward in its monthly presentations to Chicago area war workers. Solid gold lapel buttons will be given to the men thus honored, while a similar pin will be given women.

The 80 inch rolling mill they operate has been converted from peacetime output to production of plates for ships. Because of the shipping shortage their work is especially important to the nation's war effort at this time. Their job is difficult, for it requires strength, endurance, skill, and intelligence. An error on their part might damage the plates, or break the valuable machine.

Company officials, unable to disclose actual production figures because of censorship, said the accomplishment of the three men was made possible only by unusual devotion to duty.

Helmet Steel Record Set.

Carnegie-Illinois officials also cited William Slicker, East Gary, who rolled 30 tons of steel needed for helmets, asserting three tons was "good work" during the last war. Altho equipment and methods have been improved during the last quarter century, Slicker's achievement was possible only because of "extraordinary application and concentration," they said.

Nominations of outstanding men or women should be forwarded to the War Workers Award Editor, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. The first winners will be chosen about Aug. 10 by an independent committee consisting of Henry T. Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology; Dean Charles M. Thompson, head of the University of Illinois School of Commerce, and James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers association.

Clothing Price Cuts Ordered for Producers

Washington, D. C., July 5 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration lowered manufacturers' and wholesalers' prices for men's and boys' outer clothing today to relieve the profit squeeze on retailers without boosting the cost to consumers. The regulation, effective next Saturday, leaves retail prices undisturbed at the levels of last March.

The result, OPA said, would be to permit the maintenance of existing retail prices without bringing about a deterioration in quality of apparel.

Change Base Periods.

The "roll-back" on manufacturers and wholesalers—which requires them to absorb a larger share of cost increases in the industry—is accomplished by pushing back the base ceiling price dates to various periods earlier than March and then permitting specified percentage mark-ups to reflect increases in costs of materials, trimmings, and labor.

This method applies to retailers in the sale of topcoats and overcoats and of tropical weight clothing which were not being offered for sale generally during the March base period.

Apply to Other Groups.

In addition, the formulas apply to all clothing sold by "tailors to the trade" and "made to measure" shops. These establishments take orders and measurements but do not themselves manufacture the garments.

[Some Chicago clothiers expressed surprise last night that the OPA announcement indicated overcoats and topcoats would be maintained at the March retail levels. Altho they declined formal comment pending receipt of the order, they said the understanding in the trade was that 14 per cent would be added to the retail price of coats selling up to $30, and an additional 8 per cent for each dollar above that level.]

COSTS REDUCED ON SYNTHETIC RUBBER PLANTS

WPB May Not Spend Full 650 Millions.

Washington, D. C., July 5 (AP).—With two major plants in production, government officials have discovered that making synthetic rubber will not cost as much as they thought it would. Money is no object in the 800,000 tons a year program, but Rubber Coordinator Arthur B. Newhall was pleased nevertheless today to report that the program probably would not require all the 650 million dollars which congress authorized for it.

Arthur B. Newhall.

BUYING BY MILLS RALLIES WHEAT FROM JUNE LOWS

Reflects Rise in Week's Flour Volume.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Entrance of flour mills into the grain markets pushed wheat prices upward early last week from the eight and one-half month lows to which they had sunk at the end of June on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Both government agencies and the large bakers placed orders for substantial quantities of flour, millers reported. Market operators estimated that close to 6 million bushels of wheat were involved.

Price movements, however, were erratic as congress debated the agriculture appropriations bill.

Hedge Selling Absorbed.

The market readily absorbed hedge selling of futures as movement of the new crop expanded. Trade statisticians predicted a harvest of more than 900 million bushels of wheat this year, which is only about 45 million bushels short of the third largest crop on record, produced last year.

A crop of 900 million bushels this year added to the carryover from last year's harvest would provide the United States with a supply of about 1 billion 530 million bushels, by far the largest in the nation's history. The department of agriculture reports that over the last 10 years domestic consumption averaged 688 million bushels.

Corn Crop a Factor.

Market observers say the outcome of the 1942 corn crop likely will have far reaching effects on wheat prices. If the corn crop is small, grain men say it would force farmers to buy vast amounts of wheat to feed the record number of hogs and cattle being raised. A large corn crop, however, might result in further restrictions being placed on wheat acreage for next year, grain men reason.

Corn futures were under the influence of large scale country selling. Grain men reported that every time the July future topped 87 cents, country offerings increased tremendously. Oats, rye, and soy beans for the most part followed price trends of the other markets.

POWER SHORTAGE COSTS ARKANSAS MORE WAR UNITS

Washington, D. C., July 5 (AP).—Rep. Clyde T. Ellis [D., Ark.] said tonight that Arkansas sites for a lead and zinc smelter and a munitions plant had been disapproved because of lack of power.

He made the announcement after conferences with officials of the federal power commission and other agencies in which he was told that the smelter would require 5,000 kilowatts of power and the munitions plants 10,000 kilowatts.

"The war production program in Arkansas is at a standstill because of a lack of power," he said.

Publicly Held Government Obligations Much Larger

New York, July 5 [Special].—Direct obligations of the United States government in the hands of the public which will mature within 12 months amount to $7,174,831,600. They consist of treasury notes, certificates of indebtedness and noninterest bearing discount bills. The total was $6,864,578,600 a week ago, and $2,280,997,400 a year ago.

Call Two Day Job Conference to Help Displaced Employes

A two day conference, the first of its kind in the country, aimed at helping displaced workers to find jobs, will be held in the Palmer House next Thursday and Friday under the joint direction of government officials and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The meeting, open to the public, is designed to help unemployed white collar men, professional men, skilled and unskilled labor, as well as housewives, to obtain full time work in the war production program and at the same time to answer the personnel needs of employers who need more workers to fulfill their war contracts.

Seek Displaced Executives.

Especially invited to the meetings are: Business men, executives, salesmen, and others who have been temporarily displaced from civilian pursuits by war conditions; executives desiring to offer their specialized services to the government; skilled and unskilled workers desiring to change to war jobs; persons without business or industrial experience or training [including housewives]; and personnel officials in business and industry.

At a luncheon meeting opening the conference Thursday Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSherry, executive director of the War Man Power commission, will outline the nonmilitary man power needs of the government and war industries, government training facilities available to those seeking war work, and channels thru which individuals can offer their talents. The afternoon session will be directed by representatives of government agencies. Job openings for professional and business men, clerical workers and office supervisors will be outlined.

Essential Industry Needs.

Friday morning's meeting will be taken over by spokesmen describing man power needs in essential industries such as steel, machine tool, food, plastics, electrical equipment, munitions, armaments, precision instrument, chemical, building construction, and printing industries. Speakers will include Garvey G. Ellerd, vice president of Armour & Co.; Chester Hepler, United States employment service, and Maj. S. W. Warfel, chief occupation deferment officer of the selective service system in Illinois.

Bankers Fear Bill's Effect on Farm Lending

Elimination of private interests from the farm mortgage field, with the federal government in control of all farm lending, is foreseen if the proposed Fulmer bill is enacted by congress. This was the forecast yesterday of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America in a report signed by S. M. Waters, Minneapolis, chairman of its farm loan committee.

The Fulmer bill is a revision of a measure reorganizing the federal farm credit system which the association and many other banking and farm organizations had opposed.

Termed Socialization.

"The legislation means virtual socialization of the nation's farm mortgage credit system" said Frederick P. Champ, president of the association.

"Some of the more inequitable provisions of the original bill have been eliminated, but the broad general principles of making farm mortgage lending a wholly government undertaking remain intact. Such legislation ought to be left for consideration after we have won the war."

The bill means that the federal land banks would no longer be banks but would become agencies of the Farm Credit administration in a system of federally operated farm mortgage financing, the report said.

Stock to Be Retired.

All stock of the banks and the National Farm Loan association would be retired at par for cash. These banks, without capital or stockholders, would depend entirely on government appropriations for guaranty funds.

"The interest rate on new land bank loans is fixed at 4 per cent until June 30, 1946, which is below the present market except in a few favored sections of the country" the report said.

"This will tend to drive private competition out of all territories except these favored few."

WPB May Not Require Full 650 Millions.

plants into production in May and Firestone Tire and Rubber company the second last month. The United States Rubber company is scheduled to turn out Buna S type rubber in August, and the B. F. Goodrich company in November. Goodrich has had a small privately financed plant in operation some time with 1,500 tons monthly capacity.

As the program stands, about three-fourths of the synthetic rubber is to come from use of a petroleum base and the remainder from use of alcohol. However, the corn belt, supplying grain for alcohol, may play a larger part in beating the rubber shortage.

Increase Under Consideration.

A 200,000 ton increase in the program is under discusion. Farm-minded senators are backing legislation to assure that this expansion would call for use of grain.

Lowered cost estimates of the synthetic program result in part from what WPB calls the "strip-teasing" of specifications—the substitution of cheaper and more plentiful materials for steel plates, copper and other scarce metals in plant construction.

Despite the driblets of synthetic already coming in, a survey of the rubber situation at this time shows nothing immediately encouraging for the motorist worried about his tires.

Gradual Rise Expected.

Only 25,000 to 30,000 tons are expected this year, altho a rate of 120,000 tons is scheduled to be reached by the year's end. Next year, unless forecasts are upset, about 300,000 tons will be turned out. By the end of 1943 the full production rate of 800,000 tons a year is scheduled.

Not until 1944 at the earliest will there be any synthetic rubber for the average civilian, according to current prospects.

M'NARY BACKS F. D. R. ON WHEAT SALES AT BELOW PARITY PRICES

Washington, July 5 (AP).—Senate Republican Leader Charles L. McNary [Ore.] backed today President Roosevelt's demand that congress permit the government to sell surplus wheat for live stock feed at about 83 cents a bushel instead of the parity price of $1.34.

McNary, an influential member of the senate's farm bloc, predicted that house opposition to a senate-approved farm bill authorizing the sale of up to 125,000,000 bushels of wheat at the lower price would collapse in the face of the President's stand.

"I think that when the first opportunity arises, the house will reverse itself and vote for the senate amendment which the President supports," McNary told reporters.

The grain sale provision has been the chief major point of controversy in the senate and house handling of the regular 680 million dollar agriculture department appropriations bill.
